Lancaster Farming

VOL. 30 No. 49 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 12, 1985 | $7.50 per Year

An aerial view of Sperry New Holland's manufacturing plant in New Holland.

Ford buys Sperry New Holland

NEW HOLLAND — Ford Motor Company has reached agreement to purchase Sperry New Holland, culminating months of rumor and speculation about the joining of the two ag machine giants.

The beleaguered New Holland firm had fallen on rough times over the past several years, as farm equipment purchases fell in the face of declining commodity prices.

The deal with Ford, however, is being touted as an ideal marriage of two farm equipment manufacturers, with Ford's line of tractors matching New Holland's line of haying and harvesting equipment, including combines New Holland does not make tractors while Ford has none of the diversity of the New Holland line

Ford will pay $330 million for New Holland's worldwide assets and assume $110 million in the firm's liabilities. The purchase is expected to be closed by the end of the year.

The New Holland operation will become part of Ford's tractor operations based in Troy, MI. The automaker said it will retain New Holland's plants, employees and brand name.

Hard times have befallen the New Holland company over the past five years, with sharp declines in revenues and profits. Sales of $1 billion and profits of $100 million in 1980 had declined to $715 million in revenue and $17 million in income before taxes in the year which ended March 31.

Ford, meanwhile, has annual sales of $1.25 billion, giving the new entity a $2 billion capacity with more than 18,000 employees and sales outlets in more than 100 countries.

To cope with hard times, Sperry New Holland laid off more than 1,000 workers, unveiled new products, froze pay increases, cut overtime and marketed parts for other manufacturers.

Products manufactured at the firm's New Holland plant include the square and round balers, bale throwers, and grinder-mixers. The company also makes round balers, bale handlers, mower-conditioners, loaders and running gear at its Mountville plant.

Founded in 1895, New Holland in 1940 bought the rights to manufacture a revolutionary new hay baler invented by a Lancaster County farmer. The product was the first commercially successful, automatic-pickup, self-tie device, and made baling hay a one-man job.

The New Holland Machine Co. was purchased by Sperry Corp. in 1947, eventually becoming the world's largest manufacturer of specialized farm equipment, especially devices to harvest hay and silage.

The parent Sperry Corp reportedly will go its own way in computer and electronic businesses

House approves 1985 Farm Bill

BY JAMES H. EVERHART

WASHINGTON — The U.S. House of Representatives has approved a controversial 1985 Farm Bill, setting the stage for a confrontration with the U.S. Senate, and ultimately, with the Reagan Administration.

The bill approved by the House includes provisions that retain much of the current farm program for basic commodity products. The bill would have little of the structural change in farm policy that all sides in the Farm Bill debate have requested.

The package does not include the controversial Bedell Amendment, which was stricken from the bill on the House floor. Under the proposal, offered by Iowa Congressman Berkley Bedell, wheat, feed grain, cotton and rice producers could vote to accept voluntary acreage controls in exchange for higher prices.

The Senate, meanwhile, was expected to start its consideration of the Farm Bill before Oct. 21. Deliberation on the legislation was delayed by the budget debate, which occupied the upper house longer than expected. The package approved by the Senate Agriculture committee differs markedly from the package approved by the House, especially on dairy policy.

The Farm Bill package approved in the House contained a dairy title which would establish standby authority for a diversion program, and include a cost-of-production formula in its support pricing mechanism.

USDA Secretary John Block has threatened to recommend a presidential veto if the Congress passes a bill containing diversion authority. He said a diversion program would impose a "cruel, compulsory assessment on dairymen."

In adopting the measure, the House rejected an amendment, adopted on the floor just last week, establishing a 50-cent-per-hundredweight cap on assessments.

The legislators, however, retained an amendment empowering USDA to make one million pounds of nonfat dry milk available for casein production. An open bid among manufacturers would be used to distribute the products.

Other amendments to the dairy title prevent the USDA from considering whey in their estimate of milk price supports, and raised the government's red meat purchase during any diversion program to 250 million pounds.

The bill drafted by the Senate Agriculture Committee follows the "market orientation" the Administration has called for in its original proposals. It would lower prices until the government's dairy purchases dropped below five million pounds annually. Currently, they are running about 12 million pounds.

The wide differences between the two bills, officials said, indicate a need for extensive negotiations between the two houses. The two sides are expected to hold conferences on the Farm Bill after the Senate enacts its version of the legislation. That would put the Ag Committee leaders of both legislative bodies in conference by the first week in November, observers noted.

Congress has a self-imposed deadline of Nov. 14 on their legislative efforts. They extended expiring agricultural legislation on Oct. 1, to prevent provisions of the 1933 enabling legislation from going back into effect.

SHEEP: A shot in the arm for red meat industry?

BY JACK HUBLEY

LITITZ — With beef and pork producers wallowing in a depressed market, lamb may prove to be the crucial ingredient needed to flesh out the barebones red meat industry.

The light at the end of the tunnel is being provided by Rocco Inc. of Timberville, Va. Well known for its huge Marval turkey processing plant in Dayton, Va., Rocco Inc., is actually made up of eight divisions, including Rocco Further Processing and the Rocco Lamb Farm.

Although one-half of the further processing plant is devoted to poultry products, the remaining half has been busily processing 3,000 lambs a week since beginning operations in August.

According to Rocco's lamb procurement manager, Dennis Miller, the company hopes to eventually be slaughtering 10,000 lambs a week. "It takes about 300,000 ewes to make this plant work," says Miller.

Why did Rocco elect to plunge headlong into the lamb market" "It's a very wholesome product," says Miller. "It has the least amount of cholesterol of any red meat." And with 80 percent of the nation's lamb consumed in the Northeast, locating a slaughtering plant here is a logical move, he says. "We're at a definite location advantage because of the time interval to market."

Though much of Australia and New Zealand's lamb production finds its way to the United States, "we just don't think they can compete shipping a frozen product," Miller says. "The biggest thing they have that we don't is supply."

Though Rocco wants to see ewe numbers increase in the Northeast, Miller stresses that quantity is not the number-one consideration. The firm is looking for lean carcasses in the 110 to 115-pound range. "We're yield grading lambs, and we're the first plant in the country to do that," says Miller, noting that carcasses of yield grade two and three are what the company is looking for. "We're trying to produce what the housewife wants," he says.

But to keep its facility running at capacity, Rocco needs a year-round supply of lambs, says Miller. Unfortunately, this is an order that an industry traditionally oriented to spring lambing is hard-pressed to fill.

One Pennsylvania firm that's making a commitment to providing Rocco with a year-round supply of lambs is Wolgemuth Bros. Inc., of Mount Joy, Lancaster County. A general line feed company, Wolgemuth hopes to expand its poultry contracting business to include sheep. The firm currently has 900 lambs on feed in Lebanon County.

According to Wolgemuth's sales manager, Bill Reed, the Rocco plant may be a real boon to Pennsylvania livestock producers. "If they have the facilities, they can conceivably put in 100 ewes and produce 150 lambs a year, or more," says Reed, calculating that such a move could result in $3,000 or more in added income. "But producers have to like sheep; there's a lot of work involved with them," Reed cautions.

Underlining Reed's words of caution is Ford Hartman, Wolgemuth's newly appointed sheep specialist. Hartman says that Wolgemuth will be buying the breeding stock to place with selected producers who will have to adhere to the firm's management guidelines.

"We're going to require an intensive management system with our ewes," says Hartman. "You don't just put them out on pasture and hope they get bred and have a lamb."

The key to Wolgemuth's program will be in acquiring ewes capable of being bred throughout the year. "The problem is that a lot of the lamb goes to market one time of the year," says Hartman. "At other times there's a scarcity and a packing facility can't stay in business. They need a constant supply of lamb, and the only way to

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, October 10
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Demand for ready to cook whole birds was moderate to good, although not as aggressive as expected in some plants. Inquiry for parts was disappointing overall, and clearances were generally noted as just fair.

Live supplies were adequate. Weights were in a full range but mostly desirable to heavy. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. The undertone was generally steady.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices were unchanged on U.S. Grade A at 47-54 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated 10/10 2,031,000; Actual 10/3 1,898,000.

Actual 10/8 2,008,000; Average Weights 10/8 4.44; Average Weights 10/1 4.47.

Eastern Pa. & N.J. Poultry

Wednesday, October 9
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices were firm for this and next week's lighter offerings. All plants running less than full schedules. Finished product demand was light to good and best into food service concerns. Next week's offerings currently limited. The undertone was at least fully steady.

Prices Paid at Farm:

Light Type Hens: .15-.17, mostly .16-.16½

F.O.B. Plant: .18-.20, mostly .19-.19½.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, October 10
Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices unchanged. Local sentiment firm on mediums, just steady at best on large and heavier sizes. Cartoned egg demand selective and generally centered on short supplies of mediums. Other sizes ranged in balance to available. Nest run interest also centered on classes comprising mediums sizes. Interest on other classes light and cautious with some traders noting bargains as easily available on the heavier sized grade-outs.

A Extra Large .73-.75; A Large .72-.74; A Medium .61½-.66.

To Apply Lime During the Fall Months

(1) Soil test, then (2) apply the needed lime before the soil freezes. That 1-2 order of events should have a high priority now as we finish one growing season and plan ahead for the next.

In order to do its job of correcting soil acidity, lime must come in contact with all the soil particles, not just those on the soil surface. Weather changes during the next 6 months will provide just the right conditions to do lots of mixing of lime and soil within the topsoil layer. Freezing and thawing, rain, snow and ice, help to move the lime downward.

During the fall season fields are firm and usually dry enough to allow lime spreading trucks to move about more easily. Deliveries of lime can be made on time.

To Practice Good Public Relations

Farmers should be concerned about their image in the community. In most cases it's very good, and also the majority of non-farm people in the rural areas respect the needs and problems of the farmer. The image can be improved by getting better acquainted with your non-farm neighbors.

We urge farmers to invite their nearby neighbors to see their farm operations. In many cases a better understanding of the various farm operations will eliminate disputes and hassles about noise and odors.

Also, I would encourage farmers to become involved with community activities. You'll find that people that understand each other seldom have serious problems.

To Graze Cautiously

As we move into the frost season, farmers pasturing cattle should be concerned about possible dangers of grazing frosted legumes. All of the permanent grasses such as bluegrass, orchardgrass or bromegrass can be safely grazed at any time of the year and this is also true of any of the small grain cover crops such as rye, wheat or barley. All of these are not toxic when frozen and usually do not present any bloating problems. However, the legumes such as clover and alfalfa should be grazed carefully. They are not toxic, after being frosted, but will cause severe bloating if consumed while the frost is on the leaves. Allow the frost to thaw, and the plants to dry off, before turning in the herd of flock.

Also, any of the sudan grasses or sorghum hybrids should not be grazed for at least a week after being frozen.

To Store Corn Carefully

Corn harvested for grain is a very important crop for most farmers. Therefore, good corn storage is very important. It should be protected from the weather, given proper ventilation for drying, and then protected from rodents. This latter menace is one that needs more attention on many farms. Mice and rats like to make their homes in corn cribs and storage places when given the chance. Make an effort to eliminate all nesting places and practice good sanitation to keep the population down. All rat baiting stations should be located where children and pets cannot come in contact with the bait.

Rats and mice are destructive and are costing farmers a great deal of money.

Architects honor Ag Arena

UNIVERSITY PARK – The Ag Arena "is a beautiful industrial statement, straightforward and honest, and done with grace," said James Brown, president-elect of Pennsylvania Society of Architects. He was relating jury comments about the winner of the Society's top design award, the Silver Medal, during the Society's recent awards program at Penn State's Museum of Art.

"The jury recognizes this project as a highly successful reflection of some of the industrial building vocabulary in Pennsylvania. It is simple and elegant and does not rely on overused cliches," continued Brown.

Ag Arena architects Charles E. Dagit and Peter M. Saylor, of Dagit•Saylor Architects in Philadelphia, were the Silver Medal winners. More than 900 designs of new buildings, additions and adapted re-use projects as well as preservation projects were submitted by member firms for competition.

The jury, James Stewart Polshek of New York City and four of his design associates, selected four Honor Awards winners and only the Ag Arena, to receive the top Silver Medal. In July the Ag Arena won the Architectural Merit Award from the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Dagit•Saylor Architects have a winning tradition with Penn State. They won three design awards for their first design project, the Physical Education Building on the Penn State Ogontz Campus in Abington. That building received a Distinguished Building Award from the Pennsylvania Society of Architects in 1974, the top honor from the American School and University Architectural Competition in 1975, and a Merit Award from the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects in 1976.

During the awards ceremony, Obie Snider, president of the university Board of Trustees and chairman of the Ag Arena Fundraising Committee, thanked Dagit and Saylor for their work and "for the pleasure the Ag Arena brings to all of us at Penn State." He presented the architects with a framed copy of cover proofs for the 1985-1986 Penn State telephone directories, a composite of architectural details from the Ag Arena.

According to Jean McManis, director of publications, "We chose the Ag Arena for the directories because of its unusual design and because it is an example of what private giving can do for the university. We are delighted to see the Arena get the recognition it deserves." The covers were designed by Marilyn Shobaken with photographs by James Collins and inside text by Vickie Fong. The directories will be distributed later this month.

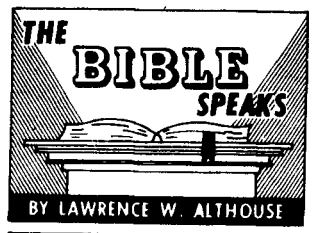
The Ag Arena complex, now in its second phase of construction, is nearly 100 percent funded by private giving through the Ag Arena Campaign. Once the holding and preparation center is complete, the university will have one of the most modern and flexible indoor agricultural exhibition areas in the Northeast. The cost of the entire complex is estimated at $2.25 million. Private gifts and pledges totaled approximately $2 million as of last month.

Representing Penn State at the awards ceremony were W. Wayne Hinish, acting dean of the College of Agriculture, Milford Heddleson, chairman of the college committee for the Ag Arena, Charles Brueggebors, assistant director of physical plant planning, and Louis A. Bernier, construction coordinator.

Edgar to speak

HERSHEY – U.S. Representative Bob Edgar will be the featured speaker at the Pennsylvania Farmers Union luncheon on Friday, Nov. 8, 1985.

Edgar will deliver the closing address to the delegates attending the organization's 14th Annual Convention. Non-delegates who would like to attend the luncheon may reserve tickets at $10 each by calling 1-800-932-4629.



YOUR LEGACY
October 13, 1985

Background Scripture:
2 Timothy.
Devotional Reading:
2 Timothy 2:20-26.

I've made a very personal rendering of 2 Timothy 3:16,17. It does not pretend to be a translation or even a good paraphrase, but, nevertheless, it does speak to me–and maybe to you.

All scripture is inspired by God and much of it is effective in shaking me up and blasting me out of my complacency, so that I may get back to growing up in Christ and be of use in his kingdom.

That's what happened today when I read the rest of the background scripture for this week's lesson. The writer of 2 Timothy speaks of the faith which Timothy inherited from his family and I have previously used these utterences as texts for preaching sermons on the Christian family, saying something like this: "Give a child a Christian faith to admire and emulate and he or she will grow up in that faith."

WHAT YOU'VE LEARNED

Suddenly, as I read these words, it dawned on me that, judging from my own experience, I have not been a very good practitioner of what I have preached· neither of my two sons are currently related to the church. One of them might be described as "agnostic" and the other simply "confused." Yet, it would seem to me that, taking into consideration my human limitations, I tried to set for them an example in faith and conduct, to live and teach the Gospel and fulfill the baptismal vows to "bring them up in t[illegible]" So, how do I account for their lack interest and commitment to that whi[illegible] professed to be the most important thing in my life?

Another irony occurred to me. Unlike my two sons, I was not reared in a church atmosphere. My parents believed in the essentials of Christianity and lived very moral lives. Still, they had little to do with the church. I entered the church by myself, as a youth, became a minister, and brought them back into the life of the church (in which they became quite active). In a sense, I influenced my parents, but not my children.

"YOU HAVE OBSERVED"

The writer of 2 Timothy says: "Now you have observed my teaching, my conduct, my aim in life, my faith, my patience, my love..." Perhaps my "teaching," "conduct," "life" and "faith" were not convincing. Maybe I taught them only the form of Christianity, not its power–despite what I thought I was doing. Or perhaps all we can do is our best and leave the results to God.

At any rate, just because there are some who do not respond favorably to our witness, is no reason to stop witnessing. I still have a witness to bear for Christ. I still have a legacy of faith to leave behind, whether or not it is claimed. And so do you.

Doebler's Hybrids is a family farm operation. And we're pushing hard to harvest 2075 acres of seed corn in Clinton and Lycoming counties before the first hard frost.

But our job doesn't end at the farm gate. Not with hybrid seed customers in eight Eastern states.

That's why our local dealers are so important to us... and to you.

And that's why we took the day to honor our dealers and show off our new Eastern hybrids.

Doebler's Hybrids has something like 340 dealers. They know local soils and growing conditions about as well as you.

Compare the production and feed efficiency of the Hisex White and Hisex Brown layers and you won't find any better, anywhere. And that is a condition that will continue since Hisex research and development keeps improving the breed.

But mere test figures don't tell the whole story. The fact is that good henhouse managers can beat these figures. Hisex field testing has proven that. You may well obtain better feed conversion, mortality, and higher production.

As in all things, you must start with a good, basic product. The good genes, in other words.

See for yourself. Put these great birds to work for you soon. You'll find their average performance produces above average results.

Feed them BOSPRO.® From the people at Borden.

BOSPRO is a cost-efficient feed supplement for dairy cows that can increase both the quantity and the quality of the milk they produce.

In test herds, BOSPRO was shown to increase milk production on average 5% after 60 days of use. And just as importantly, it increased the amount of butterfat and protein and decreased the somatic cell count.

So you get more milk out of your cows. And better milk.

Best of all, BOSPRO can pay for itself 10 times over.

If you're a businessman who wants to milk every ounce of profit from your employees, ask your local feed dealer about BOSPRO. Or just call Borden at 1-800-323-0877.

NFO, NFU hit terms of FLBA land sale

COLBY, KS — A precedent setting land sale offer by the Colby Federal Land Bank Association to give preferential treatment on specific new loans only should be postponed until a congressional inquiry can be completed. That's the request of two major family farm organizations, the National Farmers Union and the National Farmers Organization.

The two organizations took two specific actions:

1. They requested an immediate congressional investigation into whether terms of the proposed sale violate the intent of Congress. In a telegram to House Agriculture Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development Chairmen Ed Jones, D-Tenn., they stated that results of a committee or staff investigation should be considered in connection with proposed assistance for the Farm Credit System.

2. They have requested the National Association of Attorneys General to strongly consider intervening in this matter and initiate action to insure competent review of this FLBA strategy.

As a trial program, the Colby FLBA is offering farmers and/or investors the chance to submit sealed bids by 5:00 p.m. Monday, October 7, on 15 tracts of crop and grass land in six northwestern Kansas counties.

The Colby FLBA is offering to finance 70% of the purchase at a reduced 11½% fixed interest rate for 5 years and will waive the mandatory stock purchase equal to 5% of the loan. After 5 years, the loan would carry the regular variable interest rate for an additional 25 years.

All of the land offered for sale under these terms was obtained through foreclosure or default by previous FLBA farmer-owners. Those farmers and current borrowers are charged nearly 12½% interest, are required to purchase stock and pay interest on the stock purchase as well.

If considered successful, this type of sale and its special terms will be offered again in Colby and at other FLBAs.

The primary issue according to NFU and NFO is one of fairness.

"Although it may or may not be legal, the special conditions of this sale fly in the face of the intent of Congress. The Farm Credit System, including the Federal Land Bank, was founded to establish and maintain family farmers," NFU President Cy Carpenter and NFO President DeVon Woodland said in a joint statement.

"If the FLBA can offer these preferential terms to new borrowers it should have the same consideration for its current borrower-owners. The interest rate reduction is the kind of lifeline that can keep some of today's knowledgeable good farmers who are struggling, in business. This sale sets a dangerous precedent and must be halted until an investigation can be completed."

Extension agents to see PFA's farm analysis plan

CAMP HILL — County Agricultural Extension Agents will get an in-depth look at the farm analysis package of the Farm Management Services of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) later this month.

PFA is a voluntary, general farm organization representing over 23,300 farm families. Its Farm Management Services offers a wide range of services in agricultural operation and management. One of those services is FMBAService, a full-scale farm records, farm tax planning, farm tax preparation, farm business analysis, and farm financial planning service.

FMBAService Regional Managers Jay Partner adn Ed Lease are involved in a special farm analysis training program for county agents in Pennsylvania.

The three sessions are scheduled as follows: October 16th - Wilkes-Barre; October 22nd - State College; October 30th - York.

The program is designed to explain the PFA analysis package in detail plus show the important facts needed to provide an accurate analysis of a farmers' business.

John Brockett, area farm management extension specialist for Penn State, is coordinating this training effort.

Chester/Delaware Farmers reelect Mast as president

WEST CHESTER – Elmer Mast, Parkesburg, was reelected president of the Chester/Delaware Farmer's Association at its monthly board meeting held recently. Other officers reelected were Richard Breckbill, Oxford, Vice-president, and Harold Bryson, Oxford, Treasurer. Cathy Guest, Pottstown, was appointed Secretary.

David Hodge, Parkesburg, Chairman of the Local Affairs committee reported on the meetings being held to have the Brandywine Creek named a scenic river. He asked that Farmers' Association members contact him with their concerns and ideas relating to such a designation. A scenic rivers designation could mean restrictions on an owner's use of his private property.

The present evaluation includes: recreation along the lower Brandywine, unplanned development, the road system, hunting and trapping, and water quality and quantity," Hodge said. "Water quality would include the contributions of farmer's use of fertilizer and pesticides."

The study covers the West Branch of the Brandywine from Coatesville to the Delaware line. Also the East Branch from Downingtown to the Delaware line. Several tributaries would be included in the scenic rivers designation if it is adopted.

The Farmers' Association now has 260 members for 1986. This includes 15 new members," Stan Guest, Pottstown, Co-chairman of the membership committee told the board. "The membership goal for 1986 is 290 members," Guest said.

He announced a meeting of all membership team members for November 12. The formal kickoff will be held December 10 with a final wrap-up on February 1, 1986. He urged all members to visit their neighbors and encourage them to become members.

Members of the Farmers' Association have been asked to supply a husband and wife team to assist the Saul Agricultural and Science High School (Philadelphia) on visitation day, October 31," Laurie Dobrosky, Regional Organization Director, Pennsylvania Farmer's Association said. They would answer questions from junior high school visitors concerning farming activities. Teams are needed for the various farming activities: dairying, sheep, poultry, swine, beef, etc.

The Saul High School is a vocational agricultural school located in center city Philadelphia. Its students are selected from junior high schools throughout the city. More than 60% of its graduates go on to higher education. It has the largest Future Farmers of America chapter in the country. Teams and/or individuals willing to help in this orientation program are asked to call Elmer Mast, Richard Breckbill or Charles Moore.

"It is important that all members attend at least one day of the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association," Dobrosky emphasized. "Members will better understand how county policy is acted on at the state level. Policy pertaining to national affairs will be voted on–if accepted by the delegates, will be passed on to the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting for acceptance or rejection by the delegates voting there. The PFA meeting will be held in Hershey on Nov. 18, 19, 20.

Dobrosky suggested that all members that could take time, should attend and participate in the Farmer's Rally for the Bottle Bill. This will be held in Harrisburg on October 16. Farmers interested in car pooling should contact a Board member.

"Farm-City Day will be held Saturday, November 16," David Hodge, Committee said. Brochures are being printed and will be distributed in the area."

Board members elected at the annual meeting this fall were: Phillip Hicks, West Chester; Robert Kirk, Honeybrook; Edgar Cannon, Avondale; Samuel Swartz, Parkerford; and William McAllister, Spring City

Maryland ag employment to be steady through '87

COLLEGE PARK, MD – What are the employment opportunities in agriculture for the near future in Maryland?

According to a recent study by researchers for the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station (UMAES), employment opportunities and entrepreneurship trends appear to be stable thorugh 1987.

The study included Washington, Carroll, Howard, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's counties, says its principal investigator Dr. Elmer L. Cooper.

Researchers identified part-time and full-time workers in both on-farm and non-farm agricultural businesses.

Employers in each of those two categories projected that the numbers of agricultural employees would not change through 1987. Cooper said.

"It is interesting to note the diversity of agricultural employment in Maryland," he said.

Non-farm agricultural workers were found in eight divisions of agriculture in every county the research team studied, Cooper added.

The divisions were: agricultural production, agricultural supplies and services, agricultural mechanics, agricultural products, horticulture, agricultural resources, forestry and one category called "other agricultural" businesses.

The researchers used the data from the study to construct a classification of agricultural job titles that includes 450 titles and 50 subdivisions spread among the eight major divisions they found in each county.

Until now, Cooper said, the common problem for agriculture teachers, administrators, legislators and other responsible for education in agriculture was the lack of manpower data for agriculture. What data existed failed to separate jobs that require agricultural competencies from those that do not, he added.

Southeast Holstein seminar to explore growth hormone

FREDERICK, Md.— "Be Aware: A New Dawn in Dairying" is the theme of the 1985 Southeast Holstein Seminar, to be held Friday, Nov. 8, at the Walkersville Fire Hall, Walkersville, Md.

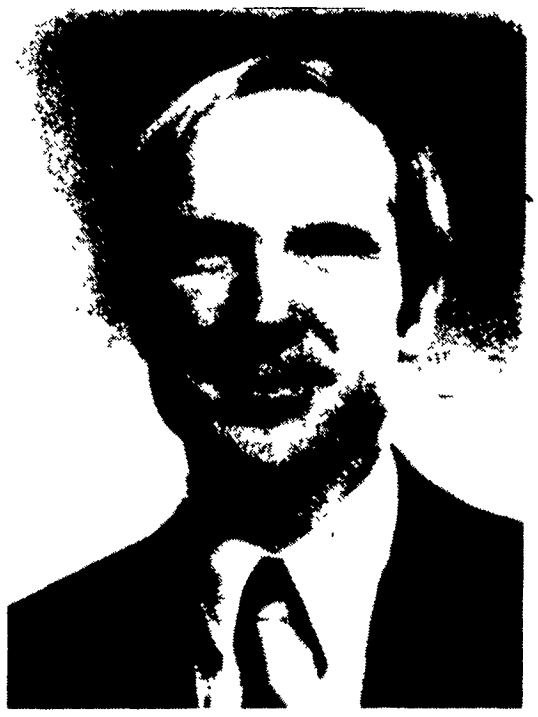
The crucial impact of biotechnology and the development of bovine growth hormone will be addressed by Dr. Robert A. Milligan and Dr. Frank N. Dickinson at the day-long seminar, which is sponsored by the Maryland Holstein Association and the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

Milligan, a well-traveled dairy economist from Cornell University, will discuss the basic growth hormone which was isolated and tested at Cornell, including its implications on cow health and stress. He will also touch on the economic impact that growth hormone presents to the dairy industry in the years ahead.

Milligan has done extensive work on profitable dairy production, from capital investment to forage analysis, with major emphasis on cash flow.

Dr. Frank N. Dickinson, chief of the Animal Improvement Programs Laboratory, Animal Science Institute ARS, USDA, will focus on the impact of growth hormone in dairy record-keeping (DHIA) and cow indexes and genetic improvement. The USDA sire summaries originate from Dickinson's office at Beltsville, Md.

The program, which is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., Nov. 8, also includes optional farm tours in the afternoon. At 7 p.m. the Southeast Holstein Sale will be held at the Frederick Fairgrounds, featuring outstanding cattle selected from Del., Md., N.C., Va., and W.Va.



Dr. Robert A. Milligan

Dr. Frank N. Dickinson

An informal ladies' program is also planned for the day, which can include self-guided visits to Harper's Ferry, the antique shops of New Market, and other places of interest in the Frederick area.

Pre-registration by Nov. 1 is requested for the 1985 Southeast Holstein Seminar. Lunch will be $4.25, and $7.00 will be charged for the beef barbecue prior to the sale. Reservations for overnight accomodations can also be made.

To make reservations or for more information, write: Maryland Holstein Assoc., John L. Morris, 5804 Jefferson Blvd., Frederick, Md. 21701, or call: 301-371-4023.

To get to Walkersville, from Frederick take Route 15 North approximately one mile; turn right on Route 26. Proceed east approximately two miles; cross river and turn left on Route 194. Proceed north two miles to Walkersville. After passing the high school and the elementary school, turn left on Nicodemous Road for one block. Turn right on Frederick Street, which is old 194. The Walkersville Fire Hall will be on the left.

Scheetz proposes 'gasohol' bill

HARRISBURG – Rep. Terry Scheetz has announced he will introduce legislation to improve the promotion and marketing of gasohol– agriculturally-derived ethanol fuel.

Scheetz said the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board (LCB) currently has licensing jurisdiction over gasohol producers, but assumes no role in its promotion or research.

"While the mass production of gasohol is not economically feasible, many farmers find the ethanol fuel attractive for on-farm use," Scheetz said. "However, due to a lack of centralized information and promotion the availability and use of gasohol is not well understood.

"My legislation will give the state Agriculture Department jurisdiction over all facets of gasohol production, including licensing, research, regulation and promotion."

Scheetz pointed out that gasohol is an attractive fuel since it can be produced from agricultural products such as corn and sorghum.

"It's important to note that this high-quality fuel can be produced from low-quality grain products," he said. "Therefore, opponents of gasohol cannot claim that the grain should be used for food rather than fuel."

The Lancaster County lawmaker said the production of gasohol will help farmers who can grow and want to grow more crops.

"Not only will ethanol fuel contribute to energy independence, it may also give Pennsylvania farmers a new market for their products," Scheetz said.

If early legislative response is any indicator, support of the legislation should be strong. Four days after the proposed measure was announced, more than 30 legislators, including the chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, had sponsored it.

Program Leader named in NE

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA. – "Regional program leader" is a new position in the Cooperative Extension Service of The Pennsylvania State University. But it's a job that newly appointed Northeast regional program leader Faye C. Richardson has waited 25 years to get.

"It sounds corny, but I've wanted to be a regional program leader in Extension since I was a 15-year-old 4-H club member in Virginia," she says. "I have an advantage here because I know the regional program leader job as Virginia has used people in district program leader positions for a long time."

Richardson is responsible for helping county staff identify and use available resources to strengthen educational programs. She will assist with conducting and evaluating regional clinics, workshops and seminars with county staff and volunteers.

Richardson's appointment was announced by W. Wayne Hinish, acting dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture and director of Penn State's Extension Service.

After discussing areas of concern with agents and visiting county home economists, Richardson plans to "work on programs involving family living and the economic stress of farm families." Eventually she hopes to have a network of multi-county home economists within her region to cover most home economics expertise for all counties.

Before joining Penn State's Extension Service, Richardson spent nine years as a home economics extention agent for Virginia's Cooperative Extension Service. She was a teacher in two Virginia school districts between 1972 and 1976, and a commercial home sewing educator between 1969 and 1972.

"My work in extension, public education and industry has given me a broad experience base," she says. "Most importantly, I've learned about the challenges of developing innovative programs, and I've felt the personal satisfaction of getting grants for development of some programs. The greatest reward in extension is seeing clientele make changes that improve their quality of life."

Richardson has written three successful grant proposals with Virginia's extension service. She has also authored research papers and newspaper columns, and has made major presentations on home economics and family living issues.

She is a member of the National and Pennsylvania Associations of Extension Home Economists, the National Association of 4-H Agents, and the American Home Economics Association.

Proposal cuts labeling red tape

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed allowing certain meat and poultry processors to label, without further approval, products for which USDA has established content requirements.

"We are proposing to expand the streamlined label approval system, implemented in 1983, for certain plants that have proven they can fulfill their responsibility to label meat and poultry products accurately," said Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

The proposal would allow plants that have operated under a USDA-approved total quality control system for at least one year to prepare and label, without additional approval, products with a set standard of composition.

Under the voluntary total quality control inspection program, a meat and poultry plant uses a USDA-approved quality control system to ensure it produces wholesome and accurately labeled products. USDA must approve a plant's preparation methods and testing procedures before the plant can begin production.

"Plants that want to participate in the voluntary labeling program would have to submit a plan for USDA approval to ensure that the plant has control over the labeling system and that no misbranded products would enter commerce," Houston explained.

"USDA inspectors would monitor the plant's USDA-approved quality control system to ensure compliance with product preparation and labeling regulations," he said.

The Farmers' View

Watch IRS carefully

Filing your federal income tax return can be a trying experience at best. But, this year it can be a horrifying experience because of the Internal Revenue Service's (IRS) inability to operate its new computer.

Farmers, who have done everything right as far as filing and reporting income, are being erroneously dunned by the IRS for additional tax payments.

"What's making the matter even worse is the fact that IRS is seizing bank accounts and other collateral of farmers to pay for taxes that they don't legally owe," said Richard E. Denison, manager of PFA Farm Management Services.

"It's bad enough to be dunned for a debt you don't owe, but worse yet when the IRS grabs your bank account to force payment. It's embarrassing and disgusting. It makes operating your business very difficult. The entire situation is horrendous and we can't continue to tolerate it," charged Denison.

Apparently the IRS erroneous notices are being sent out almost on a wholesale scale. Denison says his staff of 40 financial advisors have investigated more than 500 IRS notices. "We have yet to find one of our clients who owed any additional monies," he said, "But that doesn't stop the IRS from seizing bank accounts. It bothers us that any citizen should be harassed by a government agency with such vast police powers at its disposal."

IRS can place liens on property; bank accounts can be attached, and other property can be seized to satisfy an outstanding tax obligation.

Denison advises farmers to contact their tax preparer before they pay any additional taxes, or for that matter accept an unexpected IRS refund on their tax return.

"We are encouraging the Philadelphia IRS office to establish a telephone number and person to contact in order to correct the erroneous notices being sent out," he said "'IRS had such a service about eight years ago." So far IRS has not given any indication that it intends to honor Denison's request.

Most of the erroneous notices from IRS deal with underpayment of estimated tax, carry forward of investment credit, carry forward of net operating loss, credit for co-op investment credit, Social Security underpayment and payroll deposits.

U. S. Senators, H. John Heinz and Arlen Specter, are gathering information with hopes of arriving at some solution in the near future.

"In the meantime don't accept anything at face value that comes from the IRS. Check with the person that prepares your income tax return," cautions Denison.

The Farmers' View is a column that is compiled by the Public Relations Division of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA). It expresses the views of PFA's policy positions on key issues as adopted by the organization's 23,313 family members.

Meetings set on Cornell's 1986 crop predictions

ITHACA, NY – A team of scientists from Cornell University will travel to five major agricultural areas of New York State in mid-October to bring farm supply dealers up to date on Cornell's recommendations on crop production in the coming year.

The traveling scientists–all from the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell–will hold a series of five regional meetings from October 14 through 18 in five locations–Waterloo-Seneca Falls, Canton, Ghent, Oneonta, and Batavia.

As many as 400 participants from New York and neighboring states, as well as from Canada, are expected at these meetings, according to Russell R. Hahn, a senior extension associate for Cornell Cooperative Extension, who is coordinating the upcoming conferences.

Sponsored by Cornell Cooperative Extension and the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, the 1985 "Field Crop Dealer Meetings" will focus on the latest research developments and resulting changes in the 1986 edition of "Cornell Recommends for Field Crops," an annual publication featuring the latest crop production techniques and recommendations for farmers.

Topics on the agenda include small grains, seed certification for New York State, pesticide re-registration, and soil tests. Agronomists, agricultural economists, plant breeders, and plant pathologists from Cornell will make the presentations.

Dates and locations for the meetings are: October 14--Waterloo-Seneca Falls (Holiday Inn); October 15–Canton (Best Western University Inn); October 16–Ghent (Kozel's Restaurant); October 17--Oneonta (Holiday Inn); and October 18–Batavia (Holiday Inn).

Registration begins at 9:15 a.m. at each location, with presentations scheduled for 10 a.m. through 3 p.m., followed by a discussion session.

For more information about the program, contact Russell Hahn, Department of Agronomy, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY 14853-1902, or at (607) 256-2177.

Pennfield buys Ritter Poultry

LANCASTER – Pennfield Corporation, headquartered in Rohrerstown, has purchased R.L. Ritter Poultry, Inc. of Ephrata, according to Donald E. Horn, company president. Ritter Poultry, a privately owned meat distributorship with annual sales of $10 million, provides chicken, turkey, specialty poultry, and beef to retail stores, restaurants, and food service institutions in Southeastern Pennsylvania.

"We're pleased to announce that the business will continue to be operated under the same name, and with the same personnel," Horn said. "Dick Ritter, founder and former owner, will continue his management responsibilities," he explained.

The acquisition will enable Pennfield Farms Chicken, Pennfield's poultry meat division, to provide optimal customer service to food retailers in Southeastern Pennsylvania. Currently Pennfield Farms markets 50 million pounds of fresh, ice-packed whole chicken and chicken parts annually, accounting for $30 milion of the corporation's $150 million total sales. The birds are raised to maturity on area farms, then dressed at Pennfield Farm's policy processing plant in Fredericksburg, and sold locally, as well as in the major metropolitan areas of New York and New England.

Pennfield Corporation employs 700 people throughout its operations and the acquisition of Ritter Poultry will mean an additional 15 employees for the company.

N.Y. Turfgrass meet set

ITHACA, NY – An update on turfgrass research underway at Cornell University a symposium on landscape design, and a trade show are among highlights of the 39th annual New York State Turfgrass Association Conference at the Onondaga County War Memorial in Syracuse, Nov. 6-8.

Co-sponsored by the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, the conference will feature a session on Cornell research projects covering turfgrass cultural practices and their effects on water, screening for tolerance to "patch disease," plant growth regulators, and weed and insect control. All speakers in this session will be from Cornell. The session will be followed by a symposium on landscape design of home and apartment properties.

Norman W. Hummel Jr., the program coordinator of the Syracuse meeting and an assistant professor of turfgrass science at Cornell, says that the event is expected to attract up to 2,000 participants from across New York and neighboring states.

The three-day conference will open at 9 a.m., Wednesday (November 6), with a talk on "Turfgrass Management Throughout the World" by James Beard from Texas A&M University.

Other sessions featured in the program will deal with golf courses, lawn services, athletic fields, and grounds maintenance. In addition, three workshops on equipment maintenance are scheduled. The trade show, featuring the latest in turfgrass equipment, supplies, chemicals, fertilizers, and seed, among others, is scheduled to open at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday (November 6).

Specialists from Cornell and other organizations will conduct a special session on the basis of turfgrass science and management on Wednesday (November 6), starting at 9 a.m.

For information about registration, contact New York State Turfgrass Association, 210 Cartwright Boulevard, Massapequa Park, NY 11762. For details about the program, contact Norman Hummel, Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, Cornell University, Ithaca, NY 14853-5908. He can be reached at (607) 256-3134.

'Sammie' tops 4-H/FFA beef show

BY JACK HUBLEY

MANHEIM — 4-H entries upstaged the FFA competition at the Manheim Farm Show's steer show on Tuesday night, taking both grand and reserve grand champion honors in the 24-head show.

Angie Longenecker's hour-long fitting and exercise sessions paid off when her Angus Chianina cross named Sammie was named 4-H show champion before going on to be named grand champion overall. The 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Longenecker of Lititz, Angie bought her 1,105-pound champion from Jim Foreman of Hershey.

A four-year showring veteran, she also finished the show by placing first in the showmanship competition's junior division. "I was surprised, because it was 13 to 15-year-olds and there were some really good showmen," she noted.

Sammie's next stop will be the Keystone International Livestock Expo next month, then on to the county roundup. With any luck, the steer's final show will be the Farm Show in January, says his young owner.

Another Lititz 4-H'er, Lori Good, found herself in the winners circle twice when her 1,330-pound steer named Bear was named reserve champion of both the 4-H and overall shows. A Maine Anjou-Charolais-Angus crossbred, Bear was purchased from Carl Herr of Lampeter.

"I'm very well pleased," beamed the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Good, pointing out that Bear would be the last steer of her nine-year 4-H career. But things won't be easy come roundup time, she added. "It's a terrible steer to have for my last year," she said. "He's my big baby."

Lori's lengthy show career also included Manheim's 1982 champion steer trophy.

Chad Rohrer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rohrer of Penryn, took top honors in the FFA show with another Foreman-bred steer. His 1,090 Angus-Chianina entry gave Rohrer his first champion rosette in four years of FFA competition.

New hog and sheep barn opens with market hog show

BY JACK HUBLEY

MANHEIM — Manheim's Becker family couldn't have been happier following Monday night's market hog show. After three years in the showring, 11-year-old Karen Becker registered her first show victory when judge Gary Dean singled out her 230-pound Duroc-Spot cross for grand champion honors.

"I didn't think we had good pigs, and dad didn't think we did, either," said the elated exhibitor after receiving her first-place trophy.

Karen's winning market hog was one of 30 pigs purchased from swine breeder Larry Mullens of Bainbridge.

The victory proved exceptionally sweet for Karen's father Marlin, who served as the Manheim Farm Show's building chairman during construction of the Farm Show's new hog and sheep barn. "I've spent a lot of hours in here, and to see your daughter win the first championship is really nice," he said.

Completed only a few days before the hog show, the barn features 70 stalls and a spacious, well-lighted showring. At a cost exceeding $50,000, the building was entirely community funded, according to Farm Show president Luke Bruckhart.

The new facility was officially opened during an afternoon ribbon-cutting ceremony preceding the hog show. Participants included county extension director Jay Irwin, Pennsylvania Dept. of Agriculture's Eugene Wingert and last year's Manheim Farm Show runnerup queen Lori Good.

Chosen for reserve championship honors in the hog show was another Duroc-Spot cross that may well have been the grand champion's littermate, according to Marlin Becker.

Exhibiting the show's number-two pig was Heather Haldeman, 12, the daughter of Barry and Colleen Haldeman of Manheim. The 248-pound entry was also purchased from Larry Mullens. Both Becker's champion and Haldeman's reserve were raised at the Haldeman's feeder pig operation.

A Manheim Central seventh-grader, Heather found herself in the winners circle after only two years of swine competition.

Results of the hog show follow.

Valiant daughters win top Holstein honors

BY JACK HUBLEY

MANHEIM — It may have been her first walk in the show ring, but Royal Dream Valiant Marla showed judge Jim McCaffree what he was looking for in a complete dairy cow.

A York County dairyman, McCaffree singled out other individuals that excelled in specific areas before pointing to the senior champion as the cow with the best balanced package of udder, dairyness and general appearance.

Owned and exhibited by Manheim dairyman Lamar Witmer, Marla's pedigree and records reinforced the judge's assessment. A Valiant daughter, the champion's dam is Kingstead Fond Matt Marabelle, a cow classified VG-87 that just finished a lactation with 30,000 lbs. milk and 1,100 lbs. fat.

Witmer bought the champ's granddam at a Kingstead promotion sale. She classified Ex-90 and made 37,000 lbs. milk.

"She freshened and turned out pretty good, so I thought I'd bring her here," said Witmer of his top female. "The exciting thing is that she's milking about as much as any two-year-old," he said, noting that Marla is peaking at around 100 pounds of milk a day.

Another Valiant daughter shown by Joe Wivell of Columbia went home with the reserve grand trophy after being named reserve senior champion.

Named Donegal Creek Valiant Lela, the three-year-old was a homebred entry whose dam was a Lucky Type Blazer daughter classified VG-89. "I bought her dam about 10 years ago when I started farming," said Wivell. "She's given me five daughters and they're all doing very well."

Wivell's reserve champ was also this year's first-place three-year-old at the Elizabethtown Fair and the Lancaster County Holstein Show.

Three colored breeds were represented at this year's show, with Michelle Kerdeman of Manheim showing the grand champion Ayrshire. The daughter of Barbara and Jules Kerdeman, Michelle showed a two-year-old that took junior champion and reserve grand champion honors at the 1983 and 1984 Manheim shows, respectively. The Caverly Farms Pudge daughter was bred by John Stick of Lebanon.

Only one entry was registered in each of the Jersey and Brown Swiss shows. Robert Fox, the son of Dan Fox, Ephrata, showed his 4-H junior yearling heifer in the Jersey show. Dan Martin, the son of James and Lucille Martin, Lititz, showed his FFA project heifer in the intermediate calf class. Both exhibitors were last year's winners in their respective shows.

Hampshire breed sweeps market, breeding sheep shows

The sheep show's supreme champion breeding ewe was Princess, a fall Hampshire lamb shown by Scott and Michelle Mylin.

BY JACK HUBLEY

MANHEIM — Maybe it was the momentum created by taking both champion and reserve Hampshire market lamb honors at last week's Eastern National Livestock Show in Maryland. Or maybe a measure of good, old fashioned luck had something to do with it, as her father, George Lewis, would say. From where judge Robert Leib stood, though, Landisville's Ellen Lewis simply had the best market lambs of the lot.

The Manheim Farm Show's sheep competition includes two market lamb shows. While the sale lamb division is a terminal show, the open division allows exhibitors to continue on with their lambs after competing at Manheim.

Theoretically, at least, each exhibitor has twice as many chances to take home a market lamb trophy when both divisions are recognized. But Ellen Lewis and her meaty purebred Hampshires weren't about to concede victory to anyone else in either category.

Campaigning a pair of homegrown Hampshires, Lewis went to the top in open competition with a 126-pound ewe lamb. She

It's here; Isoacid product makes long-awaited debut

BY JAMES H. EVERHART

LANCASTER — After a year of waiting, feed companies in Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York will begin offering isoacid products on about Nov. 1.

Made available by Eastman Kodak's Eastman Chemicals Division, the new product, called IsoPlus, reportedly can increase the average cow's milk production by up to 10 percent.

The product, approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration for commercial use in 1984, has been evaluated in Michigan for the past several months.

The Nov. 1 kickoff will include simultaneous introductions of the product in 15 other states: California, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and eight New England states.

Distribution of the product is being limited by the company because of limited production facilities, according to USDA officials. The company has a new plant under construction in Longview, TX, that will produce enough product to meet needs on a global scale.

Local agricultural extension agents indicate there have been a few inquiries about the product, but certainly no deluge.

"I've been talking about it more than people have been asking about it," quipped Lackawanna County Extension Director Tom Jurchak.

He noted that it has not been determined whether the product, termed a "nutritional supplement" by the manufacturer, will prove cost effective for most dairymen.

Because it increases production quite slowly, and has a different impact on cows at various stages of their lactation, said Jurchak, the average dairyman "may not see the effect" of feeding an isoacid product.

An industry observer noted that the product is "not for everyone" and said many feed companies are urging their sales representatives to adopt a "go-slow" approach on the new product.

But, he noted, if it is used properly, the product can improve the efficiency of a dairyman's herd, and allow him to reduce cow numbers or cut down on feed and still produce the same amount of milk.

"It's a tool to improve efficiency," he said. "And for the average, one-man operation of 45 to 70 cows, it really strengthens his position," by enabling him to be more efficient.

The product, which reportedly has been approved for DHIA feeding programs, reportedly must be fed to a cow for six to eight weeks before becoming fully effective.

A generic term that refers to a mixture of four fatty acids, isoacids are found naturally in cows' rumen. When added as a supplement to feed, it makes more nutrients from the feed available for milk production.

Tomato crop winding down

HARRISBURG – Harvesting of the 1985 Pennsylvania tomato crop was winding down throughout the state during the week ending October 6, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. Statewide, the apple harvest was reported to be 64 percent complete, while three-fourths of the grape crop had been harvested.

Four days were rated suitable for fieldwork across the Commonwealth. Activities for the week included harvesting corn for grain and silage, green chop, hay, soybeans, potatoes, peppers, broccoli, tomatoes, apples and grapes; fall plowing; seeding small grains; and spreading manure.

Statewide, topsoil moisture was rated 13 percent short, 74 percent adequate and 13 percent surplus. Northern region reporters rated soil moisture as 17 percent short and 83 percent adequate. Central reporters indicate moisture conditions as 29 percent short and 71 percent adequate, Southern reporters estimated soil moisture supplies as 70 percent adequate and 30 percent surplus.

One percent of the corn crop was in dough, 28 percent dented, 57 percent mature and 14 percent harvested. Last year at this time, 10 percent of the crop was in dough, 46 percent dented, 40 percent mature and four percent was harvested. Across the state, corn condition was rated 46 percent excellent, 37 percent good, 14 percent fair, two percent poor and one percent very poor. Northern reporters rated corn conditions 33 percent excellent, 46 percent good, 17 percent fair, three percent poor and one percent very poor. Central reporters rated the crop as 45 percent excellent, 30 percent good, 22 percent fair and three percent poor. Southern reporters rated the corn crop 52 percent excellent, 39 percent good, seven percent fair, one percent poor and one percent very poor. Corn silage harvest was reported to be 66 percent complete compared to 52 percent harvested last year at this time. The corn silage harvesting rates for the northern, central, and southern regions was reported to be 40, 69 and 81 percent, respectively.

The condition of the soybean crop was rated 41 percent excellent, 42 percent good, 13 percent fair, three percent poor and one percent very poor. Across the state, approximately 15 percent of the soybeans have been harvested.

The harvest of potatoes was reported to be 88 percent complete compared to 79 percent harvested at this time last year. Harvesting rates of 79, 95 and 93 percent were reported by the northern, central and southern regions, respectively.

Third cutting of alfalfa was virtually complete compared with 92 percent last year. Fourth cutting alfalfa was 64 percent complete, 14 points ahead of last year on this date. The quality of hay made during the week was rated 32 percent good, 50 percent fair and 18 percent poor. The amount of feed being obtained from pastures was rated above average by four percent, average by 52 percent and below average by 44 percent of reporters.

Across the Commonwealth, fall plowing was reported to be 74 percent complete. Statewide, fall seeding of barley was 75 percent complete and winter wheat seeding reached the halfway mark.

Farm Credit forms group to push for federal aid

WASHINGTON – Washington representatives and leaders of the nation's farm and commodity organizations have been given a status report on the Farm Credit System's planned request for Federal financial assistance.

Ray Moss Tucker, Chairman of the Legislative Committee which is developing the system's financial assistance request, told the agricultural leaders that the deteriorating agricultural situation and the debate on a new farm bill are having an impact on the Farm Credit System and resulting in wider spreads on the sale of securities.

"In spite of the fact that our costs continue to rise with spreads at up to one percent over treasury issues with comparable maturities, our committee will urge all Farm Credit Districts to try to hold the line on interest rates, while the system's request for Federal assistance is being developed," Tucker said. "While increasing interest rates to recover increased costs might be a wise business decision, it would increase the economic stress on our Farmer-Borrowers."

Tucker then outlined the status of the Farm Credit System's request for Federal assistance. He reported.

- A Committee composed of three Farmer-Directors and three Bank Presidents began working this week on the development of an assistance request;
- Meetings were held with the Farm Credit Administration this week to discuss the basic elements of the financial plan for assistance to be sent to the Congress;
- Briefings were held with key Congressional Leaders to tell them what actions the Committee was considering and to listen to their suggestions on the type of assistance they could support.

Tucker also said, "Any aid ultimately provided to the Farm Credit System will ensure that there continues to be a dependable source of credit to agriculture—and that's essential–but it will not solve the Farm income problem in agriculture today."

"We recognize, just as you do, that there must be profitability for farmers and ranchers," Tucker said. "Unless there are significant improvements in the economic outlook for agriculture, we believe that another 215,000 farmers will be pushed toward bankruptcy and farmland values will be driven even lower. Both factors are beyond our control and move us even closer toward a major crisis in confidence for all lenders to agriculture."

Tucker said the system will continue to involve the farm organizations as the request for assistance is developed.

The Legislative Committee was selected to represent the system and its Farmer-Borrowers in this legislative effort

Tobacco support prices announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently issued 1985-crop price support levels for burley and six other kinds of tobacco.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the price support level for burley tobacco was increased from $1.751 per pound to $1.788 per pound, the minimum increase permitted by law. The price support level for dark, air-cured tobacco was lowered by one cent to $1.047 per pound. The five other kinds are unchanged from 1982 through 1984 levels.

The levels for the 1985-crop tobaccos are as follows:

Kind	1985 Support Level Dollars per pound
Burley (type 31)	$1 788
Fire-cured (type 21)	$1 188
Fire-cured (types 22 23)	$1 23
Dark air cured (types 35-36)	$1 047
Sun-cured (type 37)	$1 094
Cigar binder & filler (types 42 44, 53-55)	$0 907
Puerto Rican Cigar filler (type 46)	$0 74

Current legislation requires that price supports be made available for the kinds of tobacco for which producers have not disapproved marketing quotas.

The Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983 permits USDA to limit the increase in the burley support level when supplies are excessive. The minimum increase is 65 percent of the maximum increase of 5.7 cents per pound calculated under the support formula.

Expert cites advantages of recourse market loans

NEWARK, DE – Non-recourse commodity marketing loan proposals are attracting much attention in the current farm bill debate. However, little has been said about recourse marketing loans–a concept less popular with farmers but more likely to benefit them in the long run from the standpoint of strengthening prices, according to University of Delaware extension farm policy specialist Gerald F. Vaughn.

Vaughn feels farmers might be more open to the idea of recourse loans if the ultimate economic impact of such loans were better understood.

"In the past," he explains, "grain farmers participating in non-recourse commodity loan programs had two options when their loans came due. If the market price was above the loan rate, they sold their grain at the market price and paid off their loans with interest. If the market price was below the loan rate, they accepted the loan rate as their price and delivered their grain to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) in full payment of the loan."

The farmer-owned grain reserve, created in 1977, permits farmers to retain little to the grain and store it for another three years, selling it only if the market price exceeds an established release price. The government pays storage costs. If the grain remains unsold at the end of three years, farmers can still accept the loan rate as their price and deliver their grain to the CCC.

"The proposed recourse marketing loan would be different," Vaughn says, "since the government would not acquire the grain if the market price fell below the loan rate. Instead, grain farmers participating in the commodity loan program would sell their grain at the lower market price and fully repay their loans from those sales." The unpaid balance would never be due and would represent an advance, or added income--the farmer's protection against severe market declines.

"Previously," the economist continues, "defaults on non-recourse loans have resulted in U.S. government acquisition of costly and burdensome surpluses, withholding large quantities of grain from the world market.

"By artificially keeping the U.S. grain price above the world price," Vaughn says, "the non-recourse loan program has become a hindrance to U.S. exporting. As a result, it's been easier for other grain-exporting countries to undersell the U.S. and capture larger shares of world markets. With the recourse marketing loan concept, the government would no longer withhold grain from the world market. Instead, domestic prices would adjust to world price levels, making the U.S. more competitive in the world market."

The loan rate under non-recourse loans became a floor for domestic market prices, the economist explains. Both participants and non-participants benefited from having a floor price. This encouraged many farmers not to participate. Instead, they benefited as free riders, which stymied production control efforts by the government.

"Farmers who participate in the proposed recourse marketing loan program would receive price protection," Vaughn says. "Non-participants, however, would have to compete at the world price level, without the benefit of a domestic price floor." Under this arrangement, he says production control (acreage reduction or marketing quotas) could be more effective because the program would likely attract higher participation.

Poultry and livestock producers and grain processors would probably benefit from recourse marketing loans, the economist adds, since their costs for grain would be lower. At the same time, agribusinesses and exporters probably would enjoy larger sales volumes and world market shares.

"The main drawback to the recourse marketing loan concept is its potential cost," Vaughn points out, "unless payment limitations are imposed. Commodity loans would be fully repaid at less than original amounts when market prices fell below the loan rate. Assuming normal weather conditions and less than bumper crops, the program might not be too costly. But with large crops leading to falling prices, it could get rather expensive in the absence of payment limitations to individual farmers." At present, payment limitations apply to target price deficiency payments but not to commodity loans.

One way to hold down costs would be to have the unpaid part of the original loan count against the fixed dollar limitation on target price deficiency payments. Another would be to set a minimum repayment requirement on the recourse marketing loan, such as 70 percent of the original amount.

"The recourse marketing loan concept," Vaughn concludes, "is a compromise between a totally market-oriented pricing system and the reality of today's ailing farm economy. Many U.S. farmers would go out of business if agriculture's price safety net were suddenly removed, further jeopardizing rural communities and credit institutions. With payment limitations, the recourse marketing loan concept could provide price protection to farmers, yet cost taxpayers less than a government policy of acquiring and storing the huge surpluses which have resulted from nonrecourse loan defaults."

USDA announces marketing grant

WEST SPRINGFIELD, MA – Secretary of Agriculture John Block has announced a $50,000 federal grant to the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture to help that state develop direct wholesale and retail markets for its farm products.

Block said the state plans to use the grant to establish a wholesale-retail market outlet in the Worchester area. The market will sell farm produce to wholesale buyers during morning hours and convert to a retail outlet each afternoon.

The grant was awarded under the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal-State Marketing Improvement Program, which provides federal matching funds to qualifying states for research and experiments in marketing, transportation and distribution of agricultural products.

"By encouraging direct marketing of agricultural products by farmers, cooperatives and commodity associations, USDA marketing grants can help states increase marketing outlets and farm labor income," Block said.

Previously awarded USDA marketing grants to Massachusetts provided start-up funds for other projects including a vegetable marketing cooperative in Deerfield. Established in 1983 with four farmers and an annual sales volume of $10,000, the Pioneer Valley Growers Association this year includes 52 growers and has a projected gross sales of $2 million.

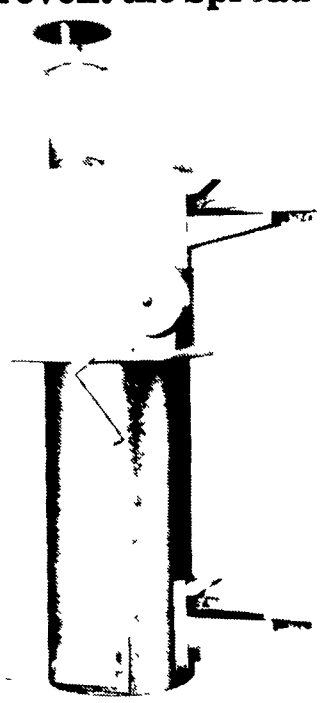
SHENANDOAH INCINERATORS - A SANITARY ALTERNATIVE FOR ON FARM DISPOSAL

To Help Prevent the Spread of Disease

The sanitary way to get rid of animal carcasses is with a Shenandoah incinerator. It's pollution controlled and convenient to use. It's also extra efficient because we've lined the burning chambers, and in some models even the afterburning chambers, with one and a quarter inches of refractory cement. That keeps the heat up and the energy costs down.



Choose among eight easy-to-install smoke and odor controlled models. You even have the option of burning gas or oil.

Ask your local Shenandoah dealer about efficient, inexpensive incinerators. You'll find out how our bright ideas in farm equipment can mean a bright spot in your day. And still leave a green spot in your wallet.

USDA develops quick test to identify 'Killer bees'

WASHINGTON – A quick test that accurately distinguishes between Africanized bees (sometimes called "killer bees") and domestic honey bees has been developed by U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists.

A sampling of suspect bees can be identified, initially, by a one-minute screening of wing size in a field laboratory. Computer analysis of other body parts later verifies the results.

"We call it FABIS (Fast Africanized Bee Identification System) and it can be taught to state and local technicians in only one day," said the test's inventor, Thomas Rinderer, research leader of the Agricultural Research Service's Bee Breeding and Bee Stock Laboratory, Baton Rouge, La.

This week, Hachiro Shimanuki, head of the research agency's Bioenvironmental Bee Laboratory at Beltsville, Md., verified that the new test is "quick, easy and does not require expensive equipment."

FABIS is already in use by agriculture inspectors in California, where in June a swarm of Africanized bees was found for the first time in the United States. About 10,000 commercial hives in the state are being tested by the California Department of Food and Agriculture and USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Officials in every state can use the test to make sure Africanized bees are truly on the loose before they risk elimimating bee colonies," Rinderer said.

He noted that officials want to protect domestic honeybees, which closely resemble Africanized bees, because they are vital to American agriculture. Over $18 million worth of crops are pollinated by honeybees every year.

Africanized bees have been called killer bees because they are far more aggressive and likely to sting than domestic honeybees, although they do not have a sting that is any more toxic.

Rinderer and colleagues are using the new test at the Baton Rouge laboratory to identify samplings shipped from California.

Bees are first screened in a one-minute procedure: The forewings of ten randomly-selected bees from a suspect colony are mounted on slides, projected onto a screen, and measured.

Wing sizes are then checked against a numbered chart that has pre-established measurements for each kind of bee.

However, if there is still a slight suspicion that the bees are Africanized, further testing begins.

First, the researchers weigh the bees and measure their hind wings and legs. Next, they enter data on all the measurements into a computer, which then gives a figure indicating the probability that the bees are Africanized.

Delaware prints apple guide

DOVER, DE – To celebrate the harvest of Delaware's 1985 apple crop, the Delaware Department of Agriculture and the Delaware Apple Growers have announced the release of a new apple buyers guide to choosing and using Delaware apples.

The brochure, entitled "Delaware Apples...First Rate from the First State" is available free of charge from any of Delaware's apple orchards, many produce outlets, or by sending a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to Delaware Apple Brochure, Delaware Department of Agriculture, 2320 S. DuPont Highway, Dover, DE 19901.

The brochure highlights 12 varieties of apples produced commercially in Delaware and advises consumers on when they are harvested in a normal year. Tips on the best use for each variety are also included.

Advice on storing apples, keeping them fresh looking in pies and salads, and an historic look at the apple is included along with several apple recipes using the famous Delaware fruit.

Apple growers are currently harvesting the 1985 apple crop and report good quality fruit with nice color. For a list of apple producers in Delaware or other information, contact the Delaware Department of Agriculture Marketing Section, during regular business hours, at 800-282-8685 or 736-4811.

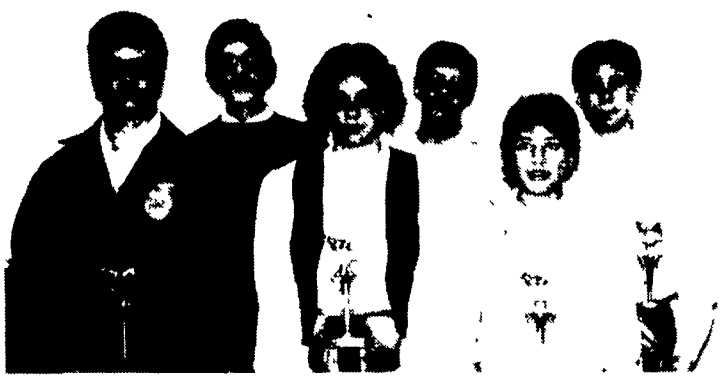
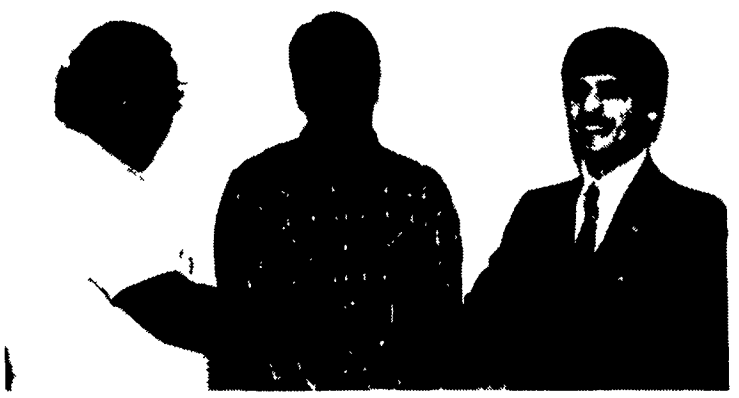
Lebanon County Holstein Club meets

Speaker at Tuesday evening's Lebanon County Holstein Club banquet was Ron Buffington, of Holstein Investment Opportunities, Inc. Here he greets Kirby Horst of Newmanstown.



Many Lebanon County youth were recognized for their outstanding milk and fat records. Among the first-place winner were: Kent Hoffer (back right), Duane Nolt, Jonathan Sonnen standing in for brother David, Dean Nolt (front left), Becky Hostetter, and Kathy Mase.



Calvin Miller, right, welcomes Barry Donmoyer (left) and Dave Himmelberger to the Lebanon County Holstein Club board of directors. Also elected was Phares Musser.

PFU head hits House Farm Bill

HARRISBURG – House defeat of the Bedell farm amendment is a bitter disappointment for America's economically devastated farmers and ranchers, according to Pennsylvania Farmers Union President M. James Brown.

The Bedell Amendment (introduced by Iowa Representative Berkley Bedell) would have provided an alternative farm program and allowed farmers to vote in a referendum for higher price supports and production controls. The Amendment was defeated 251-174 on the House floor.

"Congress has, at least temporarily, forfeited an opportunity to reverse the worsening economic depression in rural America," Brown said.

The state farm leader said the Farmers Union will continue efforts to persuade Congress to pass a stronger 1985 farm program, however, he said the House action has delivered a severe blow to hopes for improvement in the farm economy.

"The House was apparently more anxious to please President Reagan and Secretary of Agriculture John Block, than it was to end the depression in Rural America," Brown continued.

The PFU leader said farm legislation now before both the House and Senate would guarantee significant declines in farm income over the next several years.

"Passage of either the House or Senate versions of the farm bill would be a death sentence to hundreds of thousands of family farmers and a knock-out blow to the Farm Credit System," Brown said.

He said the Farmers Union will urge the defeat of any version of the 1985 farm bill that does not provide for improved agriculture income.

Ag co-ops increase business by 9.6% in '84, USDA says

WASHINGTON – The business volume of the Nation's farmer cooperatives in 1984 increased 9.6 percent, but net margins declined 3.2 percent, according to figures released by USDA.

Randall E. Torgerson, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Cooperative Service (ACS), reported record high combined sales of $73.1 billion, compared with $66.8 billion in 1983. Volume surpassed the previous record of $71.5 billion in 1981.

Net margins were $1.02 billion, compared with $1.06 billion in 1983 and $854 million in 1982.

The rise in business volume was attributed mostly to larger quantities of grain marketed and fertilizer sold by cooperatives. Total cooperative business volume includes marketing – value of products sold; farm supplies – sales of fertilizer, chemicals, fuels, feed, and other supplies to members and patrons; and receipts from related services such as trucking, storage, ginning, and drying.

Torgerson said the drop in the number of cooperatives – from 5,989 to 5,781 – resulted from restructuring of cooperatives through mergers, consolidations, acquisitions, and in some cases going out of business. Memberships of 4.8 million were down 2.3 percent from 4.95 million in 1983. Memberships were higher than farm numbers because many farmers belonged to more than one cooperative. Membership per association averaged 838, compared with 827 for 1983. Marketing volume of $54.6 billion was up 10.7 percent from the $49.3 billion in 1983.

Grain, the leading farm product handled by cooperatives, increased 27.1 percent to $20.6 billion. But dairy, the second biggest product, decreased to $16.7 billion or less than 1 percent.

Several other farm products also showed large increases: fruits and vegetables at $5.1 billion were up 19.3 percent; cotton at $2.5 billion was up 43.6 percent; dry beans and peas were up 54.8 percent; and tobacco was up 36.5 percent.

Livestock and livestock products showed the largest decrease – with sales at $3.7 billion down 22.6 percent from 1983.

Farm supply volume was nearly $17 billion, up 6.4 percent from 1983.

Of the major farm supplies, seed was up 21.5 percent, fertilizer up 21.1 percent, and farm chemicals up 16.3 percent. Feed showed a slight increase – up 1.3 percent. Although petroleum products continued to account for the largest volume among farm supplies, $5.5 billion, it increased less than 1 percent from 1983.

Declines occurred for other farm supply commodities: farm machinery down 10.6 percent and other supplies down less than 1 percent.

Value of other services related to farm business rose to $1.5 billion, up 3.6 percent from $1.47 billion in 1983.

Farmer cooperative assets totaled $29.2 billion, up 1.3 percent from $28.8 billion in 1983.

Total liabilities dropped from $17.3 billion to $17 billion, down 1.6 percent.

Net worth, or member and patron equity, increased 5.6 percent from $11.5 billion to $12.2 billion. The proportion of total assets financed by equity increased from 40 to 41.7 percent.

USSR adds to '85-'86 corn buy

WASHINGTON – Private exporters today reported to the U.S. Department of Agriculture export sales of 1,000,000 metric tons of corn for delivery to the USSR during the 1985-86 marketing year and under the third year of the Long Term Grain Supply Agreement. The marketing year for corn begins Oct. 1.

With today's sales, corn to the USSR for delivery during the third year of the agreement (which begins Oct. 1, 1985 and ends Sept. 30, 1986) totals 1,600,000 tons.

Sales of wheat and corn to the USSR for delivery during the second year of the Long Term Grain Supply Agreement (which ends Sept. 30, 1985) now total 18,637,300 tons, of which wheat is 2,887,200 tons and corn is 15,750,100 tons.

If you knew how to make an extra 50¢ a bushel on your corn, what would you do?

Being the wise farmer you are, you would investigate the claim is it true? what's the catch? Well, it's pretty simple Investigate AeroDry

AeroDry is a proven, reliable, and extremely economical system for drying grain on your farm And it pays off for you in lots of ways

1. You make the profit grain elevators make.
With AeroDry, instead of sitting in long frustrating unloading lines waiting to learn how much you're going to lose in dockage charges you simply load your grain non-stop into your own bin No harvest slow downs No wasted time And your grain belongs to you, so you can sell when it's most beneficial

2. Low cost drying.
Compared to any heat-drying unit, AeroDry uses only about 25% of the energy to do the same job and does it better The AeroDry Computer controls fan-forced fresh air to dry grain naturally You pocket the savings

3. Premium test weights.
Your grain stays perfect, undamaged by heat and cracking, protected from mold by evaporative cooling That means the highest possible test weights for you And that means money

4. Long term profit.
An AeroDry System pays itself off in about 3 short years Then it's pure profit Clean and simple, year after year

Now that you've got an idea how to make an extra 50¢ a bushel on your corn what will you do? Being a wise farmer you'll investigate AeroDry Send for more information today or call for a local rep to give you the rest of the good news about AeroDry then copped the championship title in the sale division with a 116-pound wether lamb.

Manheim sheep

The daughter of George and Lorraine Lewis, Ellen points out that caring for her flock of 35 purebred Hampshires has become a family affair. And the dozen pink, red and blue ribbons lining the wall above the Lewis sheep pens Thursday night were graphic proof that this family is one of the county's winningest show teams. Ellen also scored a double play at last year's county roundup by exhibiting the show's supreme champion breeding ewe and champion market lamb.

After naming six breed champions in the breeding sheep show that preceded the market competition, Leib went hunting for his supreme champion ewe. And what he finally bagged was the fall lamb shown by Michelle and Scott Mylin that had taken champion honors in the Hampshire show.

Named Princess, the show's top breeding ewe was purchased from Jack Price at the Mid-Atlantic Sale held in Manheim in July. The children of Jay and Carol Mylin of Manheim, Michelle, 16, and Scott, 14, also led Princess to supreme champion ewe honors at this year's Elizabethtown Fair. So with two shows to her credit, Princess has so far proven to be unbeatable.

Other individual breed champions named in the breeding show include:

•Columbia — Heidi Fisher, daughter of Bill and Dee Fisher, East Earl showed the champion, purchased from Breaker Lane Farm, New Holland.

•Dorset — Carrie Donches, 14, the daughter of Joe and Sue Donches, Manheim, exhibited the champion Dorset.

•Shropshire — Arlisa Snavely, 13, daughter of Jim and Arlene Snavely, Lancaster, showed the champion Shrop

History was made in Manheim's Lead Line competition last year, when Jason Wolgemuth of Elizabethtown entered the traditionally female-dominated show, shattering another gender barrier.

Though Jason wasn't present this year, his influence remains: the competition's name has been changed from Ladies Lead Line to Shepherds Lead Line.

Placing first in the Lead Line's senior division this year was Lisa Sadler, 17, the daughter of Ralph and Bonnie Sadler, Elizabethtown. Lisa's wooly partner, Maggie, was champion in the youth shows at

Money available for local dairy promotion

HARRISBURG – Donald B. Duncan, chairman of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program advisory board, announced recently that funding is again available to local dairy promotion groups through the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

"This is the third funding program which has been offered by the board. We realize how vital the local grassroots promotional groups are in promoting the consumption of milk and dairy products," Duncan said.

"Since the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has been extended through the successful passage of the national dairy referendum, we hope to continue the local funding program indefinitely. Funding will now take place on a semi-annual basis, with applications being accepted two times per year," Duncan added.

Applications for the January 1 through June 30, 1986 funding period should be submitted by Nov. 15, 1985. Applications will be accepted in April, 1986 for the July 1 through Dec. 31, 1986 funding period.

The advisory board will follow the same guidelines in awarding funds. Again, funds will be awarded to groups wishing to place radio advertising on their local stations using the program's professionally-produced radio ads. Local groups may insert a special message about their own particular organization or promotion. The board will provide a maximum of $450 per radio station if the local organization agrees to pay at least 25 percent of the advertising cost, up to a total of $600.

The funding guidelines also allow for partial funding for capital investments such as mobile sales units to market dairy products or costumes. For this type of project, the board will provide a maximum of $1,000 per project, providing the local group pays at least 75 percent of the purchase cost.

In addition to radio advertising and capital investments, the board also encourages other projects and promotions such as shopping mall and supermarket promotions, radio trivia contests, and ice cream promotions.

"In all promotional projects, we are looking for effective consumption of milk and dairy products. Any project or promotion which will increase the demand of milk and dairy products will be given consideration. Funds will be awarded only for non-brand promotion," Duncan added.

Applications for funding should include the following information: a description of the project; when and where the project will take place; itemized costs of the project; the total projected cost of the project; the amount of funds available from the local group; and the amount of funds requested from the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. If funds are requested for more than one promotion or project, applications must be very specific as to cost of the project, funds availabel, and amount of funds requested for EACH project. Local groups will again be asked to report on the use of the awarded funds.

For additional information or application forms, contact the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, 2301 N. Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, or call 717-787-6903.

Dairylea Young Cooperator annual meeting set

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – More than 60 Dairylea Young Cooperators from New York and Pennsylvania will meet in Syracuse, N.Y., October 15 and 16. The Dairylea Young Cooperators' annual meeting will run concurrently with the annual meeting of Dairylea Cooperative, the sponsoring organization.

Leadership in the youth program will be provided by the YC executive committee of 13 members, according to Doreen Heall, Delhi, N.Y., president of the Young Cooperators.

YC executive committee members from Pennsylvania include: Mark and Felicia Woodruff, Danville; John Painter, Westfield; William Terrel, Waymart; and Trudy Vail, Honesdale.

William Terrell will preside over the Oct. 15 opening session. Dairylea's Vice President of Corporate Relations, Jack Atkinson, will speak on the promotion of the Dairylea brand and quality image. David Hardie, Lansing, N.Y., and director of Dairylea's Fingerlakes District #4 will present the outlook for dairy producers.

YC opportunities will be reviewed by Joanne Hunt, Corfu, N.Y. and Jeanne Rathbun, Schenevus, N.Y.

Dairylea's President Clyde Rutherford and Executive Vice-President Bob Hall will speak at the Oct. 16 session. YC President Doreen Hall will conduct the meeting at which dairy princesses from N.Y., Pa. and N.J. also will appear.

Dairylea's Education, Communication, Information for Dairylea/Young Cooperative's Coordinator Helen Fountain will discuss the functioning of a farm cooperative. Dairylea's Director of Field Quality Control, Brad Ryan, will show the youth group, "the how's and why's of farm inspection."

The YC business session will include the election and installation of new executive committee members, reports and resolutions.

Dairylea Cooperative, sponsor of the organization, is the Northeast's largest cooperatively-owned milk marketer of its type with 3,000 members and another 2,000 milk producers that belong to affiliated cooperatives. More than 250 young adults belong to the Young Cooperators.

ADA airs new commercials

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council recently launched a series of three new milk commercials that will be aired on local television. The 30-second commercials continue the current theme, "Milk America's Health Kick," depicting milk as an integral part of an active, healthy lifestyle.

The commericals feature milk at breakfast time, in athletics, and milk for energy. As in previous "Health Kick" commercials, the opening action emerges from a frosty milk carton to live action featuring volleyball and karate demonstrations, upbeat, energetic street music, and professional dancers in the new commercials.

Each segment is set to a different variation of the "Health Kick" theme music. Lyrics deliver a positive nutritional message about milk's calcium content and important vitamins.

The commercials are part of a nationwide campaign developed by the advertising agency of D'Arcy, Masius Benton and Bowles. Non-brand advertising for fluid milk has consistently proven to have significant positive effect on consumer milk sales.

The American Dairy Association is a producer funded and directed milk marketing agency serving the tri-state region of New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Eastern reports strong earnings at annual meeting

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., had good news to deliver to the 600 members and guests attending its annual meeting, held Oct. 1-2. The cooperative's board of directors and management announced 1985-86 first-quarter earnings of $424,000, reassuring the member dairy farmers of the financial stability of the Association.

Eastern's total earnings in fiscal 1984-85 were $438,000.

Delegates from Eastern's 140 local organizations met in policy sessions on Oct. 1 and attended the annual meeting banquet. During the banquet, president Earl R. Forwood gave special recognition to three retiring directors: Robert K. Hill Jr., Memphis, N.Y.; Stanley R. Weaver, Elizabethville; and George A. Stambaugh, Newville.

Awards were also given to Eastern's "Members of the Year," Robert and Betsy Knopsnyder, for their exceptional contributions to the cooperative on the local level; to Eastern's "Field Representative of the Year," Angelo Carpenetti, for his outstanding efforts in increasing cooperative membership; and to the Farmer's Friend, Towanda, for the newspaper's dedication to the coverage of agricultural news.

Main speaker for the evening banquet was Harry Houston, director of training for the Tennessee Farmers Cooperative.

During the annual meeting session on Oct. 2, general manager Michael Donovan and president Earl Forwood reported to the membership and detailed the 1984-85 annual report. Said Donovan, "We feel it is very important to let our members, as well as other Northeast dairy farmers, know that despite hard times and failure of a major Northeast cooperative, there is still a cooperative that is strong and growing. We offer our members security."

Also during the annual meeting, officer and committee reports were given and a special update on the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board was presented by the board's chief executive officer, Joseph Westwater.

Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., is the largest dairy cooperative in the Northeast serving over 4100 dairy farmers throughout N.Y., Pa., Vt., N.H., Mass., Md., Del., and N.J.

York Holstein meeting set

DALLASTOWN – York County Holstein Association members will hold their annual meeting Oct. 25 at St. John's Blymire Church fellowship hall.

A turkey dinner will be served, beginning at 7 p.m. Cost of tickets is $7 for adults, and $4 for 4-H and FFA members and children ages five to nine.

Dairylea women to take active leadership roles at annual meeting

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Dairylea women will play leadership roles during the milk marketing cooperative's 66th annual meeting in Syracuse, N.Y., Oct. 15-16, according to Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford.

All are participants in ECID, short for "Education, Communication, Information for Dairylea." One permanent arm of the ECID organization is a group of 13 legislative committeewomen, who represent each of Dairylea's 13 districts. Another arm is a county-based group including 42 Dairylea advisory committeewomen from the states of N.Y., Pa., N.J. and Vt.

In addition to attending official sessions of the Dairylea Cooperative annual meeting including management and officers' reports, participating ECID members will observe the policy-making delegate sessions.

Sepatate ECID sessions will deal with estate planning and with political action committees.

Sue Reynolds of Delancey, N.Y., chairperson of ECID-LCW, will chair "Putting PAC's into Perspective" on Oct. 16. Speaking will be Frank Vacca, vice-president for government affairs of Mid-America Dairymen, Inc.

Marian Beadsley, Fairport, N.Y., ECID-ACW, will lead the estate planning session. Cindy Casey, a planning and security advisor from the Brighton-Pittsford Agency, will be technical consultant.

Dairy Marketing

Dairylea, with $358 million in net sales during its last fiscal year, is the largest milk marketer of its type in the Northeast. The Cooperative has 3,000 members; another 2,000 dairy producers belong to its affiliated cooperatives.

Dairylea annual meeting begins Tuesday in Syracuse

SYRACUSE, NY – More than a thousand delegates, families, milk industry officials, and friends are expected to attend the 66th annual meeting of the Northeast's oldest and largest milk marketing cooperative of its type, Dairylea Cooperative Inc., Tuesday and Wednesday.

The meetings will center at the Hotels at Syracuse Square in downtown Syracuse according to Dairylea President Clyde E. Rutherford, a dairy producer from Otego, N.Y. Rutherford will deliver his annual president's report to the assembled delegates during the meeting.

Dairylea had $358 million in net sales during its last fiscal year. The co-op currently has 3,000 members; another 2,000 dairy producers belong to affiliated cooperatives primarily in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Vermont.

Elected delegates from Dairylea's 13 districts will consider 27 resolutions already prepared by the co-op's resolutions committee plus any others which may be introduced from the floor.

Dairylea Treasurer and Director of District 11 in northern N.Y., Silas E. Eakins of Potsdam, will also present his annual report.

A management report will be given the assembly by Executive Vice-President Bob Hall and his staff.

Concurrent with the delegate sessions will be meetings of ECID (Education, Communications, Information for Dairylea), and the Dairylea Young Cooperators.

Order 4 milk $13.90 for November

ALEXANDRIA, Va. – Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine has announced a Class I milk price of $13.90 per hundredweight for November 1985. This price is up four cents from October but is $1.52 below last November's Class I price.

Shine announced a Class II milk price of $11.20 per hundredweight for September 1985 and a butterfat differential of 16.2 cents for the month. Both the Class II milk price and the butterfat differential were unchanged from the previous month.

The November Class I price and the September Class II price are based on the September 1985 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $11.12 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for September was $1.4110 per pound and the nonfat dry milk price was $.8055 per pound, f.o.b. plants in the Chicago area.

USDA reopens hearings on amending Southeastern milk orders

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture reopened a public hearing Oct. 2 on industry proposals to amend 12 federal milk marketing orders in the southeastern states.

Edward T. Coughlin, an official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the hearing was reopened because of mechanical problems discovered in the equipment used by the court reporting service hired to provide an official transcript of the hearing. The first hearing on the proposed amendments was held June 25-28.

The proposal would increase Class I milk price differentials in the area and change the location adjustment rates to better reflect the current cost of moving milk throughout the southeast.

Coughlin said dairy cooperatives contend the amendments are needed to facilitate moving milk from areas of more plentiful supplies to deficit areas in the region.

The affected milk marketing order areas are Upper Florida, Tampa Bay, Southeastern Florida, Georgia, Tennessee Valley, Greater Louisiana, Alabama-West Florida, New Orleans-Mississippi, Memphis, Nashville, Pudacah, and Louisville-Lexington-Evansville.

Copies of the hearing notice may be obtained from any of the market administrators of the affected orders, or from the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Crawford County Farmers' Assoc. holds annual meeting

BY NANCY KUNICK
Staff Correspondent

MEADVILLE — Regional PFA Organizational Director Bob Steider congratulated the hard-working members of the Crawford County Farmers' Association at their recent fall banquet.

With a membership increase and achievements in the areas of government, marketing, services, and women's committee, Crawford County was selected as one of PFA's "five-star" counties. During the meeting, Steider presented pins to the individuals who worked to achieve the honors.

The county meeting was conducted by Jack Post, president, with reports from Mary Bowman about a well-publicized mall promotion on National Ag Day and from Sherry Stanton on the "Ag in the Classroom" project.

Legislative tour

Leon Sweatman, of the legislative committee, also reported on the successful legislative tour. On Sept. 27, Pennsylvania assemblymen Tom Swift and Robbie Robbins, Senator Roy Wilt and Crawford County commissioners Ivan Rose and Gene Rumsey toured several farms in Crawford County.

Among the tour stops was a hog operation run by Sherri Eckart and Ray Elder. Speaking to the government officials, Elder shared his concerns about being paid by the pound for his product. He said that, although he has a minimum of fat on his hogs, he is paid simply on quantity, not on quality.

At the Steve Halowitz dairy farm, the visitors heard about the proliferation of gas drilling in the area. Although Halowitz has not leased any of his land for drilling, the neighboring farms are being drilled, and he believes that he is being forced to lease, or all the gas on his property will be siphoned off.

At the final stop on the legislative tour, Ron and Don Closky showed off their 75-head Holstein herd and 300-acre farm.

In other business at the Crawford County Farmers' Association meeting, four new directors were elected. They were: Lowell Agnew, George Simcheck, Doug Hayes, and Louise St. John.

Taking top honors in the junior division was Kathy Esbenshade, 13, the daughter of Allen and Linda Esbenshade, Mount Joy. A first-year Lancaster County 4-H Woolies member, Kathy entered the competition with her Shropshire market lamb.

Lead Line conpetitors are judged on poise and personality, as well as their animal's behavior. Entrants must wear homemade outfits of 100-percent wool.

Sheep: new hope?

do that is to have sheep breeding any time you want them to breed."

By carefully selecting western ewes for this trait, Wolgemuth hopes to eventually own a Pennsylvania flock with year-round lambing capability.

Not only is year-round breeding a must, but Ford also points out that the ewes will be expected to lamb at about eight-month intervals, yielding an average of six lambs per ewe over a two-year period. Breeds that are under consideration for Wolgemuth's intensive program include Dorsets, Finns, Rambouillets, Targhees and possibly Columbias.

Wolgemuth currently owns 200 ewes in New York State that were bred in the spring and are lambing now, says Reed. "If it (lambing) continues like it is, we'll be all right," Reed says. "It looks like we'll have 180 percent (approaching a two-lambs-per-ewe average) at the rate it's going now."

Though Wolgemuth's approach looks profitable on paper, Reed emphasizes that the firm plans to ease into the market lamb business. "We're just in the planning stages now, and we're trying to start slow and get a feel for it," says Reed. "It's not something that can be done today. It will have to be done over the next five to 10 years."

Penn State Extension sheep specialist Clair Engle thinks the program has "definite possibilities." Although Engle has some reservations about ewes being able to produce a lamb crop more than once a year, he favors the development of stock capable of fall lambing.

"One of the reasons that the industry hasn't attained higher stature is the seasonality of breeding," Engle says. "Certainly the strength is still in spring lambing, but there's no reason why we can't get 40 to 60 percent of our flock lambing in the fall."

Such a transition could be good news for the state's commercial lamb producers who, Engle points out, have taken a backseat to the purebred industry.

And the sheep industry, as a whole, has traditionally placed a distant third in the state's red meat production. According to the Department of Agriculture's Crop Reporting Service, 74,000 sheep were marketed here last year, with a total value of less than $4 million. By contrast, pork producers marketed 1,180,000 head of swine worth nearly $140 million, and cattlemen sold 835,000 head (including dairy) at a value of $323 million.

Just how much of an impact Wolgemuth Bros. will have on these numbers, company officials are not willing to say. But with Rocco expecting to increase slaughter by more than 200 percent, Pennsylvania sheep producers may be in the right place at the right time in an otherwise bloodless red meat industry.

Tomato-grading comments due

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture has extended to Oct. 23 the comment period on its proposal to amend the voluntary U.S. standards for grades of fresh tomatoes. The proposal would revise official size classification requirements for the fruit.

John J. Gardner, a marketing official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the 30-day extention is being granted at the request of industry representatives.

Lancaster educator shares leadership qualities with 4-H'ers

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

GORDONVILLE – Joanne Smoker has been a 4-H leader for only four years, but has already made a lasting contribution to Lancaster County's 4-H organization. This month she will complete a three-year term on the 4-H Leaders' Advisory Council, and she served as president of the council last year.

For Joanne, being a 4-H leader is an extension of her involvement with youth. As a high school business teacher, working with children comes naturally. However, it is her attitude which really demonstrates why she is a leader.

"I love young people," she says enthusiastically. "I see the youth of today as having more potential than in my own youth. They are exposed to so much, and have had their views broadened before they are out of high school. They have a better concept of the world, and have a lot of things going for them–things my generation didn't have until they were into their twenties."

As with many leaders, Joanne became a sewing leader when her own children, Dina, 12, and Dori, 11, joined the Pequea Valley 4-H Club. She and her husband, Lynn, live on Harvest Drive, Gordonville. A former 4-H'er with a club near Mastersonville in northern Lancaster County where she grew up, Joanne knew the value of the skills taught in 4-H.

However, with her involvement on a county level, she is much more aware of the greater picture of 4-H. "I can see the benefits of 4-H'ers learning the skills outside the home. Four-H is a very good organization as far as leadership. It offers a lot of social contacts on a county level, and 4-H'ers can really broaden their horizons," Joanne commented.

She added, "The Leaders Council showed me all that's valuable for 4-H'ers to be in. There are a lot of neat state activities, and leaders have to be aware that 4-H extends outside the club. Leaders should encourage their members to participate."

Of course, there is another element to the successful 4-H'er, Joanne points out. "Parents are so important. Children need encouragement from their parents. Parents need to say, 'We support you.'"

Joanne Smoker enjoys harvesting fruit from her backyard orchard. With many fruit trees and a large garden, she spends a lot of time preserving food.

These canned goods represent many hours of work and will be enjoyed by the entire Smoker family during the winter months. Joanne works as a substitute teacher so she has her summers free to garden and to be a 4-H leader.

Joanne added, "Most outstanding 4-H'ers have either a very dedicated leader or very dedicated parents. If there isn't that support, then it is a truly outstanding 4-H'er."

She noted, "Most children must be encouraged my adults. Leaders could be the person who keeps the child involved."

Recruiting leaders is always needed in 4-H, and Joanne says, "I keep after parents of present 4-H'ers. Everybody can do something. I think we also need to seek out community people, and I think there have to be senior citizens who would benefit greatly and who would have a lot to offer as leaders. It would be so neat if that could be incorporated in 4-H."

Being a leader is a challenge, Joanne is the first to admit. She teaches third year sewing and works with girls who have not touched the sewing machine since the year before with their previous 4-H project. "They forget how to sew, and can't sew a straight line." The first year she taught it she had 15 children sign up. With so many she sought out helpers for each project meeting, and adds, "hardly a day went by when somebody wasn't here working on a project."

Because of what she terms her "teacher instinct," Joanne is a stickler for making her children do demonstrations as part of their projects. Each child must do two–one for practice, and one for scoring. The demonstration counts for 10 out of the 100 points the children can attain for round-up.

Although not everyone likes the idea, Joanne says, "They can start to be comfortable being in front of their peers. It helps them learn to talk on their feet. If they start at a young age, they will be more comfortable later."

Joanne puts her organizational talents to work keeping the 4-H spirit alive in Lancaster County as a 4-H leader and a member of the 4-H Leaders Advisory Council.

She said she is not particular about subject matter, and lets them choose anything that is related, which could mean nail care, clothing for special uses, pattern measurement or how to do counted crosstitch.

Joanne says her concerns for the club she works with are the same as those shared by many clubs–keeping older children involved. "One solution is to put them in as teen leaders. They get satisfaction from helping younger children and teens are very capable."

Keeping up the competition is another way of maintaining interest, Joanne feels. Children like to be challenged and try to do better. "Once they see they can compete and win or improve, they like it. They also enjoy seeing how they do on a county level when they participate in the 4-H Fair," she points out. She would like to encourage more leaders to push the members to take their projects to the Fair.

Joanne stresses that the biggest change in 4-H is the variety of projects now available. "4-H has a connotation now that is more than animals, sewing and cooking. If the leaders are available, 4-H'ers can take anything."

She noted, "Four-H is definitely no longer just for rural kids. It is neat that we are getting more minorities involved, and that there are programs for city children." She adds that her own Pequea Valley Club is branching into project areas other than cooking and sewing.

The Leaders Advisory Council, according to Joanne, is primarily responsible for the 4-H Fair, and does some other planning as well. They work closely with 4-H agent Zoann Parker and Hazel Nestleroth, who recently left a second 4-H position. Joanne says, "I can't give enough credit to Zoann and Hazel. They do the brunt of everything. We make decisions as a Council, but they carry them out."

(Turn to Page B4)

to help." She admits with a laugh,

A business teacher, Joanne currently substitutes, and last year worked 145 days in the four school districts for whom she "subs." She readily acknowledges that she loves teaching, relishing the contact with young people and the challenges.

It is not surprising, however, because as one talks with Joanne it becomes evident that she thrives on challenges. She says, "You can learn something from everything you're in. There is always something to learn. If you're not willing to take on responsibilities you won't realize your potential."

Joanne admits that whatever she is doing she just "naturally gravitates toward leadership capacities. If I can contribute and learn from my own experiences and from other people, then I want to be working on committees. My talent is organizing and I love to organize and work with people."

At this point of her life Joanne says that she is very involved with her children's education. "They have activities and keep my busy." However, she is a member of Farm Women Society #24, where she was recently president, and teaches Sunday School at the Conestoga Church of the Brethren. She takes time for a card club and is involved with parent activities at school.

When there is time she loves to read and enjoys sewing. And from time to time she takes education courses. "I enjoy being a student and being in a classroom setting." Currently she is taking a computer course at Franklin and Marshall College.

When she and her husband built their present home, she drew the floor plans. Since they own an acre of land, she also does a lot of gardening and preserving food.

With her talent for organization, and her love of children, Joanne seems a natural as a 4-H leader. As she looks to the future, she says, "I can see problems in 4-H, and the solutions aren't easy. We need to work together as leaders and teen leaders to keep 4-H as a whole moving in the right direction."

As National 4-H Week draws to a close, it is a time to recognize leaders like Joanne with whom the solutions to 4-H's future don't seem so difficult.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Sometimes I feel fragmented and pulled in so many directions. It seems that I am responsible for so many things to be accomplished. Simply writing letters to our six children must be fitted into a busy schedule.

Lately, I've headed several committees to plan for reunions and a square dance. I'm thankful that others are so helpful but even so there are always little details to be taken care of beforehand. And always there must be refreshments prepared. Somehow I can't get away from food. Whenever I'm really accomplishing something, the kitchen clock says that I must stop and cook a meal.

There is always a button to be sewed on or a seam to be mended. And the telephone ringing not only interrupts what I am doing but usually brings new duties. Out church always needs volunteers to stuff envelopes, sort clothes and help in the kitchen.

Every fall I put a lot of flower pots from my garden into pots to fill my 25 windowsills. It does take time but I enjoy tending them in the winter.

This year I helped my husband pick up several bags of black walnuts and he hulled them. That has always been my job. There are still a lot laying and I hope we will find someone who can use them.

This morning I've had four interruptions while I was writing this article. The telephone rang, the dryer buzzed, a salesman rang the doorbell and it was time to start the dinner. You see, each month I write eight to ten articles for different newspapers and this too takes a bit of thinking. In addition, I must find the time to get them typed and ready for mailing.

Even so, I occasionally find an hour in the evening to slip back of the barn and do a bit of fishing.

With the start of fall, gardeners can reflect on another growing season having past. During the summer, our gardens were a pleasure to view. But now, they look tired and neglected. The thick and strong squash vines of summer are now a mass of blackened, twisted rope. Our tired tomato plants still clinging to their stakes are probably overcome by the weeds of late summer. Their battle with nature seems lost. There must be a way to change this inevitable desolate look in our gardens each fall? How?

Think about seeding a soft, thick cover crop on your garden this fall. According to Thomas Becker, York County Extension agent in horticulture, planting a well manageed cover crop on your garden offers an attractive alternative to prevent winter erosion from occurring.

A wise gardener should never let his soil remain bare. Cover crops protect the soil by helping to prevent leaching losses of plant nutrients. They often supply needed organic matter to the gardens and help the gardener maintain good soil structure in his garden. This leads to improved aeration in your garden soil and increases the water holding capacity of the soil for the following growing season. And surprisingly, popular cover crops like annual ryegrass, annual field bromegrass and winter rye for crop farmers often are the most popular with gardeners too.

When do we begin seeding cover crops? Gardeners can seed them after each consecutive crop is taken off or wait till the whole garden is harvested. For instance, having harvested a row of corn, spread the cover crop seed on and between the row. Or a gardener could plant a cover crop between rows of vegetables that have still not been harvested. Either way, your cover crop appears in only a few weeks and stays green right through till the first heavy snow cover.

Let's look at some of these winter cover crops. Winter rye is our hardiest winter small grain. It's an important winter cover crop not only on gardens, but also on Pennsylvania's cropland. A seeding rate of two-and-one-half pounds per 1,000 square feet should suffiently protect the soil. Winter rye requires only three-quarters of an inch of soil for cover and can be planted right up to Oct. 15 in the Southeastern part of the state.

Annual field bromegrass has a thick fibrous root system. It is very cold hardy and you need only one pound of seed for every 1,000 square feet. Annual Ryegrass grows rapidly after seeding in the fall at one pound per 1,000 square feet. It often dies before spring, making it the easiest to till under.

Other possible legume cover crops like winter vetch and sweet clover may work but could be difficult to completely eliminate in the garden next year. When planting, use a cyclone or drill seeder to uniformly distribute the seed.

In the spring, when should our garden cover crop be plowed under? Don't wait too long is the best advice anyone can give you.

Savor the flavor of pork this October

Pork is an excellent menu choice any time of year, but fall (and especially October Pork Month) is a particularly good time to enjoy it.

Pork contains many of the essential nutrients needed in a balanced diet. Its high-quality protein contains all the essential amino acids needed to build, maintain and repair body tissue and to help fight infection and disease.

Food iron is vital in forming and maintaining red blood and in preventing anemia. Heme iron, a more easily absorbed form of food iron, is supplied by pork and other animal tissue. Zinc, especially available in animal foods, hastens wound healing, bone growth and tissue development and enhances taste and smell.

The list of pork's important nutrients continues to include thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, and vitamins B-6 and B-12.

Below are some taste-tempting ways to prepare this nutritious meat for your family.

COCA-COLA BARBECUED RIBS

2 tablespoons butter
1 onion, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 cups catsup
1 12-ounce can Coca Cola
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Heat to boiling, turn heat down, then simmer for 1 hour.

Put ribs in 13 x 9-inch pan, add 2 cups water, bake at 375°F. for 1 hour. Cover pan with foil. Then place ribs on broiler rack, slather with sauce and broil until edges crisp. Or place on grill and char until done to your liking. Chicken can be done the same. Sauce ingredients make approximately 2 cups of sauce.

HAM CROQUETTES

2 cups ground cooked ham
1 cup mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon water
1 egg, beaten
Fine dry crumbs
Fat or oil

Combine ham, potatoes, onion and parsley, add salt and pepper. Chill.

Shape into eight croquettes. Add water to egg, dip croquettes into egg mixture and roll in crumbs. Brown croquettes in small amount of hot fat, turning to form a good crust over all. Makes 4 servings.

BAKED PORK CHOPS

4 pork chops, 1½ pounds
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
½ cup water
½ cup finely diced celery
2 tablespoons sugar
Little salt and pepper
½ teaspoon mustard

Brown pork chops in fat. Place in shallow greased baking dish. Combine ingredients and pour over chops. Bake 1¼ hour at 350°F. until tender.

LEFTOVER HAM PIE

Combine:
2 cups diced baked ham
4 cups corn
4 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
⅓ cup melted butter

Pour into a pastry-lined pie pan and cover with top crust. Using a fork, prick top crust so steam can escape. Bake at 350°F. for 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Makes 2 10-inch pies. Freeze one to reheat in microwave.

Elizabethtown

SAUSAGE DROP COOKIES

1 pound bulk pork sausage
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 beaten egg
⅓ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
¼ cup chopped walnuts

In skillet, break up sausage and cook until lightly browned. Drain sausage on paper towels, reserving ¼ cup drippings. In a bowl, combine flour, brown sugar, baking powder and salt. Add egg, orange juice, orange peel, reserved sausage drippings, browned sausage and walnuts. Stir just until mixed. Drop mixture by spoonfuls onto baking sheet or form into small balls and place on baking sheet. Bake in a 400°F. oven about 12 to 14 minutes or until done. Serve warm if desired. Refrigerate any leftovers. Makes 1 to 2 dozen cookies.

HAMSTEAKS WITH PINEAPPLE SAUCE

2 4-ounce slices cooked ham
1 8¼-ounce can chunk pineapple in syrup
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup pineapple-apricot jam
¾ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon cornstarch
Dash of ground cloves
1½ tablespoons white wine vinegar

In a large skillet, brown ham slices in butter. Combine undrained pineapple and all remaining ingredients except vinegar and add to ham; simmer 5 to 10 minutes until sauce thickens. Stir in vinegar. Makes 2 servings.

PORK STUFFED MUSHROOMS

½ pound ground pork
1 egg, beaten
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup soft bread crumbs, about 1 slice
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Salt
Pepper
20 medium mushroom caps
½ cup yogurt

In medium bowl, combine ground pork, egg, onion, bread crumbs and nutmeg. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Shape pork mixture into 20 balls. Place pork balls on rack in broiler pan. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat until browned, about 5 minutes, turn; broil until pork balls are done, about 5 minutes. Keep warm. Place mushroom caps on rack in broiler pan. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat until heated through, about 2 minutes. Spear pork balls with wooden picks and place inside or on top mushroom caps. Spoon about 1 teaspoon yogurt on top each appetizer. Serve at once. Makes 20 appetizers.

HAM AND CHEESE LOAF

1 pound ground "fully cooked" smoked ham
⅔ pound ground pork
⅔ cup milk
1 egg
4 teaspoons catsup
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1⅓ cups crushed cracker crumbs
¼ cup minced onion
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
Sliced Swiss cheese
1½ cups medium white sauce
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In a bowl, combine milk, egg, catsup, dry mustard, salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper; stir in cracker crumbs. Add ham, pork, onion, and parsley; mix well. Divide meat mixture into thirds. Press ⅓ into bottom of a loaf pan. Place a layer of thinly sliced Swiss cheese over meat. Repeat with meat and cheese and end with meat. Combine white sauce, grated Swiss cheese, prepared mustard, and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Heat until cheese melts. Pour half the sauce over ham loaf. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 70 to 75 minutes. Serve with remaining cheese sauce.

BACON CHEESE BALL

1 pound bacon
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 8-ounce package shredded Cheddar cheese
¼ teaspoon onion salt
1/8 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Cream Cheese Topping (recipe follows)
Assorted crackers

Cook bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Combine bacon, cream cheese, Cheddar cheese, onion salt, garlic salt and Worcestershire sauce. Mix thoroughly. Shape into a ball; chill. Frost with Cream Cheese Topping. Serve with crackers. Makes 12 to 16 servings.

CREAM CHEESE TOPPING

1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon horseradish

In bowl, combine ingredients, mix well.

ROAST PORK JUBILEE

4 pound pork loin roast
1 29-ounce can whole sweet potatoes
1 29-ounce can peach halves (reserve ¼ cup syrup)
1 8-ounce can pineapple (reserve ¼ cup juice)
1 cup apple cider
½ cup maple syrup
1 tablespoon salt
¼ cup brown sugar

Place pork roast on rack in roasting pan. With sharp knife, score roast approximately ½ inch deep across the narrow side of roast, making cuts about 1 inch apart. Cover with aluminum foil. Roast in 350°F. oven for 2 hours. Remove roast from oven and remove from pan; remove rack. Drain off drippings and place roast in pan. Drain potatoes, peaches and pineapple, reserving ¼ cup peach syrup and ¼ cup pineapple juice. Place sweet potatoes and peach halves alternately around roast. Combine the cider, maple syrup, reserved peach syrup, reserved pineapple juice and salt. Brush mixture over roast. Replace foil and return to oven at 350°F. for 20 minutes.

Remove roast from oven and place pineapple on top of roast. Brush potatoes, peaches, pineapple, and roast with cider mixture. Reduce oven temperature to 325°F. and return uncovered roast to oven for 40 minutes longer. Baste with cider mixture every 10 minutes, using up all the mixture. Sprinkle brown sugar over meat, fruit and vegetables 5 minutes before roast is done.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe comes form Joanne Smoker, an active 4-H leader in Lancaster County. Joanne says her kids really enjoy this Turkey Curry Indienne recipe, especially during the holidays when leftover turkey is especially a bundant.

To learn more about Joanne and her 4-H work, turn to Homestead Notes on page B2.

Turkey Curry Indienne

⅓ cup butter
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
⅓ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 3 teaspoons curry powder
3 cups milk
4 cups diced, cooked turkey

Melt butter in saucepan. Lightly brown green pepper and onion. Blend in flour, salt and curry powder. Gradually blend in milk.

Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils 1 minute. Add turkey and heat. Serve over rice. Makes 6 servings.

The boots nobody else can make.

SuperSole Red Wings—They'll last longer and feel better than any other boots you can buy.

We make the uppers the way we make all our best boots. With a lot of skill. And with water-repellent leather so good it's worth more than the whole selling price of some boots. Then we stitch a welt all the way around. So they'll fit as well when they're old as when they're new. But what's special is the way we attach the sole. Instead of stitching or gluing it on, we mold it right onto the welt. So the upper and sole become one inseparable unit. And the process gives SuperSoles a skin that wears like iron—while the inside stays as soft as cushion-crepe. Some day, other boots may be made this way. But they still won't fit and feel like Red Wings! Get the feel of SuperSole Red Wings. They're at Red Wing dealers now.

The SuperSole Secret is Red Wing's exclusive process that permanently molds the welted leather upper and the sole into a single, inseparable unit—and gives the sole its tough outer skin over a cushion-soft inside.

The New York Bagel

1½ cups warm water	1 tablespoon salt
2 packages dry yeast	4 to 4½ cups unsifted flour
5 tablespoons sugar, divided	4 quarts cold water

In a large bowl sprinkle yeast over warm water Stir to dissolve. Stir in 3 tablespoons sugar, salt and enough flour to make a stiff dough — about 4 cups Turn out onto lightly floured surface and knead about 10 minutes until smooth Cover and let stand on a warm place for 15 minutes Divide dough into 12 parts, roll each into a ball and punch a one-inch hole in the center

Place on ungreased baking sheet, cover and let stand for 20 minutes In large kettle, bring cold water and remaining 2 tablespoons sugar to a boil Reduce heat and simmer 4 bagels at a time for 2 minutes and turn, simmer 2 more minutes Remove boiled bagels and place on greased baking sheet Repeat until all are done. Bake at 375°F for 25 to 30 minutes. (Golden and hollow sounding).

ANSWER - Gladys Hultz, Flemington, N J., requested a recipe for lima bean soup Thanks go to Tina Gielskie, DeLancey, NY, for sharing her recipe.

Fresh Lima Chowder

1 cup chopped red onions	4 cups chicken stock or vegetable stock
1 cup chopped sweet red peppers	1 cup fresh or frozen corn
1 tablespoon corn oil	¼ teaspoon allspice
2 cups lima beans	2 teaspoons tamara
1½ teaspoons marjoram	1 cup cooked brown rice

Saute onions and peppers in oil until slightly tender Add fresh lima beans, marjoram, stock, corn, allspice and tamara Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Stir in rice, heat through and serve. Sliced okra may be added with beans also The soup can be frozen to be used later.

ANSWER - Mrs. Marvin Hoover, Womelsdorf, asked for a nut loaf recipe Thanks go to Kathryn Hoover, Denver, for the following recipe

Nut Loaf

1 pound graham crackers	1 pound miniature marshmallows
1 pound seedless raisins	½ cup peanut butter
1 pound dried figs or dates	1 pint whipping cream
½ cup maraschino cherries
1 cup nut meats

Roll graham crackers very fine. Chop cherries, figs, and nuts but leave raisins whole unless very large Mix these ingredients together thoroughly with the peanut butter Whip cream and fold into mixture Pour into an oblong loaf pan 5x9x4 inches Pat mixture to make it smooth on the top Place in refrigerator overnight or 12 hours When ready to serve, cut in slices and roll in powdered sugar

York 4-H'ers win at Eastern Show

YORK — Eight York County 4-H members recently traveled to Timonium, Md., to participate in the Eastern National Livestock Show's Junior Stockman of the Year contest. Sixty-four individuals from four states participated in judging livestock hay and meat, identifying feeds and meat cuts and answering questions on the beef, sheep and swine industry.

When the scores were tallied John Myers, Dallastown, Tim Ferrence, Spring Grove, and Jimmy Townsend, Brodbecks, had placed in the top ten individually. These three plus the other seven then went into further competition. As the final results came in Jimmy placed second, John was third and Tim placed seventh respectively.

In team competition John combined his scores with Jamie Kohr, York and Melissa Trostle, Red Lion and placed third. Fourth place team went to John Eaton Jr., Windsor, Tim Ferrence and Jimmy Townsend. Nancy Townsend, Brodbecks, and Joann Rishel, Seven Valleys also participated.

SAUSAGE TURNOVERS

4 ounces hot Italian sausage
1 2-ounce can chopped mushrooms, drained
¼ cup diced onion
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons margarine
1 tablespoon shortening
1 egg yolk
½ cup water
Fat for frying

To make filling, remove sausage from casing. In skillet, break up sausage and brown. Add mushrooms and onion, cooking until onion is tender. Drain well, set aside.

Meanwhile, prepare pastry. In a bowl, combine flour, sugar and salt. Cut in margarine and shortening thoroughly. Mix in egg yolk Gradually add water, tossing with a fork until dough forms a ball. On floured surface, knead dough about 2 to 3 minutes, until springy Divide dough in half. Roll out each half about 1/16 inch thick. Cut into 3-inch rounds.

To make turnovers, place about 1 teaspoon sausage filling on half of each round. Moisten edges with water, fold over and press firmly with tines of fork to seal. In large skillet, heat fat ½ inch deep to 350°F. Fry filled turnovers about 2 minutes on each side. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot. Makes 3 to 4 dozen appetizers.

THE MICRO WAY

LANI BLOOMER

Cooking Pork in Your Microwave

Pork is one of the hardest foods to learn to cook in a microwave. When it's microwaved properly, however, it's deliciously moist, tender, and juicy. Since pork must be thoroughly cooked to be safe to eat, the microwaves tend to dry out and toughen the edges before the center cooks, if you are not careful.

The key to cooking pork in a microwave is to use a very low power setting. If your microwave has only high power, you should cook pork on your range. However, if your microwave has 30 percent power (low, 30, 3 or defrost), you can microwave delicious pork meals.

Pork should be cooked on 30 percent power for 20 to 21 minutes per pound. This is slow by microwave standards–it will take an hour to cook three pounds of meat. But this is still faster than your range for most cuts, and your microwave uses less energy to run than a range oven.

Pork should be covered during microwaving with plastic wrap, waxed paper, an oven cooking bag, or a casserole lid. Which covering you use depends on the cut and type of results you want. For roasts, an oven bag or covered microwave roaster should be used. For ribs and chops, plastic wrap or a casserole lid will give you a moister, tenderer piece of meat; waxed paper will give you slightly drier, chewier meat.

Use these directions for cooking pork in a microwave and for adapting your own favorite pork recipes:

Fresh Pork Roasts:

1. Rub roast with garlic. Mix 1 tablespoon microwave browning agent with 1 tablespoon liquid such as juice or water. Brush over roast. Sprinkle outside with pepper, salt, thyme. Insert temperature probe into the end or side of roast, so tip is in the center, not touching fat or bone. Put roast upside down in an oven cooking bag, and set bag in a flat casserole pan. (Or use a covered microwave roaster.)

2. Fasten oven bag loosely around the probe wire, leaving at least a half-inch opening for steam to escape. Tie bag with a plastic fastener, or a strip cut from the end of the bag. Do not use a metal twist tie.

3. Put roast in oven and plug in probe. Set oven for probe temperature of 100 to 115°F. and set power level for low (30, 3, defrost).

4. When oven stops, turn roast over (bag, juices and all) in the dish. Plug probe back in, set probe temperature for 170°F. and reset oven for low power.

5. When oven stops, remove roast from bag and cover with foil. Let stand for 10 minutes; use juices in bag for gravy.

TIP: If your oven doesn't have a temperature probe, figure the cooking time at 21 minutes per pound. Cook the roast upside down for half the time on 30 percent power, in an oven bag as described above. Turn roast right side up and cook for the remaining time. Let stand, then test for doneness.

To cook roast on bed of sauerkraut or with other ingredients, put food in flat dish, and use a turkey size oven bag. Put bag around outside of dish.

Barbecued Ribs:

Use either spare ribs or the meatier country style ribs for finger-lickin-good results.

1. Arrange the ribs in one layer in a flat pan or casserole, with the biggest pieces around the outside. Sprinkle with onion, lemon slices, seasonings, etc. as desired. Cover with waxed paper or plastic wrap and cook for 10 minutes per pound on low (30, 3, defrost).

2. When oven stops, drain off fat and some of juice. Rearrange ribs, putting least cooked ones to outside and corners. Brush with your favorite barbecue sauce and recover. Cook for 10-11 minutes per pound on low (30, 3, defrost). Let stand five minutes, then test for doneness.

TIP: For soft, falling-off-the-bone ribs, cover with plastic wrap, and leave more juice in the pan. For chewy, drier ribs, cover with waxed paper, and drain off most of the juice before brushing with barbecue sauce.

Pork Chops:

For fried pork chops, use a microwave browning grill (a frying pan for your microwave), and follow the manufacturer's directions. Some people in my microwave classes have reported good results with these. But I have never been satisfied with chops microwaved this way. The chops get too dried out when I follow the directions for my grill.

Pork chops can be microwaved in a casserole, with other ingredients with good results. Brown chops on the range first, or brush with a microwave browning agent.

If you have a pyroceramic frying pan, brown the chops in this, add ingredients, cover and transfer to the microwave to simmer. A pyroceramic pan is a "glass" frying pan. These are safe on a range burner and also in a microwave.

If you like cooked apples, try this rice and pork casserole. It's good with a tossed salad.

Pork Apple Casserole

2 cups apple juice
1 small onion
1 stalk celery
2 apples
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon thyme
1 cup regular, uncooked rice
1 ½ pounds pork chops (4-6 chops)

1. Put apple juice in a 2-cup measure heat on high for 6 minutes, until boiling. Chop onion and celery; peel and chop apples.

2. Combine onion, celery and butter in an 8x10-inch flat casserole. Microwave on high for 4 minutes, stirring after 2 minutes, until tender. Stir in salt, rice and apples, and spread evenly in dish.

3. Brown chops on stove or brush with 1 teaspoon browning agent mixed with 1 teaspoon apple juice. Arrange chops on top of rice, with meatiest part of chops to outside of dish. Pour hot juice over all, and sprinkle with thyme. Cover with plastic wrap, or casserole lid.

4. Microwave on high for 2 minutes. Then cook on low (30, 3, defrost) for 30 minutes until the juice is absorbed and the chops and rice tender. Serves 4-6.

NOTE: The cooking times above are for microwaves with 600-700 watts of power. For 500-600 W, add 10 seconds to each minute; for 400-500 W, add 20 seconds.

United States, Japan quarrel over whaling quotas

WASHINGTON — A three-way war of words over Japan's whaling practices has erupted, involving the U.S. government, the Japanese government and whaling industry, and American conservationists.

In the middle of the watery battleground are sperm whales, 12-ton creatures valued especially for their oil, the finest known. Herman Melville called them "the most formidable of all whales to encounter, the most majestic in aspect."

Sperm whales are declining in number, say the International Whaling Commission, the U.S. Commerce Department, and various conservation groups. The Japanese government and whalers contend, however, that the whales are sufficiently numerous that catching a few hundred of them each year will have little impact.

Disagreement on agreement

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige announced in mid-November that the United States and Japan had reached an agreement designed to end all Japanese whaling by 1988.

But the Japanese insist that no agreement exists on anything except quotas for how many sperm whales may be captured during the 1984-85 and 1985-86 whaling seasons. Any agreement is subject to approval by the Japanese cabinet.

Conservation groups claim that American negotiators engaged in illegal talks to circumvent U.S. law, capitulating to Japanese diplomatic and economic pressures.

The International Whaling Commission voted, 25 to 1, in 1981 to ban all sperm whaling beginning with the 1984-85 season. Japan, the only dissenter, filed an official objection to the action. Under commission rules, a nation that files an objection may ignore a ban and continue to catch whales.

At its 1982 meeting, the commission voted to impose a five-year moratorium on all whaling, beginning in 1986. Japan objected then, too.

Negotiations in Washington between Commerce Department officials and Japanese representatives began early this year because of a provision of American law known as the Packwood-Magnuson amendment to the Fishery Conservation and Management Act.

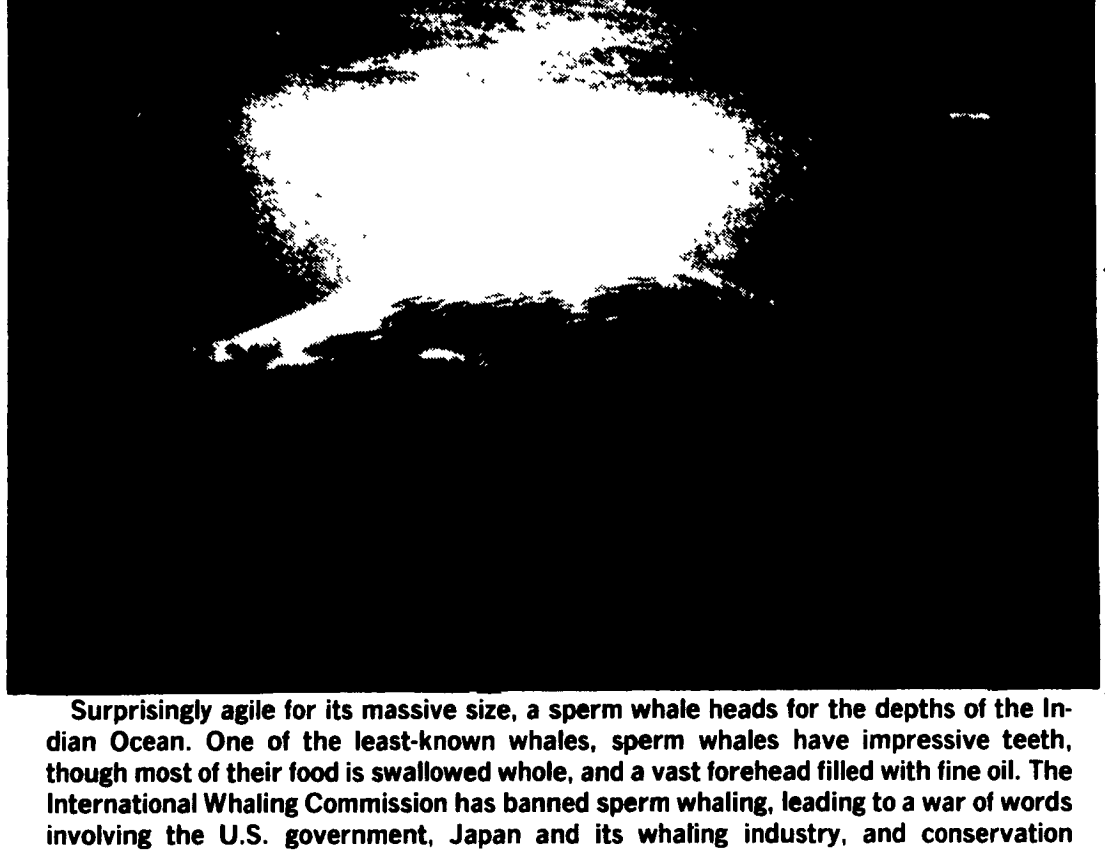
That amendment, adopted in 1979, requires the secretary of commerce to cut in half the fishery allocation of any nation that "diminishes the effectiveness" of conservation actions by the whaling commission. Japanese fishermen catch about $500 million worth of fish annually in American waters.

On Nov. 13, Baldrige announced that the talks had led to an understanding that, if the Japanese would withdraw their objection to the sperm-whale ban by Dec. 13, Japanese whalers could catch as many as 40 sperm whales both this season and next without violating the Packwood-Magnuson amendment.

No Whaling After 1987

Baldrige said that he had agreed not to take action under the amendment if the Japanese would withdraw their objection to the whaling moratorium beginning in 1986 and if they would promise to cease all whaling after 1987. The two governments would then agree on quotas through 1987, he said.

This portion of the understanding led Baldrige to say: "This agreement sets specific terms and dates by which the Japanese will end their commercial whaling activities."



Surprisingly agile for its massive size, a sperm whale heads for the depths of the Indian Ocean. One of the least-known whales, sperm whales have impressive teeth, though most of their food is swallowed whole, and a vast forehead filled with fine oil. The International Whaling Commission has banned sperm whaling, leading to a war of words involving the U.S. government, Japan and its whaling industry, and conservation groups.

But when Japanese officials returned home and learned of Baldrige's statements, they called a press conference to say that they had agreed only to quotas for the 1984-85 and 1985-86 sperm-whaling seasons, subject to cabinet approval.

Meanwhile, nine U.S. conservation groups, which earlier had filed suit to prevent any sperm-whale catch as a violation of the whaling commission's ban, announced the reported agreement as a sellout of the whales. They said the Commerce Department had buckled under pressure from the Japanese and from State Department officials fearful of a trade war with a major American ally.

Barry Zins, an attorney for the conservationists, said his clients expected the Japanese to circumvent any agreement, "even if it was airtight."

Craig Van Note of Monitor, an umbrella group for the nine conservation organizations, said U.S. neogitators had "given away the store" in agreeing not to cite the Japanese for violating the commission ban.

A. Joseph LaCovey, a Commerce Department spokesman, acknowledged that there was no signed agreement with the Japanese. But he said they were under pressure to live up to what he called "a memo of understanding" because they valued their fishing rights in American waters.

LaCovey referred to this portion of Baldrige's statement: "The

The Long Green Line™

JOHN DEERE

Nothing runs like a Deere™

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Like a mirage, the apple appeared, suddenly and unexpectedly, before my eyes. Had I not been high in the saddle of a gelding borrowed for the afternoon, the fruit would have gone unnoticed.

No orchardist worth that title would have given the apple so much as a second glance. While the telltale yellow of ripeness was apparent, an overcoating of flaws marred its outward appearance. Scab disease had visited the apple at some point, leaving a large, oval, thickened callous. And, somewhere during the apple's younger days, a fungus of some sort had dappled the skin with grayish splotches.

Still, it was firm, with a smooth skin and wonderful fragrance. The afternoon was wearing on, and I was hungry. On an impulse, I'd plucked the offering from the limb hanging off to the side of the tree, figuring on later offering it to my patient mount as an end-of-trail thank you.

After but a moment's hesitation, I took a tentative, tiny bite from the tree's gift. Although unimpressive from the outside, the flesh inside was absolutely delicious. Crisp and sweet. With the perfect hint of tangy-cider tartness. One bite led to another, and another...and soon only the core remained. Not a single insect mark or disfigurement had marred the white flesh.

One more gift of perfection from the October woods.

This has always been one of my favorite months. Gone are the sticky, humid days of late August. November's dreary, chilling dampness is still waiting int he wings. October's invigorating crispness sends pesty flies cowering toward the barn ceilings and colors the chrysanthemums in the border. But, barn water pipes haven't yet frozen and engines still start without balking. And the smell of woodsmoke wafts a haunting scent through clear nights blessed with orange moon and glittering stars.

I reach out again as a tree brushes my shoulder and grasp three perfect miniature leaves. These diminutive swamp maple leaflets may lack size, but they speak in glowing tones. Jewel-like reds and yellows intermingle with leftover greens, forming a brilliant mosaic. The effect multiplies over the small tree, shimmering in the sun as if wearing thousands of sequins in fall shades.

Along one edge of a wooden plot, a dogwood poses in picture-perfection. Every deeply-veined leaf is a matching maroon shade, with clusters of vivid red berries dotting the overall effect.

In contrast are the volunteer sassafrass squatting along the roadbanks. Their thumbed, mitten-shaped leaves glow a shiny orange, and wave in the brisk breeze like so many childlike hands bidding farewell to the wavering summer.

Even the dreaded poison ivy has mellowed to a softer, dusty yellow-orange shade. But it twines tightly around a gnarled, giant oak, choking the trunk so tightly that the imagination leads one to speculate the tree has been throwing down acorns by the handfuls to scare away the clinging vines.

Afternoon waning, sun fading fast behind thickening clouds, I dismount and stretch kinks from my knees. There below, worming across the grass with all the haste his tiny body can generate, goes a wooly caterpillar.

Black. Totally, completely, dark charcoal color. Not even the narrowest strip of brown. Don't weather prophets judge the ferocity of coming winter by the percentage of blackness on the wooly worms?

Save money with dried milk

Families used to get their milk directly from cows. Next they got it in bottles, cartons and bags. Now, many people buy it in boxes. Do you?

Boxed, non-fat dry milk is one of the least expensive, most versatile forms of milk available. It is simply skim milk which has had all the water removed. Yet, it contains most all the vitamins, minerals and protein of the original fluid product, says Extension home economist Greta C. Vairo.

Milk is the leading source of calcium for most of us, and is essential for the development of strong bones and teeth for children and adults. Non-fat dry milk has several advantages over other forms of milk. It costs less. It also contains only two-thirds the calories, a boon to those who want to watch their weight.

Sometimes we are reluctant to use an unfamiliar product, not knowing how it should be handled. Or sometimes we give up on a new item before we have given it a fair try. Here are a few tips on the use of non-fat, dry milk:

• Buy dry milk that has been fortified with vitamins A and D, a bonus that adds no cost.

• The flavor of dry milk improves after chilling, so mix it well in advance. Shake it thoroughly and chill in the refrigerator in a closed container overnight.

• In most recipes, use dry milk as you would regular milk. You need not mix it ahead of time; simply add the milk powder and water to the other ingredients in the recommended amount.

• To make a low calorie dessert topping, beat equal amounts of dry milk powder with ice water until it forms stiff peaks.

• To make sour milk, mix in the usual way, then add vinegar or lemon--1 teaspoon per cup of milk. Let stand for 10 minutes and use in pancakes or biscuits.

negotiating is over. It is now up to the Japanese to take the appropriate actions to bring an end to their whaling activities."

On the other hand, Alan Macnow, an American consultant to the Japan Whaling Association, threatened a court battle if the United States limited Japanese fishing rights. He said that a catch of 400 sperm whales a year would not threaten the species.

Clash of Values

Sperm whales are on the American government's endangered species list.

The conflict pits the values of western conservationists against those of Japanese culture, in which whale meat has long been a part of the diet. A 1973 booklet published by the Japan Whaling Association said:

"Just as the little children of Western countries--Bob and Mary--build healthy bodies by eating beefsteak and hamburgers, young Taro and Hanako in Japan nourish their youthful bodies by eating fish, shellfish, and other products from the sea." One of those products, the booklet said, was whale meat.

Macnow acknowledged that as scientific evidence has documented the decline of various whale species, the Japanese whaling industry has declined, too. Ten years ago, Japan's whalers took in 133,000 tons of whale meat; that number is now down to about 35,000, he said.

But he said that Japanese look upon whales as a renewable, usable resource" and that when stocks are replenished, it makes sense to renew whaling.

Conservationists, and the U.S. government, have long held that whaling has caused the decline in population and should not be renewed.

"Any continued hunting of sperm whales prejudices their chance of survival as a species, and diminishes the effectiveness of the IWC control program," the conservationists' suit argues.

Sperm-Whale Study

Hal Whitehead, a research associate at the Newfoundland Institute for Cold Ocean Science at Memorial University, conducted one of the first studies of sperm whales in the Indian Ocean, which has been made an international marine mammals sanctuary.

Whitehead's three-year study found that sperm whales fuel their bodies with an average of 800 pounds of squid and fish each day. The whales move about in family groups and find their prey through clicking sounds that may also be a means of communication.

Whitehead found that commercial whaling had decimated the sperm-whale population in the Indian Ocean before it became a sanctuary in 1979, and he fears for their future. He concludes:

"Now, whenever I put on the headphones and hear the whales sounding the mysteries of their strange world, I pray that the oceans may never be silent."

Former Delaware governor recalls 4-H experiences

BY CLAIRE McCABE

NEWARK, Del. – Fall is the season to elect public officials, pick the last of the tomatoes, and begin the 4-H year. For former Delaware governor Caleb Boggs, it's a time to reflect on all these things.

Boggs, a former U.S. representative and senator, is also a former 4-H member. Raised on a farm in Kent County, he joined 4-H in 1923.

"I always noticed the 4-H display at the Kent and Sussex counties fair, now the Delaware State Fair," says Boggs. "All the guys were in 4-H and I decided to join, too. My father grew corn, tomatoes, strawberries, cantaloupes and watermelons. He was also in the pepper and tomato seed business. Growing tomatoes for 4-H gave me my own project."

As a youth, Boggs was busy with more than 4-H. He played high school football, and also enjoyed hunting. Patriotism and his love of marksmanship led him to enlist as a private in the Delaware National Guard in 1925.

The summer before his junior year in high school Boggs trained with the National Guard at Camp Perry, Ohio. "It sounds like I joined prematurely," he says, "but they didn't ask how old you were then. You just signed up."

Boggs thinks he's the only Delawarean to have served both as a private in the guard and later as its commander in chief during his two terms as governor. His military service during World War II included approximately five years with the 6th Armored Division in various European campaigns.

"The first governor I ever met was in 1925," says Boggs. "As spokesman for my 4-H group, I presented our annual report to Gov. Robert P. Robinson. At that time there was no legislative hall. The governor stepped out onto Dover Green to receive our address, and then, of course, he spoke with us for a while."

Boggs used his public speaking skills throughout his career as a statesman. After graduating from Dover High School and receiving his bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware, he earned a law degree at Georgetown University.

Boggs' life as public official began in 1946 when he was appointed as a judge in the Family Court of New Castle County. The following year he began his first of three terms in the U.S. House of Representatives. In 1953, as governor of Delaware, Boggs was on the receiving end of the 4-H annual report.

"When I became governor, one of the first groups I received was from 4-H", he says. "I always looked forward to seeing the 4-H group." Boggs served as governor until January, 1961, when he resigned to begin his first term in the U.S. Senate.

"In public life I always had a warm spot for 4-H," says Boggs. "I was honored when members came to visit. As both a representative and a senator, I received 4-H briefings and supported legislation that was beneficial to 4-H."

Following his retirement from the senate in 1973, Boggs was associated with a Wilmington law firm. His service commitments have included acting as a director for the Delaware Safety Council, the Blood Bank of Delaware and the Delaware Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. He is active on the boards of Goldey Beacom College, the Salvation Army, United Way of Delaware, and the Government Relations National Committee of United Way. He is also a trustee of the Wilmington Medical Center and of the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Inc.

Boggs and his wife, Elizabeth, raised a son and daughter during his busy career. They now enjoy two grandchildren who visit them in their Wilmington home.

These days Boggs grows flowers instead of tomatoes. "My trees have grown so big that the yard is too shady for tomatoes," he says. "I have to go downstate for my brother's homegrown butterbeans, corn and tomatoes. I'm a big impatiens man now. They grow well in the shade. And, of course, I'm proud of my tulips and daffodils in the spring. I have a few roses, too. Wherever I can find a sunny spot, I'll put in a rose bush."

Boggs still finds time for 4-H. He is a former board member and was the first president of the Delaware 4-H Foundation, Inc., and is a charter member of that organization.

"4-H is a great organization that's done a lot of good," says Boggs. "It has always been a wonderful leadership developer of children. I encourage all young people to join; they can't be anything but winners. I congratulate the leaders for their dedication – and to the boys and young ladies I say, 'Enjoy it. The more you put into it, the more you'll get out of it.'"

It won't last forever, but you can probably pass it on to your son.

A lot of folks learned farming behind the wheel of their Dad's Ford. More than a few still fire up that same tractor for some serious work now and then.

Today's Ford tractors use technology that Dad never dreamed of. But take a good look at one of the new mid-sized Series 10 tractors. You'll see the lasting strength of massive castings, sturdy axles and plenty of iron everywhere it's needed.

Inside, the story is even stronger. In engines with big strong working parts and wide bearing surfaces. In husky transmissions, double-reduction final drives and sealed wet disc brakes on all models of 36 or more PTO horsepower.

That kind of design integrity has earned Ford tractors the respect of the farmers who use them. No one outranks Ford in owner satisfaction with tractors in these power sizes. That's not Ford talking - it's what farmers said in a 1983 survey measuring the quality, reliability, durability, serviceability and maintenance of their 30-90 horsepower tractors.

What's more, every Ford tractor comes with the support of a dealer with the facilities, know-how and parts availability to see that it serves you long and well.

Some things are too good not to share. Pass it on.

Families can combat soaring health care costs

NEWARK, Del. – Health care costs have risen so dramatically that the average family may begin to question whether they can afford the best available. According to Sally Foulke, University of Delaware extension home economist, "The national expenditure for health care is now $1,500 for every man, woman and child. At the current rate of increase, this figure will double by 1990."

The economic questions raised by these statistics are disturbing: Can Americans afford to enjoy a quality of health care that is second to none? What impact will this investment have on the quality of their lives? Will continued rising costs result in rationing of health care?

"These issues suggest moral and ethical problems as well," Foulke points out. If services are rationed, who will receive medical care and who will not? How should health care facilities be used? Should they be used to prolong the lives of comatose, hopelessly ill patients or to save those whose health can be restored? Who should pay for test tube fertilization which allows childless couples to conceive?

Who currently pays the $1 billion per day spent on health care? "We all do, in one way or another," Foulke says. "We pay more for goods and services, and insurance costs rise, too. Not only do we pay higher fees, but also larger deductibles."

The largest share of personal health care expenditures currently comes from public funds–a rapidly shrinking source. Thirty million Americans depend on Medicare to pay their medical bills. Although this program is currently predicted to remain solvent until the late 1990s, it could go bankrupt. Almost half of all funds paid to nursing homes come from Medicaid. Medicaid benefits are being slashed.

Nine out of 10 American families have some type of health care coverage. Yet even this protection is at risk for those who receive it as an employment benefit. Many companies are asking employees to pay more for health insurance coverage, while cutting back on benefits. Increased insurance costs are passed on to all consumers, as well. The price of health care services and products rises as insurance premiums are tacked on.

"Besides, one-third of all health care costs are still paid directly by the consumer," the extension home economist says. Balancing the family budget means making spending decisions between health care and food, shelter, clothing and education.

What has caused health care costs to skyrocket? Many people assume that it is a normal part of general inflation, but Foulke says the issue is far more complex. Inflation is only a minimal part of the problem.

"We all need to understand the implications of a third party payment system and our responsibility to that system," she says. "In the past, the third party system has encouraged spending and a philosophy of let-somebody-else-pay-for-it."

Besides inflation and the third party payment system, the home economist cites other factors that have contributed to escalating costs:

- Increased percentage of elderly in the population;
- Government funding of national health expenditures such as the Hill-Burton program which stimulated hospitals to over-expand through tax exempt status for construction bonds;
- Advanced medical technology, including increasingly sophisticated equipment and testing procedures;
- Competition among hospitals to out-do each other in adding expensive, state-of-the-art equipment;
- Increased tendency to hospitalize or institutionalize patients instead of seeking effective but less costly alternatives;
- Ineffectiveness of marketplace supply and demand incentives adopted from other industries;
- High public expectations for health care generated by the publicity regarding expensive, experimental techniques such as transplants;
- Emphasis on specialization by doctors;
- Efforts to increase education for doctors;
- Union contracts involving comprehensive insurance for employees.

Nearly half of every health care dollar is spent for hospital costs, which have increase at roughly two-and-a-half times the rate of other goods and services.

Foulke says one approach to controlling costs is to insist that hospitals operate as efficient businesses. Congress has moved in that direction in its reform of Medicare financing. The new system estimates costs based on a patient's diagnosis, and sets in advance standard national payments for various kinds of treatments rather than reimbursing a hospital for costs after they have been incurred.

Under the revised Medicare plan, if costs run over, the hospital must now bear such costs; if under, they keep the difference. The reasoning behind these changes is that by setting a ceiling on payments, cost efficiency will be encouraged.

Foulke points out that the impact of such changes is difficult to assess. If this measure saves money for the Medicare system, will hospitals make up their shortages by charging other patients more? How does shoring up the public assistance agencies affect the quality of everyone's life?

"The real root of the cost crisis," says Foulke, "is the structure of the American health care system. The focus is almost completely on treating disease rather than preventing it. Of every dollar spent for health care," she says, "97 cents is spent on treatment, 2.5 cents on prevention and only half a penny on teaching people how to stay healthy."

Cutting Health Care Costs

But despite the nationwide epidemic of spiraling health care costs, it is still possible for individual families to write their own prescriptions to minimize expenses. According Foulke, there may be no immediate cure for high prices, but with regular treatment using good consumer skills, the prognosis is excellent for controlling some of the worst symptoms.

Foulke and Dr. John Glenn of the Sussex Advisory Council recently conducted a worship, "Containing the Soaring Cost of Health Care," at the University of Delaware Farm and Home Field Day in Georgetown. Their first and foremost advice is not to get sick. Although this sounds obvious, they say each individual can do much to stay healthy: eat nutritious food, exercise regularly, manage stress and develop good safety habits at home and at work.

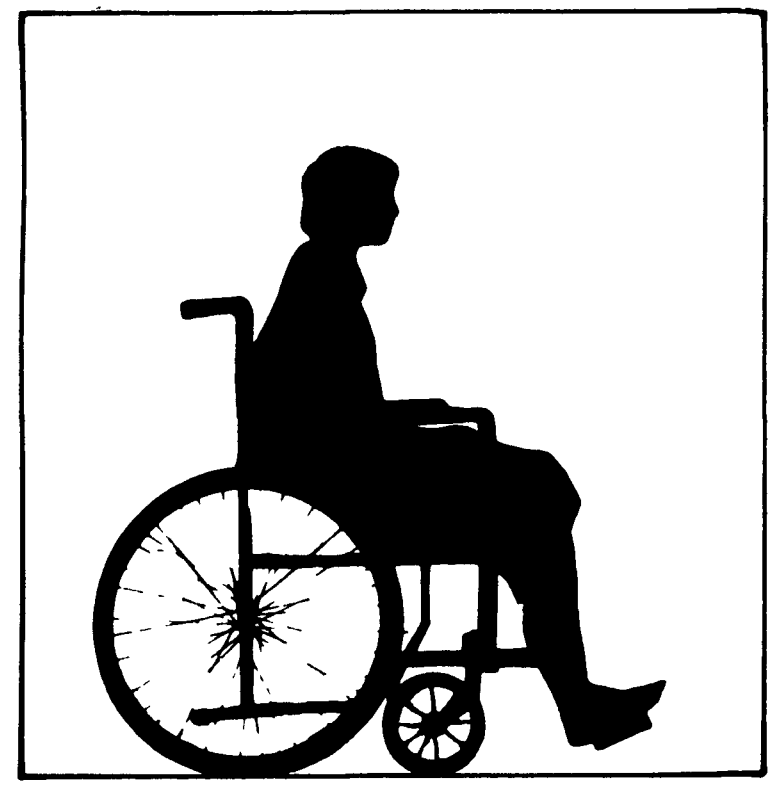
But people do get sick and accidents do happen. That's when it pays to have a strategy for economizing without compromising health care quality. Foulke and Glenn recommend that each family establish a routine for handling health problems to reduce the stress that financial decisions can add to an emergency or dangerous illness.

To begin with, they say everyone should have a personal physician, HMO, or neighborhood clinic for preventive care and treatment of minor illnesses and injuries. Save the emergency room for emergencies.

Once a trustworthy doctor has been found, it's crucial to establish good communication. The doctor's role is to serve the patient, who has the right to insist on full explanations in everyday English. Doctors are more open with patients who assert themselves and expect to understand their problems and treatments. Foulke recommends using the following assertiveness tactics when talking with a doctor:

- Maintain eye contact.
- Use a clear voice.
- Communicate briefly and to the point.
- Make your feelings known.
- Try to remain calm and confident.
- Begin statements with "I," such as "I feel this way," or "I need."
- Be open and honest.

Establishing a useful dialogue is easier with advance preparation. Each family should maintain its own health records, the home economist says. Keep an inexpensive notebook for each member, them simply jot down dates of all illnesses and treatments. Immunization records are very important, as well as listings of childhood diseases (chicken pox, measles, mumps). All respiratory problems, allergies and reactions to drugs should be recorded.



Always take this record book along to the doctor's office. It's also helpful to write down in advance questions for the doctor about your condition and possible treatment.

It is important to persist until all your questions are answered, even if this seems difficult at first. Foulke and Glenn suggest asking the following questions regarding diagnosis and treatment.

- Is the treatment really necessary?

Fall Folklore

Can you answer these fall folklore questions correctly? In the old nursery rhyme, what was Peter Peter's full name and where did he keep his wife? In "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," what was the "head" that the headless horseman carried under his arm? Where did the Halloween tradition of carving jack-o'-lanterns out of pumpkins originate and what was its significance? and Where did the name jack-o'-lantern come from?

Well, if you know the answers to these questions you are well versed on the folklore of this time of the year. Jack-o'-lantern is derived from "Jack with a Lanthorn," supposedly an imaginary light that hovered over swamps, misleading unwary travelers. The tradition of carving a jack-o'-lantern originated in England, where it was believed that the eerie light cast by these lighted, hollowed-out, carved pumpkins would ward off evil spirits.

The pumpkins visible at every market stand and farm lane remind me of enjoyable Halloween traditions. However, this is not always an enjoyable time of the year for the younger child who doesn't like having his face covered with a mask or knocking on strange doors.

A Halloween party for smaller children might be a safer and happier alternative to the traditional trick-or-treating. Here are a few no-lose party ideas to get you started.

Costumes: To save anguish and spare the shy child, have children come dressed in everyday clothes and bring a favorite doll or toy animal dressed in costume or wearing a mask. This avoids the bad feelings about not being the best dressed.

Treats: Make a batch of large, flat sugar cookies and some orange frosting. Place a glob of frosting in the center of each child's cookie and let him or her spread the frosting around with a popsicle stick. Then pass out raisins and shredded coconut to use as decorations. For a sugarless alternative, use round crackers and soft, orange cheese spread. Then decorate crackers with raisins.

Puzzle Match-Up: Buy a set of cardboard Halloween picture decorations. Cut each picture into two pieces. Mix up the puzzle pieces and give a piece to each child. Then have the children try to move around to match up their puzzle pieces. Everyone wins, because eventually only two children are left, and their puzzle pieces will obviously match.

Whether you participate in Halloween festivities or not, you might be interested in one more bit of folklore. In ancient China, the pumpkin was a symbol of wealth and success.

Francisco wins dairy scholarship

CEDAR KNOLLS, N.J – Yvette Marie Francisco of Lafayette, N.J., is one of three national winners of the United Dairy Industry Association's Employee/Dairy Shrine Scholarship In winning this honor, Ms. Francisco received a $500 scholarship.

The scholarships go to outstanding high school seniors who are entering college to study fields related to marketing dairy products. Recipients are selected on the basis of ability, interest and need by a committee of dairy experts assembled by the Dairy Shrine Club. The Club presented the scholarships at an awards banquet in Madison, Wis. on October 2, in conjunction with the World Dairy Expo.

Ms. Francisco hopes to combine a dairy marketing major with her interest in foreign languages to pursue a career in marketing dairy products abroad. She graduated fourth in a class of 178 and was an active participant in French Club, FFA, 4-H, National Junior Holstein Association, and the 4-H and FFA state dairy judging teams.

The UDIA Scholarship program began in 1976 with one award. It was expanded to the present three scholarships in 1981 Funds come from contributions by employees of UDIA, American Dairy Association, Dairy Research, Inc., National Dairy Council, UDIA member organizations, affiliated Dairy Council units, D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles, as well as members of the UDIA Board of Directors.

Pratt receives scholarship

UNIVERSITY PARK – Michael D. Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pratt, Granville Summit, recently received a $500 scholarship during the 1985 Dairy Herd Improvement Association Annual State Directors Meeting at Penn State University.

Pratt is a fifth semester student majoring in agricultural science. He worked as a DHIA summer assistant in Tioga County during 1985.

The scholarship is based on the accuracy of the applicants' talents in recording data for DHIA records and his ability to communicate with DHIA members. Pratt plans to pursue a career in the dairy industry upon graduation from college.

Families can combat

• How much will the treatment cost?

• Is there a less expensive treatment that will give the same results?

• Is there a less expensive drug that will accomplish the same thing?

And finally, for surgery or major treatment:

• Can you recomend someone for a second opinion?

It is also important to discuss the nature of all medications with your doctor and/or pharmacist. Questions to ask include:

• What is the name of the drug?

• How does it work?

• What are the possible side effects and/or allergic reactions?

• Can the drug be taken with other drugs I am already taking?

• How long should I take the drug?

• When is the best time to take it?

• Are alcoholic beverages restricted? Are there other restrictions?

• Should I make any changes in my diet?

• Can I drive after taking the drug?

• Can you prescribe a generic brand of the drug?

• Should I call if my condition doesn't get better?

• Should I return for another appointment?

"Look for generic brands of nonprescription drugs, too," advises Glenn. "Read the labels for ingredients." Many expensive headache remedies are just aspirin or acetaminophen (the leading aspirin-substitute), which are available in thrifty generic brands.

Comparison-shop for medical tests and prescriptions. Call several places to find out how much a test or medication will cost. When extension safety specialist Ron Jester recently conducted a telephone survey of five hospitals within a 40-mile radius of Georgetown, he found a $59 difference in the cost of a cholinesterase test used to detect a farmer's exposure to certain pesticides. Quality doesn't necessarily correspond to cost.

Be well-informed about the nature of your illness. If a chronic disease is diagnosed, seek information and support from reliable health agencies such as the American Heart Association, Arthritis Foundation or American Cancer Society. It's also important to thoroughly understand your health insurance coverage.

Finally, don't waste money on unproven treatments such as folk remedies or commercial products which make outrageous claims "Let your doctor be the authority on treatment," says Glenn.

Recycle, Sew and Save

Tempted by the fall fabrics now in the shops? In need of new clothing for a new season but short on cash? With a little ingenuity, you really can sew and save.

For most of us, using a pattern is a one time thing, so putting that pattern to double use is a great way to extend your sewing dollar. Here are a few things to keep in mind as you go through your old patterns with an eye to using them again:

- Be aware of the current fashion and your clothing needs for the fall and winter seasons.
- Sort through your patterns and evaluate each one according to size, style, and whether or not it can be modified without major changes in construction.
- Save patterns that are still fashionable and suitable to your way of life. Remember that hem length changes, stylish accessories, and seasonal colors may do a lot to make a five-year-old pattern still useful.
- Save patterns that have details that are still appealing and flattering. You may love the skirt on a dress pattern but the bodice seems dated. Don't discard the whole thing. Use parts separately or combine them with elements of another pattern.
- Plan a new life for your discards. Exchange patterns with friends, sell them at a garage sale, or donate them to a local community group. But before you pass them along, be sure they are in good shape.
- Worn patterns can be stengthened by backing them with light weight non-woven press on interfacing fabric. You can also replace them by tracing on to tissue paper or a non-woven pattern duplicating material.
- Once you have your patterns sorted, store them in individual plastic bags with their original envelopes, and file by type, in a shoe box or other cardboard container.

Advantages of Using Credit

Whether you abuse credit or don't use it at all you can get into some financial difficulties. Some families regard credit use as strictly taboo. Perhaps debt to them represents loss of independence. Many people remember when there was no such thing as "credit" and when a social stigma was attached to those who had debts.

But refusing to use credit can be unhealthy in some situations. For example, if serious health considerations are neglected for lack of money, credit could be used for the needed medical attention. Using credit to further education or training might be wise if you consider the potential long term gains and future earnings. Sometimes, too, there is no emergency fund available to replace a furnace or refrigerator that breaks down. Again, credit can help families get these necessities on short notice.

More common are the problems of people who abuse credit because they buy too freely. It can become a constant hassle when bills always total more than income. It may be a major crisis figuring out how to pay them. Credit abusers may live with continual reminders from bill collectors. The electricity, telephone or gas may be turned off. For some, filing for bankruptcy may be inevitable as a result of credit overuse.

Credit needs must be carefully evaluated. Its use will vary depending on the particular situation. Credit can be a resource and, if used in proper amounts and at the right times, it can be helpful. But what is best for a particular individual depends on his or her attitude towards credit, income and other financial commitments.

Farm Women: An organization for Pa.'s rural women

BY SUZANNE KEENE

LITITZ — Rural women across the state will be meeting in homes and restaurants Monday to celebrate Farm Women Day. Some will gather for a shared meal, while others will simply convene for fellowship and celebration.

In Cambria County, Farm Women and their husbands will meet at Raystown Lake for a boat ride and fellowship, while one society in York County will meet for breakfast.

"There will be an awful lot of Farm Women gathering to observe Farm Women Day," says State Farm Women President Naomi Bupp.

But just what is Farm Women and what do Farm Women do when they meet?

The organization began in 1914 when Mrs. Frank Black of Somerset County got together with a group of her friends and neighbors to form the first Farm Women society.

"Back then women didn't get out of the home often," Naomi explains. For them, Farm Women offered an afternoon out of the house and an opportunity to exchange recipes or to work on some handiwork and chat.

But even in the beginning Farm Women was much more than simply a social organization. The purposes set out by the first society were to contribute to the power and influence of farm women and the farm home, and to contribute to community activities, Naomi said.

Today 3,990 Farm Women form 89 societies in Pennsylvania, a far cry from the handful of neighbors who gathered to form the first group.

And, while Farm Women still meet in homes to exchange recipes and learn crafts, the membership and emphasis has changed, Naomi said.

"It isn't that our goals are much different, but our members have changed," Naomi explains. "It has changed in the sense that young mothers who joined are now older."

And as the membership has matured, the pace of the meetings and the emphasis of the organization have changed. The older women, who make up the majority of the membership, like more inactive meetings. Getting younger women involved is difficult, Naomi stressed, because many work outside the home in addition to many other commitments.

It is the older members who hold the meetings together because they can take time out to attend them, Naomi said.

But some younger women, many of them daughters of Farm Women, are starting their own societies and gearing meetings to meet their own active lifestyles. This way, Naomi explains, when the younger societies have family picnics or other family events, the children can play together and the husbands share common interests.

Because there are fewer farms today, more and more of the Farm Women membership consists of rural women who do not live on farms. Some of the older members, Naomi said, have retired to the city, but still attend the meetings.

New members are always welcome and do not have to meet any special criteria to join, Naomi said. All they need, she continued "is the desire to be part of us."

Ten interested members are needed to form a new Society Naomi said, noting that she will soon be welcoming a new group in her home county of York. With the changes in members and lifestyles, the emphasis on an afternoon out has been replaced by contributions to the community.

Pennsylvania Farm Women president Naomi Bupp receives her pin from Marie Baughman, former Farm Women president, during the 1985 Farm Women Convention. On Monday, Farm Women will celebrate Farm Women Day.

"We have turned our needlework into things for the county home," Naomi said, referring to county operated nursing homes.

Farm Women devote many, many hours to the community, whether it is by rolling bandages for cancer patients or donating money to the local 4-H center. "The hours of labor given to the cancer society and nursing homes is almost unbelievable," Naomi said.

Every year, Farm Women in each county choose a project that they will contribute to. For example, Naomi said, York County Farm women have selected the 4-H center as their project and they will be making a sizable donation to the center at their upcoming county convention.

In Franklin County, Farm Women make kits for the Mont Alto children's home, and in Berks County, they support Berks Heim, the county home. "Every county has its own things," she explained.

In addition to their efforts in the community, Farm Women give four $500 scholarships to students majoring in home economics or foods- related careers each year. Twenty cents of the $2.10 membership fee goes to the scholarship fund, 90 cents goes to the state, 36 cents to the county and the remainder to the individual society.

To keep the organization farm related, Naomi said they hold their state convention during the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

Naomi was elected president during last year's convention, when the group traditionally selects its new officers.

During her two-year term as president, Naomi said she would like to see a Farm Women society organized in a county where there aren't any Farm Women yet. Pennsylvania is the only state in the United States that has Farm Women; seventeen counties in the state have at least one society.

This year's state project, a Farm Women cookbook, is another of Naomi's ideas. Naomi says when she first thought of a state cookbook she did not consider the revenue it will bring in. "I just thought it would be fun to have a state cookbook," she said.

But now that the idea has progressed and Farm Women across the state are preparing their recipes, she realizes it will be a major fund raiser. "If this works, we should always have money coming in," she said.

But making money isn't Naomi's primary concern. She says, "I'd like to think we've made an impact on our farm women."

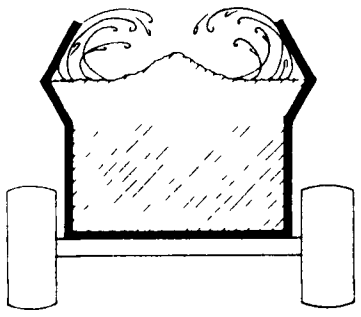
SLURRY SIDES

- OWNERS ARE VERY HAPPY AND SATISFIED with their slurry sides. They report that the angular design of the sides permits easy loading under barn cleaners.



- Unique, "FISH-BOWL" DESIGN gives added depth and reduces spillage to a minimum over rough roads and fields.

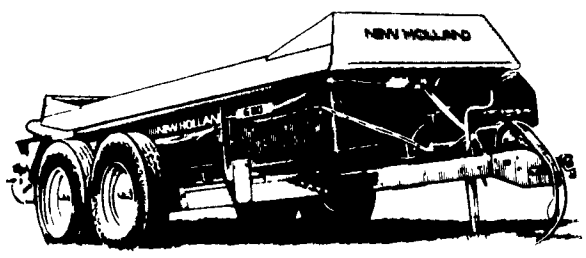
- CAPACITY with pen-packed manure is equal to or greater than without the sides, and, in slurry, capacity is increased by 25 percent.



680

UPPER BEATER

- Prevents "Big Lumps" from being pulled over the main beater.
- Insures "Fine Shredding" and "Uniform Spreading" of penpacked manure.

HYDRAULIC FLUID-MANURE ENDGATE

- A VERY POPULAR OPTION on Sperry New Holland Spreaders - about 90 percent of our customers to date have ordered it.
- A REAL VALUE - unquestionably the finest, best-functioning hydraulic endgate in the industry.
- STANDARD HYDRAULIC CYLINDER has an internal relief valve, eliminating pushrod and shearbolts.
- HYDRAULIC HOSES are standard.
- RUBBER SEALS on sides and bottom of gate keep liquid leakage to an absolute minimum.
- TWO POSITIONS allow gate to be used with or without upper beater.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society 8 met recently at the home of Helen Mariner. Virginia Ranck, Paradise, told about life on their farm and of the pleasure they have when they have overnight guests and serve them a full-course breakfast. They have entertained folks from many areas.

The County Convention will be Nov. 2. The group will hold its Christmas party Dec. 11 at noon at Wolgemuth's Inn, Elizabethtown.

The next meeting will be at the home of Gladys Ney on Oct. 19 at 2 p.m. An auction will be held. Members may bring crafts, food or other items to sell.

Lancaster Society 11

Mrs. Dorothy Gerlach provided the program, "I hear the Reapers Song."

Lancaster Society 10

Lancaster Society 10 met Oct. 5 at the Refton Fire Hall. The group elected the following new officers:

President, Nancy Starr; vice president, Susie Dietrick; secretary, Kathryn Hebbe; treasurer, Eve Getle; assistant secretary, Jennie Shoemaker; corresponding secretary, Alma Grebinger.

The group made plans for the coming year. President Kathy Scott reminded members of State Farm Women's Day on Oct. 14. The following homes will be open to the public: Joan Denlinger, Strasburg, and Fran Souders, Mt. Joy.

Christmas in October is Oct. 21 and 22 at the Farm and Home Center.

Berks Society 11

Berks Society 11 met in October at the home of Jean Erb. President Wendy Lingle presided over the meeting, Five members will attend the County Convention.

The December meeting was changed to Dec. 9 and the Christmas party was set for Dec. 7 at the Bethel Community Center.

A silent auction was held after the meeting.

The next meeting will be a surprise program on Oct. 28.

Lebanon FFA'ers to receive American Farmer degree

LEBANON — Steve Wenger and Mark Patches, both of Lebanon, have been nominated to receive the American Farmer degree, the highest degree presented by the National FFA Organization.

These FFA'ers are among 658 members who will receive their American Farmer degrees during a special ceremony on Nov. 15, during the National FFA Convention.

Mark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Patches, Lebanon, and is currently farming with his parents. He earned the American Farmer degree on the basis of his Supervised Occupational Experience Program. Mark's projects were dairy animals, field crops and steers. He was also active in the Cedar Crest FFA.

Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wenger of Lebanon, and is currently farming in partnership with his father.

He earned his degree on the basis of his Supervised Farming Program, which included dairy animals, capons and field crops. In addition, Steve was Cedar Crest's FFA chapter president for two years and was chairman of various committees.

To qualify for the American Farmer degree, FFA members must have advanced through a system of degrees unique to the FFA organization. FFA members begin as Greenhands, and after one year of membership may be advanced by the local chapter to the degree of Chapter Farmer.

The third degree, that of State Farmer, is presented by the state FFA association to not more than three percent of the state's FFA membership in any one year. Only students who have earned the State Farmer degree are eligible for the American Farmer degree.

Little Lions FFA

The State College "Little Lions" FFA Chapter held its Annual Greenhand Initiation at the Emil Peters Farm in Port Matilda.

Penn Manor Young Farmers appoint coordinators

Jeff Burkholder and Merv Keagy, both of Washington Boro, were recently appointed coordinators for the Penn Manor Young Farmers.

Jeff Burkholder is employed by his father in the family dairy operation. He graduated from Penn Manor in 1982 and was actively involved in the vocational agriculture program and the FFA. He is also a member of the Manor FFA Alumni Association.

Merv Keagy is in partnership with his father in the produce market business and he is manager of their Bird-In-Hand Farmers market location. He graduated from Penn Manor in 1983 and was actively involved in vocational agriculture, FFA, and Future Business Leaders of America. He is currently president of the Manor FFA Alumni Association.

The Young Farmers will meet at the Penn Manor High School relocatable classrooms on Oct. 15 to discuss the direction the Young Farmers Program will take. Topics of discussion include: ideas for winter evening workshops, updating names and addresses of members, and membership.

Chester County horse judging team headed to national competition

WEST CHESTER — The Chester County 4-H Horse Judging Team will represent Pennsylvania at the Junior Quarter Horse Judging Contest on Oct. 25 and at the Eastern National 4-H Horse Roundup on Nov 9

The team, coached by Mrs. Wilda Fulmer Carr, a quarter horse breeder and 4-H leader, carries the state championship title this year. Team members are Tracey Burnett, the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. James Burnett of West Chester; Heather Hindle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hindle of Pottstown; Aimee Voss, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Voss of Elverson; and Stephanie Weiss, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weiss of Pottstown.

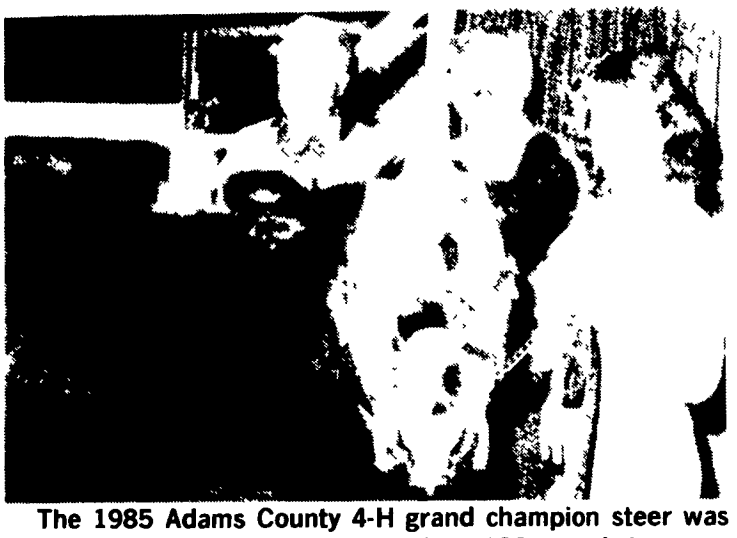
Adams County 4-H Beef Show



The 1985 Adams County 4-H grand champion steer was shown by Missi Ortmyer, Aspers. The 1,180 pound steer was bought by York Springs Auto Auction, represented by owner Bob Conley, center, for $1.44 per pound. Ray Grimes, representing the Adams County Beef Producers Association, presented the trophy.

Save trips to the store — use your freezer efficiently

Taking advantage of your freezer's capabilities can cut down on those extra trips to the grocery store and helps you save time, money and gas.

Here are some foods you may have never thought of freezing:

Eggs - beat two eggs lightly and store in a foil wrapped ice cube tray. Label the container with the number of eggs. Can be frozen for up to two months.

Butter or margarine - wrap in foil and freeze up to two months.

Milk - unopened carton can be frozen up to two months.

Onions - chop and wrap in plastic freezer bags. Freeze up to three months. Onions may lose a little crunchy texture but are fine for cooking.

Tomatoes - puree and freeze in air-tight container from six months to a year. May become a little watery but are still fine for sauces.

Cooked rice - pack in air-tight container. Freeze up to three months.

Cookies - pack in air-tight containers. Freeze up to three months.

Frosted cake - freeze for one half hour uncovered, then wrap securely in freezer wrap or foil and store up to six months.

Bread - may be stored in original package up to a month. For longer term storage, wrap over with non-permeable wrap.

All food should be prepared carefully. Use containers and wrappings that are designed for freezing and make sure they are sealed securely. Date and label evenly package in your freezer and use the oldest package first. Remember that food expands as it freezes, so don't fill your container too full.

The most important part of freezing vegetables is blanching or scalding. Boiling water is used to stop enzyme action, ripening or maturing. It also helps vegetables retain color, stabilizes vitamin content and aids in vitamin retention

30 COMPUTERS

The Office Works can help you with your agricultural problem solving.

We have been helping farmers for three years now. That's because we know farming. Jim Landis, our agricultural computing specialist grew up on a farm and now he has a 200 acre cash crop farming operation. Our satisfied customers include dairymen, poultrymen, beef and hog farmers, county agents, feed mills, Vo-Ag teachers and other farming specialists.

Let us show you what a computer can do on the farm. We offer seminars that provide a hands-on learning experience. We'll teach you how to use a computer and show you what a computer can do for you. You'll see how a computer purchase for the farm would pay for itself! The cost for seminars is modest - $15 per couple which includes all class materials and lunch. Plus, you'll get a coupon for $100 off a computer purchase! The schedule is below. All seminars are Tuesdays from 10am-3 pm.

Oct 8	Agricultural Software on the Macintosh
Oct 22	Agricultural Software on the IBM
Nov 5	Layer Management on the IBM
Nov 12	Agricultural Software on the Macintosh
Nov19	Fertilizer/Grain Company Software

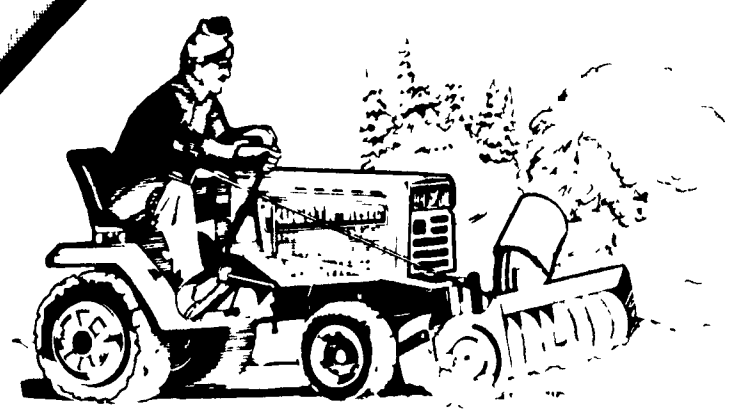
MORE THAN A MOWER



Kubota has a whole new way to cut the grass. It's the first diesel lawn and garden tractor in the country. Kubota's G-Series lawn and garden tractors come with water-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engines. They're built to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons. There are four G-Series models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. They all have live front PTO shaft drive to the mid-mount mower. You can choose a hydrostatic transmission. And you can choose a variety of implements including a snowblower, tiller or front blade. So don't let the grass grow under your feet. See the G-Series soon.

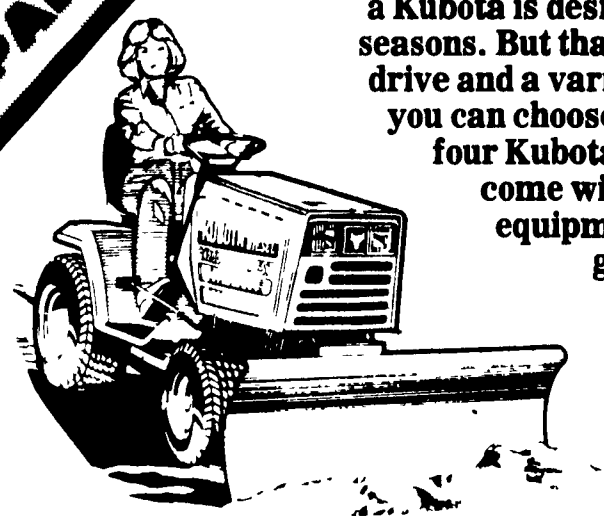
Nothing like it on earth.™



Of course, a Kubota G-Series lawn and garden tractor is a great way to cut the grass. And with a liquid-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder engine, a Kubota is designed to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons. But that's not all. A Kubota G has a live front PTO shaft drive and a variety of hard-working implements. For example, you can choose a snowblower, tiller or front blade. There are four Kubota G models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. Some come with hydrostatic transmission as standard equipment. A Kubota G-Series diesel lawn and garden tractor. There's more to it than you think.

Eastman says new Iso Plus boosts cow's milk output

NEW YORK – Eastman® IsoPlus™ Nutritional Supplement, which can help dairy cattle produce an average of four to six pounds more milke per cow per day, is now available to Pennsylvania's 12,000 commercial dairy farms.

"IsoPlus nutritional supplement will give Pennsylvania dairymen the opportunity to produce more milk from their present herds, or to cull cows and still maintain their current production," says John Boaz, Northeast District Marketing Manager for the Eastman Chemicals Division of Eastman Kodak Company.

When fed at a rate of 0.19 lb. per head per day, IsoPlus improved milk production an average of four to six pounds of milk per cow per day over the full lactation period, according to feeding trials conducted over a six-year period at nine universities. This would mean a substantial milk increase over Pennsylvania's present rolling herd production average of 15,452 lbs. (for DHIA test herds). Pennsylvania has 731,000 dairy cows, with an average herd size of 57 head.

"Along with the university trials, IsoPlus was also field tested on a number of commercial dairy herds," reports Dr. John Rogers, Senior Animal Nutritionist, Development and Technical Service. "In those field trials, cows fed IsoPlus produced an average of four to six pounds more milk per cow per day.

"By conducting field trials on-farm, we built a data bank of information to demonstrate to dairymen and their suppliers that IsoPlus is not only effective at the university level but, also, in the field.

John Boaz

"IsoPlus is a combination of four volatile fatty acids found naturally in the cow's rumen. These acids–isobutyric, isovaleric, 2-methylbutyric and valeric–are supplied as calcium salts and provide a mild buffering action to the animal. IsoPlus is not a drug and can be mixed in feed without the FDA 1800 form."

IsoPlus has been tested in a variety of typical dairy rations, including forage sources of corn silage, alfalfa hay and alfalfa haylage. It has also been tested with a variety of grain and protein sources including corn, soybean meal, brewers grain, urea and high-bypass protein sources, according to Boaz.

"IsoPlus is available in Pennsylvania through major feed companies, premix companies and co-ops and can be fed in a variety of ways," says Boaz. "IsoPlus can be mixed in a total mixed ration, used as an additive in a vitamin-mineral premix, fed as a straight top dress or as an additive in a protein supplement.

"IsoPlus is safe," adds Boaz. "There are no side effects, milk residues or changes in milk composition. In fact, IsoPlus has been fed to dairy cows at 10 times the recommended amount with no adverse health effects."

Although IsoPlus is Eastman's first product for the dairy industry, several more agricultural products are being researched. "For example," says Boaz, "we are currently testing a rumen-protected amino acid product that will supply amino acids past the rumen of beef and dairy animals. We have also identified several other animal nutritional supplements that have the potential to improve productivity in the ruminant animal."

AID money used to help competitors?

ST. LOUIS, MO – The Agency for International Development (AID) will evaluate the impact of agricultural development programs more carefully in the future, a high-ranking AID administrator told a recent meeting of American Soybean Association farmer leaders.

Dr. Nyle Brady, Senior Assistant Administrator for AID, made the statement in response to American Soybean Association charges that AID funds are being used to develop new soybean varieties and to improve soybean production in countries that compete with the U.S. for world soybean markets.

Brady said the agency would "take a more careful look at programs to be certain to minimize serious adverse effects on U.S. agricultural exports." He also said the agency will look for ways to achieve interaction with U.S. commodity groups like the Soybean Association.

"Our Association has been concerned for some time that AID does not consider the impact on U.S. farm commodities when it funds development programs," said ASA President George Fluegel. "Too often the Agency is involved in funding soybean production projects even though the climate or other factors do not favor soybean production."

"We realize agricultural development is important for economic growth," says Fluegel, "but the American Soybean Association thinks AID funds would be better invested showing people how to use economical U.S. produced soybeans and soybean products to improve their diets and their livestock production. The objective of AID projects should be to help developing nations become self reliant, but interdependent through trade of products in which they have a comparative advantage."

Fluegel said he was delighted by the change in attitude by AID and that the American Soybean Association is eager to work with the Agency to develop programs that are mutually beneficial to U.S. farmers and people in developing nations.

A growing part of your farm future.

Farm equipment execs predict 'more of the same' for '86

VANCOUVER, B.C. – Uncertainty surrounding federal farm policy and instability in the farm credit system will continue to depress sales of farm equipment in 1986, some manufacturers believe.

In industry outlook statements prepared for the 92nd Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute (FIEI) Annual Convention at the Hyatt Regency Vancouver, several chief executives expressed cautious optimism, noting that farm equipment sales would improve after 1986 as industry restructuring continues.

Robert C. Lanphier III, president and chief executive officer of DICKEY-john Corp. and newly-elected FIEI chairman, said farmers will continue to delay equipment purchases "until Congress decides if and how they will allow production agriculture to be a viable industry in a free market."

While the industry undergoes massive restructuring, Mr. Lanphier said, farmers' depreciation expenses are exceeding new equipment purchases. This means that "there is an ever increasing pressure for new farm equipment. With lower costs to produce reliable, high performance equipment, the prospect of an exciting and profitable economic period for farm equipment at some point in the future is very real."

Howard Brenneman, president and chief executive officer of Hesston Corp. and FIEI's outgoing chairman, said: "The farm equipment market will continue under severe pressure into 1986, due to the strong dollar, competitive export markets, excess production capacity, low net farm income and intense competition....(l)ong range, the tremendous production capacity of the American farmer must be matched with the real demand around the world."

Chairman Robert A. Hanson of Deere & Co. said "1986 will be another difficult year for farmers, and consequently for the farm equipment industry." While provisions for the federal farm bill are still unclear, President Reagan's call for elimination of the investment tax credit "would result in an increase in the cost of machinery to farmers," Mr. Hanson said. Mr. Hanson sees 1986 as a year of "industry inventory adjustment and low factory capacity utilization."

To Jerome K. Green, J I Case president and chief executive officer, demand for over-40 horsepower tractors, combines and other farm equipment will remain at or below 1985's levels. However, said Green, "Growth may occur in certain market segments, including tractors under 80-hp and units equipped with mechanical front drive...The process of industry consolidation, which began on a large scale in 1985, is likely to continue at the manufacturer, dealer and farm level."

John H. Chuchman, marketing manager for North American sales, Ford Tractor Operations said the 1986 industry "should be negatively affected by low worldwide commodity prices, declining U.S. exports, reduced net farm income, large farm debt and the uncertainty associated with the 1985 Farm Bill. It is projected that the market for agricultural tractors and equipment will decline during 1986."

Roy W. Uelner, president, Deutz-Allis Corporation, concurred. "Demand for farm machinery is expected to remain weak during the remaining months of 1985 and in 1986, since the fundamental factors influencing the agricultural economy are likely to show little improvement," he said.

Robert N. Spolum, president, Melroe Co., predicted the farm equipment business "will decline 7-10 percent...Industry problems are farmer problems, and they reside in lost export markets, improved world farming techniques and poor third world nations. For the bulk of the farm equipment industry, nothing short of war or a worldwide crop failure will bring back lost profits...."

The newly-elected FIEI Farm Equipment Division president, Joseph J. Lund, president, Farmhand, Inc. observed: "Nothing on the horizon shows me any change for 1986. Until land prices fall in line with their economic productivity value and the banks restructure their portfolios and their organization is complete, credit will not be sufficient to fuel a recovery."

"For the farm equipment industry, 1986 is shaping up to be a year of record highs and lows–new lows in unit sales and new highs in competitive intensity," said H.G. McCarty, president, Sperry New Holland. McCarty added new long-range federal policies and increasingly efficient equipment hold keys to the future. "That's how (farmers)--and we--will survive."

Victor A. Rice, chairman and chief executive officer, Massey-Ferguson Ltd., sees "only a marginal improvement" in sales levels for 1986. .The combination of developed countries' attempts to cut subsidies to agricultural producers and developing countries' success in boosting domestic export agriculture with low-tech processes has worked to depress farm machinery demand worldwide, Rice said.

"The outcome of federal legislation...dealing with the Farm Bill, budget deficit and export trade will significantly influence 1986 equipment sales," said Gehl Co. President Bernard L. Nielsen. "In general, given the results to date this year, I believe it is reasonable to expect moderate improvement in 1986."

Lilliston Corp. President James C. Mainwood was pessimistic. "We believe that the market outlook for farm equipment in North America for 1986 is bleak." He pointed to increasing farm debt and Washington's inability to fashion a strong farm bill as reasons for his outlook. "Even with all the excellent efforts to educate Washington on the farmers' troubles, it is evident that only a few of our country's leaders truly hear."

Robert P. White, president, Mobility, Inc. and outgoing president of FIEI's Agri-Equipment Division, summed up his industry outlook thus: "more of the same." He continued: "We frankly don't see any factors that indicate any substantial surge this year, or in the immediate future." Because of hard economic times, farmers are taking a "hang on, make do, be economic" approach–making do with old equipment instead of replacing it with new equipment, he said.

Nicholas C. Babson, chairman and president, Babson Brothers Co., used similar woods: "In a nutshell, I see more of the same in 1986. There's just too much uncertainty and ambivalence over the future shape of our industry (and agriculture as a whole) at this moment. Furthermore, our industry has a great deal more restructuring to go through."

According to Paul M. Soubry, president and chief executive officer, Versatile Farm Equipment Co., "North American 1986 industry sales will more or less match 1985, which appears to be the level of expected activity for the balance of the eighties. This much reduced level of unit sales will challenge the resourcefulness and innovative capabilities of our production and marketing organizations to operate profitably in this new environment. It is an awesome and exciting opportunity."

John E. Love, president and chief executive officer, J.E. Love Co., expressed "guarded optimism" for 1986. Financially stable farmers, who produce 60 percent of the nation's food, will continue to buy new and used parts, Love said. Within a few years, these farmers will look to update their equipment, causing "the pipeline for state of the art machines to start clearing."

FMC Corp. judges markets for its agricultural spraying equipment to be quite flat for 1986, according to FMC Agricultural Machinery Division Manager G.B. O'Meara. He continued "Generally, our customer base is extremely cautious on inventories and are only purchasing equipment on an as-needed basis to serve specific customer needs."

The 1986 prospects for commercial grain handling equipment "are not very encouraging" said Werner R. Eugster, president, Agri-Products Division, Butler Manufacturing Co. "Although inventories of new equipment have been reduced substantially over the past 12 months, 1986 shipments will be no better than 1985's. There is a growing realization that now is normal and will be for several years ahead."

Iowa foreclosure ruling draws Farm Credit fire

WASHINGTON – This week's action by Iowa Gov. Terry E. Branstad to activate a debt-moratorium law in that state underscores the extreme urgency with which Congress should address the Farm Credit System's need for Federal assistance," said Ray Moss Tucker, chairman of the Legislative Committee developing the System's financial assistance request.

Tucker, a Finchville, Kentucky farmer and member of the Louisville Farm Credit District board was reacting to press reports of the Iowa Governor's announcement which enables farmers to request a court-ordered, one-year reprieve from foreclosure. 'We understand Governor Branstad's concern for compassionate treatment of distressed Iowa farmers," Tucker said, "but other farmers may have to pay the bill."

"There could be substantial costs associated with a moratorium on foreclosures," Tucker continued. Among the examples he cited were:

- Increased losses as land values decline further while lenders are unable to proceed with foreclosures;
- Interest the lender has to pay on money it has borrowed to make loan funds available;
- Increased reluctance of lenders to assume the risk of making farm loans;
- Higher costs of Farm Credit bonds as investors perceive additional risk, etc.

"Farm Credit's capacity to absorb such costs and to take additional losses is not unlimited," Tucker said. "The only mechanism we currently have for recovering those costs is to charge farmers and ranchers higher interest rates than would otherwise be necessary, and that would only increase the economic stress on farmer-borrowers whose loans are not presently in danger of foreclosure." Tucker's committee issued a statement last week urging all Farm Credit districts to try to hold the line on interest rates while the System's request for financial assistance is being developed.

"Congressional approval of a financial assistance package would assure farmer-borrowers and investors that Farm Credit institutions will be permitted to remain as viable, dependable sources of credit for agriculture, but it will not solve the farm income problem," said Tucker. "Profitability for farmers and ranchers is a separate, but vitally important issue that must be faced soon by Congress."

"The Iowa Governor's action is further evidence that Congress must address both the '85 Farm Bill as well as financial assistance for Farm Credit as quickly as possible," Tucker declared. Any delay increases the likelihood that other states will attempt similar stop gap measures, some of which will undoubtedly be ill-conceived and serve only to make matters worse."

That's just what the new Surge ALERT™ is designed to do.

The Surge ALERT is a lighweight end-of-milking signal that uses a unique infrared light beam to look through the milk hose to sense end of milk flow. So there's absolutely nothing in the line itself to create a restriction, fluctuation, or loss of vacuum. And there's no premature removal or shutdown.

And it's precise. Both a flashing light and beeper indicate the end of milking. So operators know exactly when to remove the milker.

Plus, the Surge ALERT operates off a standard 24 volt pulsator and needs no extra hoses. And the built-in handle makes it easy to move from cow to cow.

The Surge ALERT is one more way we're keeping that commitment . . . to help you come out ahead.

SURGE We make every cow you own worth more

FIEI elects new officers

VANCOUVER, BC – Robert C. Lanphier III, president and chairman of the board, DICKEY-john Corporation, Auburn, Ill., was elected chairman of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute. In assuming his one-year term, Mr. Lanphier replaces Howard L. Brenneman, president and chief executive officer, Hesston Corporation, Hesston, Kan.

Results of the mail ballot election were announced at the Hyatt Regency Vancouver last night at the 92nd Annual Convention of the FIEI, the major trade association for manufacturers of farm field, farmstead and light industrial and construction equipment in North America. Terms for Mr. Lanphier and other newly-elected FIEI officers begin November 1, 1985.

Born in London, England, Mr. Lanphier was educated in both England and the United States. He graduated from Yale University with degrees in electrical engineering and industrial administration.

Mr. Lanphier received extensive manufacturing, sales and management experience early in his career with General Electric and Sangamo Electric Company. In 1968, he became general manager and vice president of DICKEY-john Corporation, a major manufacturer of electronic agricultural monitors and sensors. In 1970, he was named president, and in 1979, president and chairman of the board.

Mr. Lanphier has been an active FIEI participant, serving as 1985 FIEI Vice Chairman and FIEI Farm Equipment Division president from 1981 to 1983. He has served on the Institute's Board of Directors since 1983.

As a business community leader, Mr. Lanphier's advice is sought in a number of policy arenas. He serves on government advisory panels for the U.S. Office of Agriculture. He is also a member of the Dana and Edith Bennett Agricultural Roundtable.

Mr. Lanphier advises the University of Illinois' Colleges of Agriculture and Commerce and Business Administration. He is the chairman-elect of the Madison, Wisc. Future Farmers of America sponsors' advisory committee. In addition, he has played leading roles in the Springfield, Ill. United Way, Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development Council.

In other FIEI elections, Jerome K. Green, president and chief executive officer, J I Case Co., Racine, Wisc. and Victor A. Rice, chairman and chief executive officer, Massey-Ferguson Ltd., Toronto, Ontario, Canada, were elected FIEI Vice-Chairmen.

Green and Rice were elected to three-year terms on the FIEI Board of Directors. Others elected to three-year board terms were:

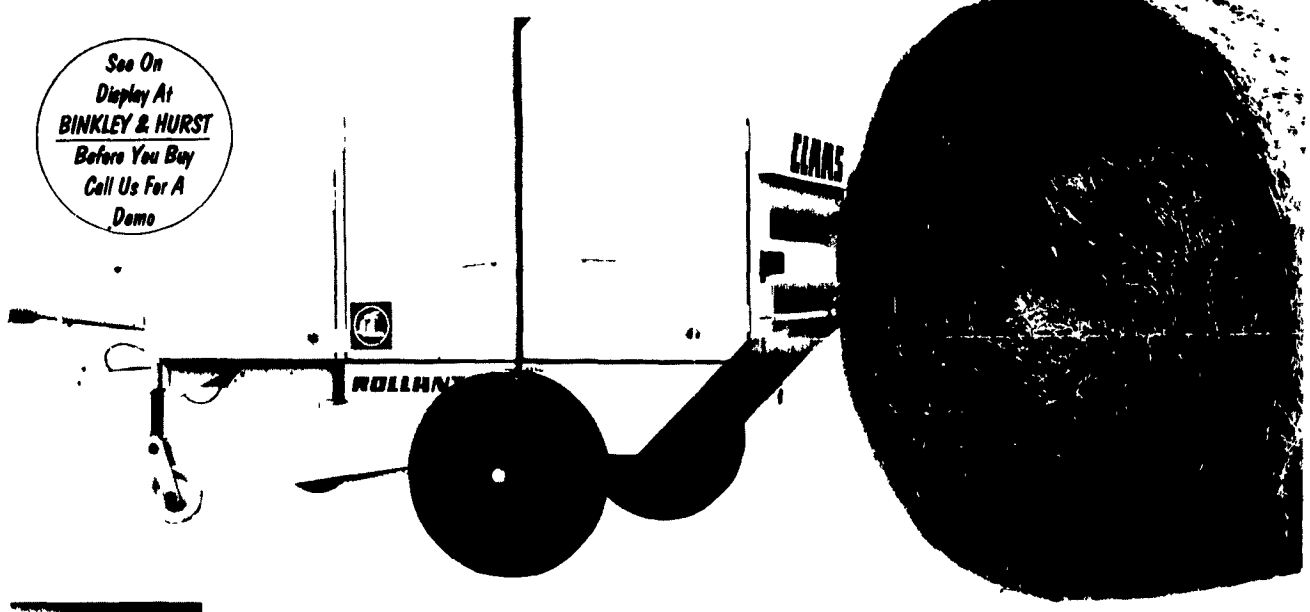
Do You Have Problems Baling Your Corn Fodder?

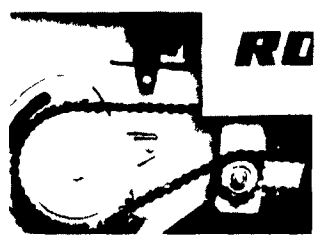
Here Is Your ANSWER!

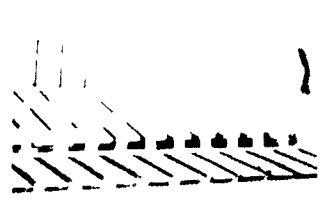
Are You Tired Of Repairing And Replacing Belts And Chains On Your Round Baler?

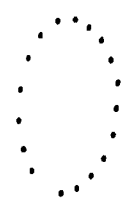
CLAAS ROLLANT

A better baler all round









Fully dampened, spring suspension pick-up
The ROLLANT full width pickup follows the ground contour to perform consistently and cleanly even with a difficult crop such as corn fodder. Pick-up flotation is provided by two springs and a shock absorber prevents pickup bounce over uneven ground.

An even feed into the bale chamber
Directly behind the pickup is the feed assister which ensures even feed of material from the pickup into the bale chamber. The feed assister reduces the wear on the pickup and is very effective in short crops.

Rollers all round
The bale chamber is formed by a continuous line of driven rollers. There are no plates to slow the action and cause crop damage. Hay, straw or unwilted silage is fed into the bale chamber and compressed firmly and effectively from the outside inwards.

A better grip
ROLLANT rollers have a dimpled finish for long life, which doesn't wear out and does not need to be re-textured. Above all they keep the crop rotating in the bale chamber. The rollers are strong and comparatively light and will not block or become choked up.

	ROLLANT 85	ROLLANT 62	ROLLANT 44	ROLLANT 34
HP Requirement	82	68	55	45
PTO Standard	540 rpm	540 rpm	540 rpm	540 rpm
Bale Chamber:
Diameter	70 in	62 in	46 in	36 in.
Width	59 in	48 in	48 in	48 in

KNIGHT SLINGERS

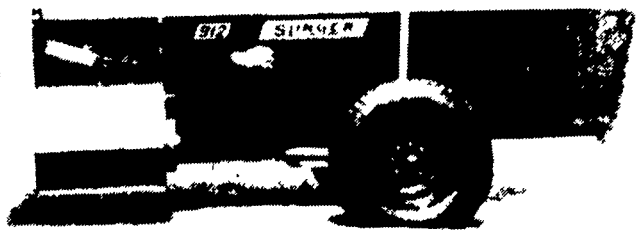
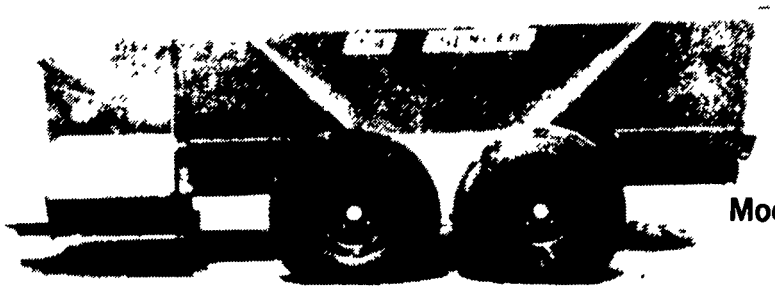
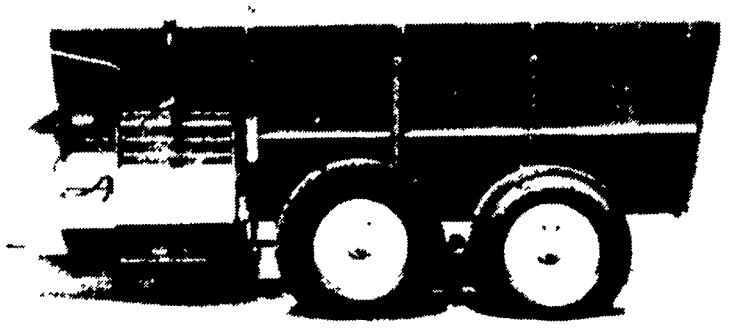
Model 912





Model 1514

Model 2500



Knights have been sold in the Northeast for over 30 years. The last few years, more Knights have been sold than ever before. Last year alone sales increased 34%!

Farmers who own a Knight are Knight's best salesmen. Over and over we hear the same story... how long their Knights have lasted and how little repairs were needed.

Ted Willson from Vernon Center, N.Y. bought his 252 Knight spreader way back in '73. He started talking trade about 6 years ago. Now he just talks about how his old Knight keeps holding on. That's a typical story from a farmer who owns a Knight.

Knight has a whole new line of SLINGERS for us to sell. The smallest model 912 holds 190 bu., the mid-size model 1514 holds 300 bu. and the largest model 2500 holds 520 bu.*

The SLINGERS are built rugged like all Knights. In every area of construction, the SLINGERS exceed or equal competition.

In addition they feature the exclusive Knight hammer style discharge which allows a finer spread than any other. And a continuous style auger for bringing manure to the front discharge opening smoothly, without the interruptions that can occur with other models.

Are SLINGERS really the best? You be the judge. We love to be compared. We'll demonstrate a SLINGER on your farm this fall and welcome any other models to join us so you can make a fair comparison.

* Bu. Heaped Old ASAF.

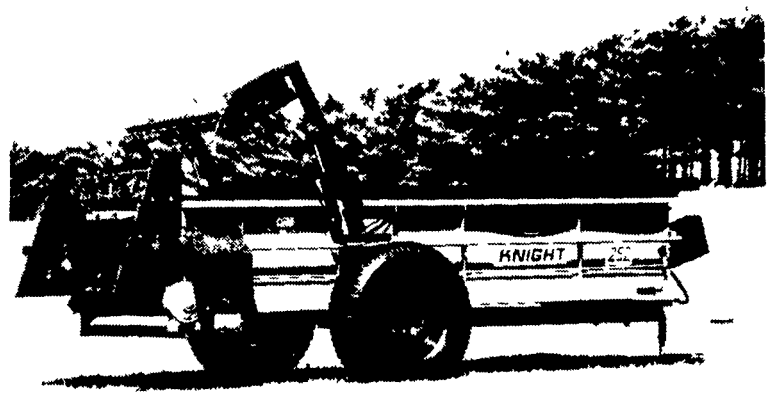
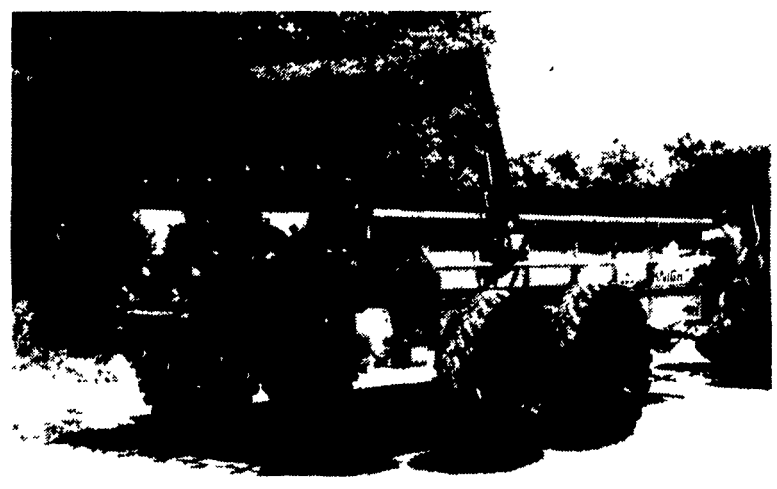
252 MANURE SPREADER



"350" MANURE SPREADER



"410" MANURE SPREADER

Dairymen and cattlemen alike have found the increased capacity and the maneuverability of the #410 spreader advantageous to their operations.

The #410 offers the low profile of the model #350 yet carries a larger load — 20" longer and 2" deeper. 4" x 6" hardwood top rails are standard. Available with 8 bolt 20" tandem wheels or the #410 may also be truck mounted.

The box construction is heavy duty all steel with 10 ga. bottom and 11 ga. sides welded as one unit. Heavy auger style beaters with alloy steel ripper teeth shred frozen manure for easy spreading. Hydro fluid endgate seals sloppy manure. Auger type top beaters spread that extra high load.

2900 Gal. Tank w/Easy Loader

NOW (Patent Pending)

You can haul liquid Manure all day without getting off the Tractor Seat using the SLURRY BUGGY Easy Loader

1.) Back up to pit or lagoon. Lower easy loader (boom) from tractor (by hydraulic)
2.) Engage PTO Switch pump to vacuum
3.) Float level indicator shows when tank is full
4.) Stop PTO Raise boom and head for the field
5.) In field. Switch pump to pressure. Start PTO Open Valve and unload

A liquid manure spreader that loads and unloads and has no chains, bearings, fans, augers, or moving parts that touch manure.

LOW PRICES ON TOP PERFORMING DISK HARROWS FROM CASE IH

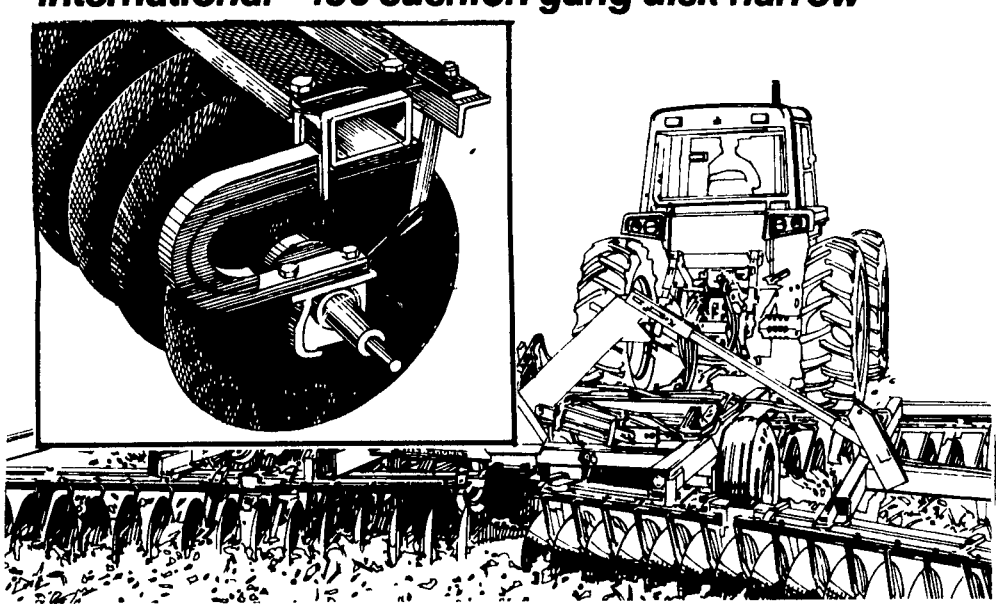
International® 496 cushion gang disk harrow



If you have rock and root infested fields, the International 496 Cushion Gang may be the only disk harrow that's tough enough for you. That's because it has exclusive C-shaped, double spring steel bearing standards that soak up shock loads and allow the gangs to flex over obstructions. Stop in. Get the facts on the 496. The harrow that's tougher than your toughest field.

- Folding wing sizes from 18'7" to 32'.
- Super-strong IH Earth Metal™ disk blades last up to 20% longer.
- Spring-cushioned. Self-leveling hitch.
- Synchronized master and slave cylinders provide level disking.

Huntingdon shows top Angus bull in Virginia

ST. JOSEPH – The State Fair of Virginia at Richmond served as host to the fourth site of the 1985 Roll of Victory (ROV) Angus Shows. A strong set of Angus breeding cattle, 104 total, were paraded around the show ring in front of judge Glen Klippenstein, Maysville, Missouri Again, Pine Drive Big Sky progeny captured three of the four grand champion titles.

In the competitive bull show, Klippenstein awarded the grand champion banner to Dutchman, an April 1983 son of Pine Drive Big Sky. First named the senior winner, he is owned by Huntingdon Farm, Alexandria, Pa., and Northcote Farm, Forest, Va.

A February 1983, Pine Drive Big Sky son captured reserve grand champion bull honors for his owners Oakland Farm, Olney, Maryland, and Ayrshire Farm, Upperville Virginia Shady Brook Big Drive 14R was earlier named the reserve senior champion

The grand and reserve grand champion females came from the junior division. Taking the purple rosette was junior champion, Anteitan Bright Star. She is owned by Dogwood Knoll Farm, Glen Allen, Virginia, and is a January 1984 daughter of Pine Drive Big Sky.

Premier Sahara 04711 awarded the reserve junior and reserve grand champion female ribbons for Springfield Angus Farm. Garner, North Carolina. She is a March 1984, Dr Spock daughter.

Pine Drive Big Sky progeny swept the get and junior get-of-sire classes. The champions were exhibited by Dogwood Knoll Farm and White Hall Farms Inc., North Garden, Virginia. White Hall Farms Inc. also showed the best six head, and was named the Premier Exhibitor

Biosecurity: a must for poultry farmers

By Dan H. Palmer
EXTENSION POULTRY SPECIALIST UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

NEWARK, Del. – Biosecurity is a commonly used term in the poultry industry. By definition, bio means life or living things, and security refers to freedom from danger. Keeping our poultry free from danger in all its many facets is a formidable task.

One of the greatest threats to biosecurity at the farm level is traffic. Carefully monitor all forms of traffic on your farm, including people as well as vehicles. No one except authorized grow-out company personnel should be allowed inside chicken houses.

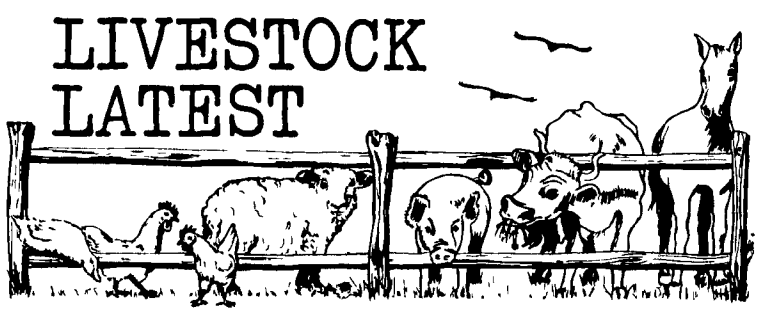
Growers themselves must take certain precautions. Trips off the farm to see neighbors, pick up supplies, or for almost any reason should be followed by sensible sanitary procedures upon returning home. A change of footwear and outer garments is appropriate.

Growers must be on guard concerning hired help. Many workers keep a small flock of chickens at home. These small flocks can serve as reservoirs of infection which could be tracked into commercial poultry houses. Insist that such employees use clean coveralls and footwear when working on your farm.

Truck traffic in and out of commercial poultry farms is a fact of life. But again, allow only authorized grow-out company vehicles on your farm. Report obvious biosecurity breakdowns–such as hatchery delivery personnel not wearing disinfected footwear while in chicken houses–to company managers. They need and appreciate this information.

Keep unauthorized delivery people from entering your poultry houses. Someone may need a signature or address confirmation and walk through the house looking for you. To halt this practice post signs and issue strong verbal reprimands to offenders. In time, people who make deliveries should come to understand proper procedures and act accordingly.

Many growers and others associated with the poultry industry enjoy waterfowl hunting. Delmarva is rich in opportunities to participate in this sport. Unfortunately, it poses some serious risks to commercial flocks since wild ducks and geese are known carriers of certain strains of avian influenza virus. Isolating domestic flocks from contact with wild waterfowl is important in protectingv them from this disease. Even soiled hunting clothes or boots and pond water frequented by wild waterfowl can transmit the infective virus. If you've been duck or goose hunting, take a shower and put on clean clothes before entering a chicken house.



Bloomsburg Fair Champs

Henry Zerby of Beavertown showed the champion market lamb. The 127-pound champ went to Sunset for $4 a pound.

Producing Dry Poultry Manure

I recently had the opportunity to participate in a study tour of poultry and dairy manure handling practices in California. The poultry ranches observed were in Riverside County. For a number of years Riverside County had the distinction of having the most layers of any county in the United States.

In addition to a large layer population, Riverside County also has a concentrated number of dairy cows and a rapidly growing human population. In this area of high land prices and a rapidly expanding human population, poultry and dairy farms that only a few years ago were isolated are now surrounded by dwellings.

The majority of these new neighbors have moved into the area to escape the smog and conditions in Los Angeles and are not overly sympathetic to agriculture, especially odors and flies. In order to continue in business these egg producers have been required to control flies and manure odors.

Fortunately these producers live in an area with a warm climate and little humidity of rainfall. The Riverside County egg producers have utilized two approaches to control flies and odor. One method is daily removal of poultry mnaure from the cage house combined with thin bed drying. Fresh manure removed from the cage house and spread over an area at a depth of 1 inch will dry to 10 to 15 percent moisture within 48 hours. After drying, the manure is piled and sold in truckload lots to vegetable or crop farmers.

The second method used to control flies and odors is the high rise house with curtain sidewalls. In these houses, the manure is allowed to air dry and cone under the cages. The dry manure is usually removed annually from these houses and used for fertilizer. Producers utilizing the high rise building are not permitted to completely remove all manure. They must leave a base of 10-12 inches of manure to maintain a residual population of parasitic insects that feed on fly larva.

Lancaster County has surpassed Riverside County as the number one table egg county in the United States. Lancaster County also has significant dairy, beef and swine numbers The agricultural community in Lancaster is experiencing urban encroachment and related odor and fly complaints. Thus agriculture in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania and Riverside County, California have some features in common Fortunately, urban encroachment in Lancaster County is much less severe but will become an increasing threat to current agricultural practices.

Poultry producers must continue their efforts to minimize fly and odor problems. One key to obtaining this objective, as demonstrated by the California producer, is to strive to reduce, and then maintain, the moisture content of poultry manure below 30 percent. This is a greater challenge for the table egg producer than for broiler or pullet producers. But, there are steps that the table egg producer, with a deep pit or high rise house, can practice.

Provide landscaping and drainage tiles to prevent groundwater from entering the manure storage area. The watering system must constantly be monitored and maintained to prevent drinking water from entering the pit. Salt level in the ration can influence manure moisture. Recent research results indicate that laying hens fed diets with low calcium levels produced droppings of a similar moisture content to birds fed recommended calcium levels, but the droppings from the birds receiving low calcium diets were of a much more liquid consistency. Thus, the droppings from the hens receiving the recommended calcium level maintained their shape and greater surface area, which should result in more efficient drying.

Remember, it is much easier to prevent excess water from entering the storage area than it is to remove the moisture once it mixes with the manure. Dry manure (less than 30 percent moisture) is the long-range key to odor and fly control on poultry farms.

Poultry conference set for Oct. 23, 24

HARRISBURG – Noted author and humorist, George Plimpton will be the featured speaker at the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation's Annual Conference scheduled for October 23 and 24 at the Holiday Inn, Grantville.

The slate of speakers also contains the names of several noted authorities on poultry and poultry related topics. On Wednesday, the 23rd, the list of speakers includes Dr. Richard E. Grubb, Pennsylvania s Acting Secretary of Agriculture; Dr. James Nix of the World

George Plimpton

Agriculture Outlook Board; Dr. Gene Swackhammer, president of the Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore; and Dr. Hugh Johnson of the American Farm Bureau Federation

The speakers for the three commodity breakers sessions on Thursday, the 24th, include Egg Conference–Dr. Robert Eckroade, University of Pennsylvania and Steve Granade, American Egg Board; Turkey Conference–Dr Robert C Baker, Cornell University and Dr. Calvert T. Larson, Virginia Tech University, and Broiler Conference–Dr Larry Vest, University of Georgia and Chuck Kucharik, vice president and general manager of the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative, Rockingham, Virginia.

For information on registration, call the Poultry Federation office at (717) 652-7530.

HARRISBURG – Potomac Horse Fever is a disease of horses which was first recognized in Montgomery County, Maryland in 1979.

It is now evident that the disease is widespread and has been confirmed in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, New Jersey, Illinois, New York, Wisconsin, Idaho, Minnesota and Kentucky as well as Pennsylvania and Maryland. A large amount of information has been learned about Potomac Horse Fever since its initial identification.

Dr. Palmer, assistant professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center, will discuss this information including the usual setting in which the disease occurs, factors associated with infection with the Potomac Fever agent, clinical signs resulting from infection, and information concerning the cause and transmission of the disease, as well as plans for future studies in the control and treatment of the disease.

The meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 10, 7:30 p.m. at the Lower Dauphin High School located in Hummelstown along Route 322. The meeting is open to the public and is sponsored by the Dauphin County Cooperative Extension Service and the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine.

Berks Lamb Champions

Champion market lamb at the Berks Co. 4-H Sheep and Lamb Club's roundup on Sept. 28, was exhibited by Kenianne Rarick of Fleetwood. (Pictured above with her father). Weavers Farm Market of Sinking Spring brought the show's top lamb for $5.10 a pound.

Reserve champion exhibitor Joyce Heffner sold her lamb to Lebanon Valley National Bank for $2.50 a pound. The sale's 48 head averaged $1.15 a pound.

Soybean growers told to apply herbicide now

INDIANAPOLIS, IN – No-till soybean growers can get a head start on next year and get better weed control by applying their herbicide after harvest this fall. According to Dr. Gordon Roskamp, Associate Professor at Western Illinois University, an application of Surflan herbicide this fall provides improved weed control, especially of annual grass like foxtails, crabgrass and fall panicum.

Dr. Roskamp has been developing early application techniques since 1979, applying a variety of herbicides in both fall and spring. He reports that to date, only Surflan is labeled for fall application, while Dual, Sencor and Surflan have early spring application labels for no-till soybeans.

Surflan also controls some broadleaf weeds, according to Dr. Roskamp. "This control is greater with application in fall than in spring," he reports, "especially of winter or early spring germinating broadleaf weeds."

The Surflan label now lists control of velvetleaf and common ragweed when applied in fall or early spring on medium and fine textured soils. This herbicide is sprayed directly over undisturbed stubble from the previous year's crop any time after October 15.

Even with fall application, Dr. Roskamp reports, "Length of control throughout the season is no problem with the Surflan fall application, especially when you consider the canopy effect of the beans." The canopy helps reduce weed competition by shading the weeds.

While his research has been primarily in 38-inch rows, Dr. Roskamp recommends planting no-till beans in narrow rows to take maximum advantage of the canopy effect. He also recommends avoiding poorly drained soils when applying Surflan early, since standing water provides one of the few conditions that can decompose the herbicide rapidly.

Dr. Roskamp believes the main advantage of early application of Surflan is grass control that is consistent, which is not available with conventional herbicide mixtures or burn-down treatments.

"Lasso and Dual require rainfall immediately after application for activation, or placement in the zone of foxtail germination," he says. "In the absence of rainfall, giant foxtail flourish."

He found Surflan in his search for a long residual, low water soluble herbicide for early application. "With these characteristics," he says, "the herbicide can move into the soil over a two- to six-month period of time and be in position to control foxtail."

Throughout the winter and early spring, Surflan can be applied any time (so long as the ground is not frozen or covered with snow), up to four weeks prior to planting. Rates are 1¼ to 1½ quarts of Surflan AS or 1⅔ to 2 pounds of Surflan 75W for medium or fine textured soils. Conventional rates of Surflan are used during the four-week period prior to planting and after planting.

Farm Toy Show planned

LANCASTER – The largest farm toy show in the East will be held at the Treadway Inn on Saturday, Oct. 26th.

Collectors and dealers from Canada to Florida and as far west as North Dakota are expected. Over 85 tables will be set-up, many with valuable collections of farm toys. Others will feature books on collecting, sample collector's magazines, as well as older and newer farm toys for sale or trade.

Displays of valuable collections of older farm toys will include John Deere, Oliver, Farmall and International, Ford, Allis-Chalmers, horse-drawn implements, and toy steam engines. A Collection of over 500 1/64th scale farm toys from western Pennsylvania plus the largest collection of New Holland toys from Paradise will be on display as well.

Specdial celeberities of the hobby will be present. Claire Scheibe from North Dakota publishes a monthly magazine which boosts over 8,000 subscribers and hosts the national show in Dyersville, IA., each November. Ray Crilley and Charles Burkholder, co-authors of two major books on the hobby will be present. Ray also publishes a monthly magazine. The show is hosted by Pennsylvania's Dave Nolt who writes articles for the monthly farm toy magazines and is president of the Back-East Farm Toy Collector's Club. Representatives from the Ertl company of Dyersville, Iowa (the world's largest farm toy manufacturer) will be on hand displaying their newest line of items.

Special educational seminars about the hobby will run concurrently with the show. Topics will include "Restoring old toys," "Insuring your collection", and "The future of collecting".

At 5 p.m. an auction of farm toys and related items wil begin. About 500 items are expected and bidding will exceed several hundred dollars on some items. Older and newer items of most brands will be sold.

Dealers see new Bobcat loaders

GRANTVILLE — Bobcat dealer sales personnel from all areas of the state converged on the Holiday Inn here recently for a sales and operator's school sponsored by The Melroe Company.

In addition to courses on salesmanship, customer service and financing, the salesmen obtained in-depth information about the equipment — and competing models.

The sessions also included several opportunities for the salesmen to operate the new machines, as well as chance to become familiar with attachments like the backhoe, 2500 breaker, earth auger, Melroe landscape rake, pallet forms and landscape buckets.

Dan Guyer of Burchfields, Inc., Martinsburg, was chosen the "smartest" student, Ted Coulter of Dunkle and Grieb, Centre Hall, was named the "best learner" and Larry Wert of Peterman Farm Equipment, Carlisle, was honored as the "top operator."

"Where" as important as 'what' in corn breeding

MOUNT JOY — In breeding new hybrids, the "where" is often as important as the "what," researchers from Funk Seeds International told a group of news media representatives during an open house last week at the company's new disease screening station here.

"By decentralizing our corn breeding operation, we can develop and evaluate hybrids that perform consistently well over a wide range of growing conditions," Dr. Gary Elder, research manager for Funk's Southern maturities, told the group.

That's why the firm has increased the number of its research stations from 10 to 16 in two years, he said.

The open house, held in cooperation with Funk's franchisee, Hoffman Seeds of Landisville, involved presentations by several company experts and tours of the research site, located on the Allen Esbenshade farm near Mount Joy.

Ken Rinkenberger, manager of marketing services for Funk Seeds, noted that the site was chosen because it presented the opportunity to screen Funk's products in "natural, harsh" conditions. The area, he noted, has growing conditions typical of the Northeast.

Dr. Loral Castor, Funk's Manager of Pathology Research, added that the company felt that, in addition to the psychological aspects of having a site in the East, it was important to have "more sites, and sites in more diverse areas" to better test their seeds.

An Eastern site, he added, might allow the firm to "predict the future" in the Midwest, since many trends in corn growing begin in the East. A prime example is minimum- and no-till farming, which is now only catching on in the Corn Belt.

Because gray leaf spot and other corn diseases are unique to the East, he added, "We cannot develop and test a variety in the Midwest and sell it in the East without exposing it to these diseases."

Research scientist scientist Steve Gartner noted that the Mount Joy site would not be used to initiate corn breeding products, but would be used to evaluate varieties developed at other research stations.

The screening at the site, he noted, will expose new Funk's products to Eastern environment, evaluating the response and the resistance shown to the various disease and pest problems in the area.

Despite all the preparations and advanced analysis, adds Dr. Charles Brim, Funk's vice president of research, it still takes a long time to develop a new hybrid.

"We're trying to anticipate the needs 10 to 14 years in advance," Dr. Brim said. "That's why we say there's a lot of art in plant breeding."

Institute publishes manual on portable auger safety

CHICAGO — Tips for the safe operation of portable augers are outlined in a new Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute safety manual. The manual is available now from the publisher.

The 24-page booklet lists procedures for safe machine inspection, transport, placement, operation, shutdown and cleanup for owners and operators of portable augers.

The manual, selling for 75 cents per copy, is designed for use with portable augers in general. Thus, the Portable Auger Safety Manual is suitable for old and new models alike—regardless of make or model. However, it is not a substitute for the auger manufacturer's operators' manual.

The FIEI Portable Auger Safety Manual was developed from the combined experience of several manufacturers, specifically those represented in the FIEI Grain Equipment Manufacturers Council. Information in the manual is intended to augment specific safety information and instructions individual manufacturers and agricultural safety leaders publish.

The convenient size makes the safety manual easy to use on the farm. In addition, it can be a fine aid to the safety information and educational activities of vocational agricultural schools, farm youth organizations, farm organizations, agricultural extension services and insurance companies.

Chicago-based FIEI, founded in 1893, is the major trade association for manufacturers of farm, light industrial and construction equipment.

Case International 1896 & 2096 Tractors

The high-torque diesel engines in 1896 and 2096 tractors are the result of the latest diesel and turbocharging technology, plus computer-assisted design and manufacturing techniques. They're engines that combine outstanding lugging ability with exceptional fuel efficiency, reliability and smooth operation.

Optional Mechanical Front Drive (MFD) puts the power to more efficient use, especially in soft, spongy fields and slippery feedlots. With more traction and more pulling power at your command, you'll get more output from your implements, accomplish more work every hour, every day and squeeze more work out of each gallon of fuel.

All this plus advanced instrumentation that helps you work more efficiently and the extra comfort and convenience that only a Silent Guardian cab can provide.

New Mirafount waterer

Miraco manufacturer of the Mirafount energy-free waterers designed to water cattle, horses, and sows, has developed two new styles of waterers which are now available. The new waterers are energy-free and utilize ball closures. The sealed tank illiminates algae and keeps water cool and clean in the summer months and ice-free in the winter months without costly electrical and gas hook-ups. The tank is formed of "Rockite" material which will never rust, rot, or corrode, then injected with urethane foam insulation which holds the water near ground temperature year around.

'More milk from grass'

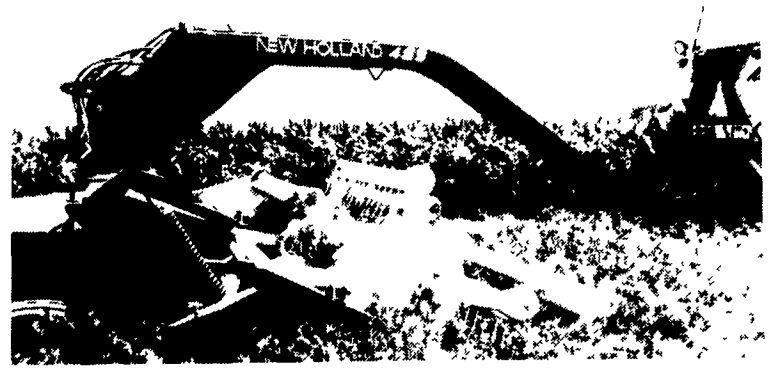
NEW HOLLAND – It's net profit not net price that counts in the dairy business. That's the reason top producers are switching to more good quality forage and less dairy concentrate.

It's happening around the world where ever milk is in surplus, says Joe Weicksel of Sperry New Holland. He points out British farmers, like Canadian dairymen, are on a production quota system. Producing more milk than the quota doesn't do much for your bank balance. So, UK dairymen are making more milk from grass, silage and hay and feeding less grain.

According to reports from the British Milk Marketing Board, milk production in the UK has declined to about 1½% below the quota assigned by the European Economic Community and is about the same or less than 1984. The surprise is that profits went up as dairymen reduced the amount of concentrate. Some herds are reported to have increased their margins by $300 a cow.

The British farmers shouldn't be surprised says Weicksel, who is product manager for hay tools at Sperry New Holland. The most efficient Yank and Canadian dairymen have known about the cash benefits of good hay and haylage all along. They get top level production without purchasing very much grain or supplement.

When you check, says Weicksel, you find that most 20,000 pound and over heds are being fed a combination of high-moisture ground ear corn and alfalfa haylage if they're in the East or Midwest. In California, where it's easier to make top quality hay because of low rainfall, dairyment tend to prefer baled hay to silage or haylage. But it's the crop that counts, not the form in which it's stored and fed. If you save the leaves and avoid weather loss both hay and haylage support good production. Combined with high-moisture ground ear corn, it's tough to match for production per-cow and per C.W.T. cost of production.



Announcing two new additions to the Deutz-Allis line.

We're widening our line with two new additions. The 51 pto hp 6250 and 57 pto hp 6260 are powered by 3-cylinder direct air-cooled diesel engines. These skillfully engineered power plants have a world wide reputation for fuel economy and efficiency, low maintenance, and dependable long-life performance.

Choose from two-wheel drive or traction-grabbing all-wheel drive for added efficiency. A 12-speed transmission is standard with 8 forward speeds and 4 reverse. Plus high-performance hydraulics, 3-point hitch and 540-rpm pto. A front hitch and pto are also available for greater efficiency and versatility with front mounted implements.

Kubota unveils new products for dealers

NEW ORLEANS – Nearly 1,000 dealers converged on New Orleans to celebrate Kubota Tractor Corp.'s second national dealer meeting. The two-day meeting provided dealers with an opportunity to see additions to the Kubota line – ranging in horsepower from 16 to 76 PTO – and to meet with top executives from Kubota's national headquarters in Compton, Calif. and corporate dignitaries, including their president, Mr. S. Mino, from the Japanese parent company, Kubota Ltd.

As the dealers exchanged successful sales techniques with each other to strengthen sales growth in 1986, they also joined in Kubota's celebration of the company's 25-year anniversary of tractor manufacturing. The silver anniversary year provides additional excitement for the dealers, as they collectively helped Kubota sell one million tractors in a quarter of a century.

In the Mardi Gras city, dealers and their wives inspected the newly-unveiled G6200HST; B9200 and B9200HST; and a new set of tractors in the M-Series agricultural line.

M-Series Additions

Kubota introduced five new M-Series tractors, each being available in utility and low-profile models. All of the new M-Series agricultural tractors were designed with direct-injection engines to assure easy start-up, while also providing stingy fuel consumption.

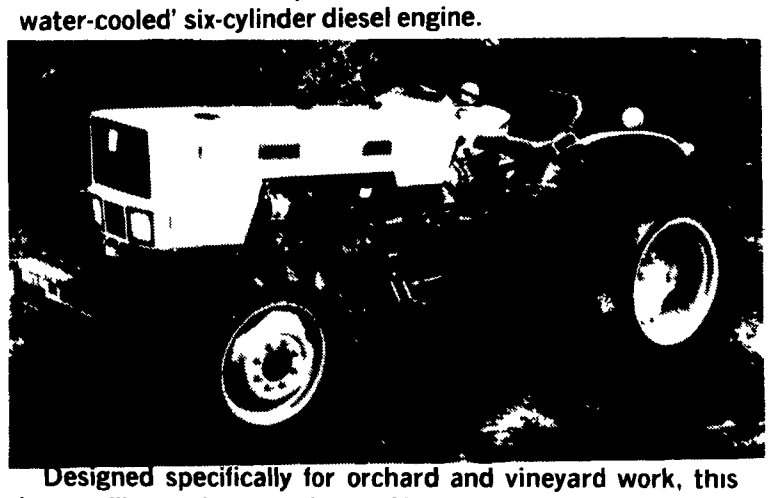
All of the models are available in two-wheel or four-wheel drive models, and are equipped with front differential lock, with a new automatic system. While the 43 PTO horsepower M4030 comes with eight forward and two reverse speeds, the M5030, M6030, M7030 and M8030 come with 16 forward and four reverse speeds standard, with the option of eight forward and two reverse.

The M5030 checks in with 49 PTO horsepower; the M6030, 57 PTO horsepower; the M7030, 68 PTO horsepower; and the M8030, 76 PTO horsepower, according to the manufacturer. These utility tractors have been designed with operator comfort and ease of operation in mind. The uncluttered work area, hydrostatic power steering, easy checker display system and a key for ignition and shut-down all contribute to allowing the operator to concentrate on farming chores without having to be constantly

(Turn to Page D11)

Also available in two- and four-wheel drive, the Kubota M4030DT provides 43 PTO horsepower and is powered by a water-cooled, six-cylinder diesel engine.

With 49 PTO horsepower the Kubota M5030DT has a water-cooled' six-cylinder diesel engine.



Designed specifically for orchard and vineyard work, this low-profile version of Kubota's M8030DT is available in two- and four-wheel drive.

The standard models are suitable for a wide range of farm chores, while the low-profile models will be especially useful in orchards. The M5030 and M6030 will also be available in a narrow model to fit vineyard needs. The new utility M's will be available early in 1986.

The existing M-Series line is enhanced by the introduction of an improved integral cab offering standard features such as air conditioning, two doors, and excellent visibility. The cab is available on Kubota's M5950, M6950, M7950 and M8950.

Lawn and Garden Tractor

The 16-horsepower G6200HST will be Kubota's most powerful lawn and garden tractor. The new G-Series tractor has one-speed front PTO, with rear PTO optional. The diesel-powered, three-cylinder tractor is designed to accommodate a mid-mount mower, a front blade, a rotary tiller and a snow blower. Kubota plans to introduce the G6200HST early in 1986.

B9200

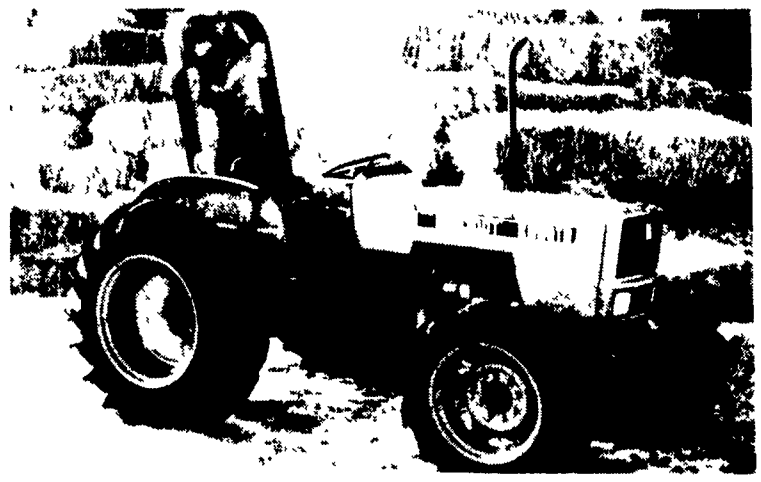
The latest addition to the B-Series line is the 16.0 PTO horsepower B9200 (with HST option, the B9200 provides 18.5 PTO horsepower). Built specifically for landscape contractors, estate caretakers, nursery operators, sundowners and farmers needing a small yet durable tractor, the B9200 utilizes a four-cylinder, water-cooled diesel engine. It comes equipped with nine forward and three reverse speeds. The B9200 is expected to hit the market in the spring of 1986.

Penn Jersey names shaw

Frank Possessky, president of Penn Jersey Products, Inc. of New Holland, Lancaster County, recently announced the appointment of Michael J. Shaw as controller.

Shaw, an Elverson area resident, is a graduate of Penn State University in business administration. He brings with him ten years of accounting experience, as well as a background in computer systems. His business skills will be put to use organizing the company's accounting department and generally overseeing all financial aspects of the company.

Penn Jersey is the area dealership for A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., Barrington, IL. The company's product line includes Harvestore System livestock feed storage and manure handling structures, automated feeding equipment, Lac-Tracker computer feeders and FarmMaster tumble mixers.



Powered by a reliable and fuel-efficient three-cylinder, water cooled engine, Kubota's M6030DT has 57 PTO horsepower.

Pull Through The Tough Spots With A Power Front Axle.

When wet spots or other tough areas slow you down, a quick shift into four wheel drive can make all the difference. And all it takes is a Power Front Axle option on your 2-70, 2-110, 2-135, 2-155 or 2-180 Field Boss® tractor.

4WD is not created equal. If you think all Power Front Axles are the same, look again. Most tractors use the engine as part of the structural frame, Adding four wheel drive puts a lot of stress on the engine block. We think too much stress.

It's one reason why every Field Boss has a separate main frame casting. The engine is cradled inside it. Besides adding hundreds of pounds in working weight to the tractor, this separate main frame handles the extra stress of the four-wheel-drive.

See what over 21 years of success in four wheel drive tractors can mean. Drop into the dealership for a look at a Field Boss with Power Front Axle. Today.

Foam boxes cut breakage

PHILADELPHIA – Diamond J Packers, Inc., Sun City, Florida, a leading produce packer, reduced breakage rates of 50-60% on field tote boxes to less than 10% during the recent harvest season. Responsible for the dramatic savings in time and costs was a switch to boxes of lightweight foam molded from ARCEL™ polyethylene copolymer resin, a new material from ARCO Chemical Company, a divisionof Atlantic Richfield Company.

Diamond J was faced with a costly breakage problem and needed a material that ensured reusability of the tote boxes throughout the more than seven-month harvesting season. Speedling, Inc., Sun City, Florida, molders of the boxes, introduced the advantages of ARCEL resin and the company decided to field test the material.

The molded boxes proved to be lightweight yet tough enough to survive the rigors of constant transportation and rough handling both in the field and packing house. This toughness significantly reduced the chance of breakage during picking, transit, and packing.

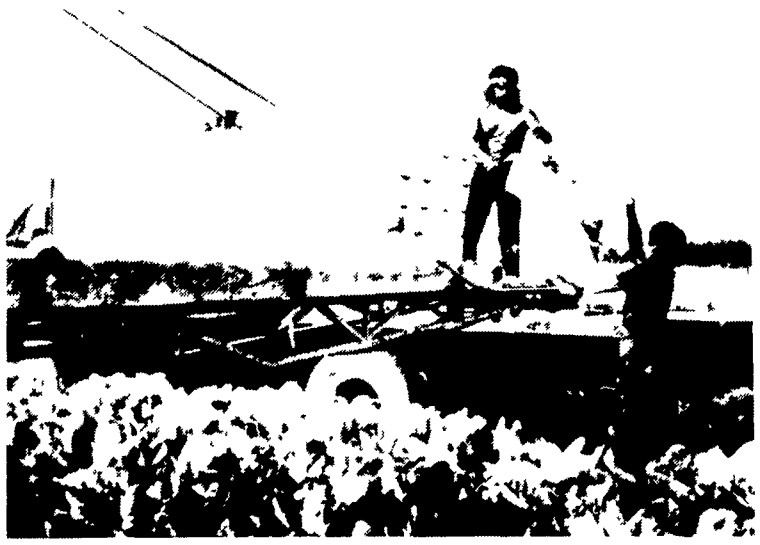
After one season of continual use, Diamond J projects the life of a molded ARCEL resin tote box will be 10 crops or five years compared to four crops or two years for the previously used material.

The boxes molded of ARCEL resin also demonstrated outstanding compressive strength and toughness required by the packer for transporting the produce. The loaded boxes, each weighing more than 20 pounds, are stacked four to seven high on flatbed trucks and transported distances of 1½ to 8 miles.

In fact, the strength and toughness of the tote boxes were put to the test one day when a box loaded with cauliflower fell from the truck and was run over by another truck. Slightly distorted, the box was straightened and promptly put back in service.

Diamond J is satisfied that the material meets their standards. "We are pleased with the performance of the new boxes this season," said Fred Jacobs, Vice President - Production. "They are very resilient, able to withstand the rough handling, and breakage is minimal."

Prior to the move to ARCEL resins, Diamond J used a more rigid material for its field tote boxes but experienced an intolerable 50-60% breakage rate over a two year period.



Use of field tote boxes molded of a new foam material significantly reduced the number of boxes lost due to breakage for a leading produce packer. The high degree of resiliency and toughness of the material, ARCEL™ polyethylene copolymer increased reusability of the boxes greatly despite continually rough handling in the field during transit, and in the packing house.

Darryl Briggs

Northeast DHI formed

ITHACA, NY – On October 1, Massachusetts DHI began receiving all its management and laboratory services from New York DHI. The states have signed a three-year contract for New York DHI to manage services to Massachusetts members. Connecticut began a similar contract in August, and New Hampshire and Maine will follow within six months.

These contracts are the first step toward a Northeast regional DHI cooperative, which would be headquartered at the present New York DHI Center in Ithaca, New York. Staff and services ofthe merging states would be consolidated.

One of the major advantages of the proposed merger is the ability to accomplish more together than could be accomplished as separate units, says New York DHI General Manager Nelvin Empet.

The larger size of the merged cooperative will allow it to better meet members' needs by providing timely, consistent services; staying competitive with new services and products; a faster turnaround, and a well-trained, professionally supported supervisor on every farm every month, Empet says.

Darryl Briggs is New York DHI's new region manager for Massachusetts. Briggs, born and raised on a New York dairy farm, has worked for New York DHI since 1978, first as a supervisor, and later as field services aide.

UEP plans Trade Show

BOSTON – Directors and members of Northeast United Egg Producers, at their Annual Meeting held here this week heard encouraging progress reports on their association's upcoming Trade Show.

Sales of exhibit space and hotel reservations both appear certain to go over the top in the few weeks remaining to show time--November 17th and 18th at Resorts International, Atlantic City, N.J.

In a statement to the group, retiring president, W. Robert Park of Valencia, stressed the fact that this Trade Show will set a working pattern for future years. He said, "Producers should match the enthusiasm shown by exhibitors by signing up for pre-registrations available thru Northeast and through the egg and poultry organizations of the region.

Gen. Mgr Christine Bushway reported that the organization has successfully maintained a solid financial footing in trying times.

In this connection the Board moved to adjust the organization's dues level downward. It had been moved up to $2.00 per thousand layers per month when producers in Pennsylvania were crippled with A-I and had to drop out of support. The new scale will be $1.50 per thousand per month for the period up to June 1, 1986. New members joining now will be accorded a dues rate of $1.00 per thousand. As of June 1, 1986 the dues rate will become a uniform $1.00 per thousand layers per month.

Much discussion at the session centered on the revised Marketing Order submitted in September to USDA.

Director Boyce Overstreet traced the mechanics through which the order must pass to become operational. He anticipates a period of some 200 days necessary before the proposal can complete a round of 6 regional hearing and go to the Secretary of Agriculture for approval.

It is anticipated that an effective program of information and promotion of the revised order could require a national fund raising target of $250,000 for the industry.

Strong concerns were indicated that there should be a full opportunity for expert sources in the Northeast to contribute knowledge in the final shaping of the fowl removal section of the order.

It was indicated that the entire proposal could be materially changed or modified as a result of input in the regional hearings.

Cathy McCharen, Director of U.E.P.'s Nutrition Center, held the close attention of the group wtih a detailed review of recent work done by her agency in countering the cholesterol issue. Her report of a newly available "quick test" method of determining blood cholesterol levels triggered much discussion.

Bob Richard, director of Egg Marketing at Northeast brought the meeting a summary of activities over the last 8 months indicating growing broad acceptance among producers of the sales and services of his department.

The Board indicated that moves will get under way at once to fill the vacant position of Director of Promotion at Northeast and that the post of Mid-Atlantic Manager will shortly revert to a full time status.

In elections at the session the following new directors were named: John Ricca, Billerica, Mass.; Paul Hess Jr., Elizabethtown; and Noah Gehman, East Petersburg.

Jerry Srednicki of Norwich, Conn., was named to serve the unexpired term of Mr. Robert DeCloux of Norwich, recently deceased. Mr. DeCloux was appropriately memorialized at the meeting.

New officers for Northeast for 1986 include Joseph Cohen, Monticello, N.Y., President, Boyce Overstreet, Lakewood, N.J. 1st V.P., Morris Cohen, Hollis Center, Maine, 2nd V.P., Richard Francis, Fitchburg, Mass., Treasurer, and Bruce Limpert, Hampstead, Md., Secretary.

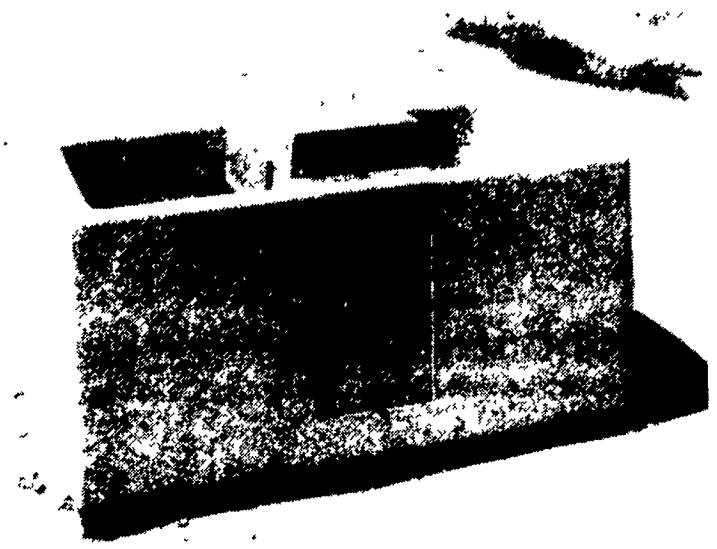
Agri-concrete adds waterer



AGRI-CONCRETE PRODUCTS introduces Superior Precast's E-250 concrete electric livestock waterer offers the E-250 features not available in most electric steel waterers, including durability, energy efficiency and safety. With a 60-gallon capacity, this unit is extremely efficient in its use of electricity. The valve cover and door are heavily insulated with the equivalent of two-inch of white styrofoam. We have never had a problem with stray voltage in any of our concrete electric waterers. The design is such that there is always a wall of concrete seperating the electrical components from the water. All unites are CSA certified and approved non-siphoning. The E-250 is one of two models of concrete electrically heated waterers. These units are available from Agri-Concrete Products, Rt. #2, Middleburg, Pennsylvania 17842.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Land: a dwindling resource

Although we Americans are the best-fed people in the world, there really isn't very much between us and starvation. Department of Agriculture figures show that each of us depends on the production of about five acres of farmland. From that we get almost all of our food and at least some of our clothing and building materials. Add to that the frightening fact that your five-acre farm averages less than a foot deep.

That means that thin little crust of topsoil must produce all of the food crops, feed crops, pastureland and farmstead space that's required for our sophisticated diets.

Of course, it hasn't always been that way. When the Pilgrims came there were millions of acres and only a handful of people. But the ratio has been declining steadily ever since. There was a time when American farmers would "wear out" a farm and just abandon it and move on. There was always plenty more free land farther west.

But those days are gone and those worn-out farms have been reclaimed and urban spawl has taken up where the migrating farmer left off. Starting in the east and spreading westward, it's claimed more and more farmland--meaning that the piece of land that you and I rely on for our groceries becomes smaller and smaller.

Department of Agriculture figures indicate that each of us relied on 10 acres of farmland 50 years ago and eight acres 30 years ago. Fifteen years ago we had the use of six and one-half acres, but the current estimate puts the figure at just under five acres per person.

Here's how that five-acre farm divides up. Grassland pasture accounts for 2.12 acres; crop pasture adds another .41 acres and woodland another .53 acres. All crops add up to 1.72 acres, and idle land, farmsteads and roads account for the rest.

Any forecaster worth his salt ought to be able to look ahead somewhere in the future and find the time when there'll be no land left for any of us. But until that day, the efficiency of modern agriculture allows us to be the best-fed nation in the world. Even though our farm is half the size it was 50 years ago, it produces a whole lot more. And that's not the whole story because about one acre out of every four of American cropland is producing for the export market. So your little farm is not only feeding you, but it's helping feed a foreigner.

If the thought of trying to feed yourself on five acres worries you, I can only say that your future rests in the hands of our efficient agricultural system. A combination of factors including owner incentive, agricultural research, profit motive, pride, and whatever else is at work keeping our food-producing system constantly running ahead of our need. And the experts say we haven't nearly reached our potential. New acres are being tilled each year despite the fact that this great nation has been farmed from coast to coast for many decades.

Dry-land acres are being turned into fertile gardens through the use of irrigation and commercial fertilizers, and the end is nowhere in sight. New technology, new varieties, new systems allow us to create the equivalent of many new farms every year. Even though urban sprawl and other nonfarm uses continue to eat up valuable farmland, producers are staying ahead with double-cropping, even triple-cropping, doubled and quadrupled yields through fertilization, irrigation and pest control, and with whole new farms from land clearing and drainage.

It's true we're living off of five acres apiece but it's the most productive five acres in the world and it's getting better. Two challenges lie ahead, it seems to me. One is to continue to make that little farm highly efficient and highly productive and the other is to keep that thin layer of topsoil from washing or blowing away.

Evaluate crops at harvest

DEKALB, IL. — Proper evaluation of crop performance becomes more crucial each year as profit margins narrow. Farmers need to be more concerned with differences in hybrids and varieties as well as crop response to cutbacks in fertilizer, herbicides, tillage and irrigation or other changes in normal farming practices. Ron Christensen, Regional Agronomist for DEKALB-PFIZER GENETICS says even though fall and harvest time can be busy, this is the only time such evaluation can occur.

"First, determine which characteristics need evaluation," he advises. "Items should include the most important factors to your operation. Write them down. After studying the list, pick out the characteristics which can be evaluated before harvest."

These preharvest items might include ear droppage or pod shattering, final population, lodging, ear or plant height. Measurements to be made at harvest will generally include the weight and acreage harvested, moisture and test weight.

"Second, decide where the evaluations will be taken," says the agronomist. "Your evaluation will be more accurate if you take observations in several locations that are as agronomically uniform as possible. A good comparison can hardly be made if the date of planting, fertility, population, or weed and insect pressure are not similiar."

Variations in uncontrollable factors such as soil type and elevation can be minimized by making measurements at side-by-side locations Christensen adds. Comparisons of opposite sides of the field are seldom reliable unless of controlled or constant treatment is used as a check.

The next consideration is how to take the measurements. "There is no substitute for good equipment run with proper techniques," notes the DEKALB-PFIZER agronomist. "Merely glancing at the amount harvested in the combine tank can be very deceiving. Small changes in moisture or test weight can render these results useless."

Errors resulting from different methods of filling a test weight bucket or a moisture tester cell are minimized by doing each operation identically every time. The same person should take the measurements throughout the test advises Christensen.

Weight can be measured with permanent or portable scales, but care needs to be taken that the weight harvested is the only variable cautions the DEKALB-PFIZER agronomist. "For example, whether the driver stays on or off the vehicle becomes very significant with small truck loads. Also scales should be carefully set to zero before each weight is made. Moisture testers operate under a fairly wide range of conditions. However, knowing the limitations of the tester by consulting the owner's manual is essential."

The last consideration is overall information evaluation. "You can do that this winter if you have reliable harvest data," says Christensen. "If you are satisfied with the results, improvements can be confidently made in next year's management."

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Buyer's market for corn

The corn crop in Pennsylvania will be a big one just like it will be in the rest of the country. In many parts of the state, ear corn will be light because of less than full ears. With the vast amount of unused 1984 corn still on hand, it will be a buyers market this year for the first time in several years. Careful buying could be profitable for dairymen and livestock feeders. Strategic selling could cut a sellers losses.

As a Seller:

(1) Do not sell out of the field to a dealer if you can avoid it this year – there will be a local glut that will reduce prices well below the normal corn value as a commodity. Storage and careful selling after the peak of the glut has passed will probably pay for storage losses and drying costs.

(2) If you can make a reasonable deal with a user of high moisture corn sell it out of the field to that person. They are usually willing to pay a premium price because they have a storage and feeding system dependent on high moisture corn

(3) Figure your costs, then sell on a forward contract – a forward contract locks in a price without requiring any up front money. You may want to only sell part of the crop this way at the present time.

(4) Look into CCC loans, if you qualify, as a way to get some immediate cash flow with the aim of waiting for a better price later – the corn is tied up then, but you will be able to pay bills with relatively low interest money.

(5) If you do sell out of the field or any other way, make sure that both you and the buyer are using the same standards for grade and moisture. Also know the shrink, drying costs, and shelling costs before you sell it so you won't be so shocked when the check comes.

As a Buyer:

(1) Buy on moisture. There will be a great range in kernel moisture this year. Set a standard with the seller before making any deal – yes it does take more time to do this but the resulting price could be worth it to you.

(Example: Shell corn at 25% moisture will contain about 31.7 bushels of dry shell corn equivalents (15.5% moisture) per ton of wet corn. Shell corn at 30% moisture will contain about 29.6 bushels of dry shell corn equivalent per ton of bushel, the 25% moisture corn is worth $4.75 per ton more than the 30% corn in feed value alone.)

(2) If you buy to dry and store, look at potential forward contracts – they have advantages for the buyer as well as the seller. You can delay tying up necessary cash until you need the feed. Someone else will have to go thru the hassle of drying and storing it. You can take it at a time of the year when labor is more flexible.

(3) Buy as you need it – this also presents you with a number of possible advantages. You could buy less expensive substitutes such as oats or various by-products. Cash is not tied up. You eliminate handling labor as well as handling and storage losses.

(4) If you do buy out of the field, check quality and moisture regularly. Make sure there is a written contract that spells out standards for both with your seller. The contract should also spell out discounts for deviations from those standards.

A Fair Price

Every County Extension Office in Pennsylvania has the capability to help their local buyers and/or growers to arrive at a price range for either shell or ear corn of any moisture level from 15.5% to 35%. The county agent has a computer program for the Apple IIe and/or the MacIntosh computer in each local Extension Office that will calculate this price range. To use the program, all the information that is necessary is the price per bushel of dry shell (15.5%) corn; the shrink factor; drying cost if any; shelling cost if any; and a per acre yield.

DeRay wins DEKALB honor

DEKALB, IL - DeRay Corporation of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, was recently awarded first place in DEKALB Swine Breeders, Inc.,'s service program.

The farm, owned by Darrel Gibble and managed by Nelson Musser and Denny Lepley, achieved first place in DEKALB's nationwide service program for hog operations with 201 to 300 sows.

During the past year, the farm maintained a farrowing rate of 87.4 percent, farrowing 14 sows per week with a born alive average of 10.32.

DeRay began in 1980 with 60 sows, expanding to 300 in 1981 utilizing DEKALB's Specific Cross Program in the farrow-to-finish unit.

"It's teamwork that counts," said Gibble, who praised the management of Musser and Lepley. Musser, the manager, had limited exposure to a swine breeding operation before he began with DeRay Corporation. Through DEKALB's swine management program, he was able to gain the training needed. Lepley, the assistant manager, had attended Pennsylvania State University and is now doing graduate work in Animal Science.

One unique aspect of the management of the DeRay Corporation's hog farms is the feeding of potato chip crumbs. Hogs in the grower receive 300 pounds per ton of feed while those in the finisher get 400 pounds.

EDITOR'S NOTE — For those of you who read 'The Dairy Business' in last week's Lancaster Farming, you probably searched high and low for the graph that was referred to in the column.

Because we inadvertently left out the graph when we were laying out the page last week, we're rerunning the same column (including the graph, of course!) this week. We regret the error.

Tracking Trends In The Business

The trouble with being a farm management consultant is that the exposure is limited to certain kinds of farms and farmers. I often wish that I could have a more intimate look at the very best farms, the kind that are well managed and obviously making money, even in these times of financial stress.

I can only guess at some of what I would see, if allowed to look at the books of a good manager. But one thing would be obvious, there would be good record books, neatly kept and complete in every detail. Not the kind that are entered once every three or six months, when the bottom drawer, filled with bills, receipts, and sundry penciled notes, is emptied. I've even seen some desk drawers that are only emptied once a year, when the whole mess is dumped in the tax accountant's lap. I wonder how he ever sorts it out! And what good does the farmer get from his records?

If the reports published by some of the professional accounting services are indictive of how the better farmers are doing, we can make some valid comparisons that serve as a guide for others. I have analyzed some figures from one state-wide service that are eye-openers. Anyone who wants to compare their own figures with the top managers can do so.

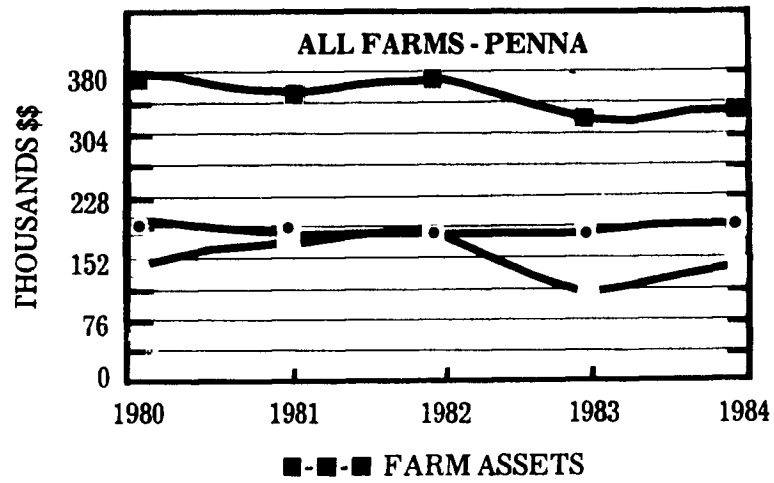
Using figures for the last five years, certain trends in farm assets, farm debt, and farm net worth can be charted. These three broad indicators can be compared to similar trends that are available to nearly everyone, if they are on a good accounting system or using their IRS 1040-F forms for five years.

As the graph shows, for the top 10 percent of farm managers, total farm asset value has declined slightly in the last five years. Farm debt has remained about steady, while net worth has decreased slightly. It indicates a trend that is no fault of the manager, but of the economy in general. The decline in asset value can be attributed to lower land value, and lower inventory values. These will usually follow the trends of inflation in the economy, so can rise as well as fall with the economy. A rise in debt load and decline of net-worth are more serious, however, and must be closely monitored.

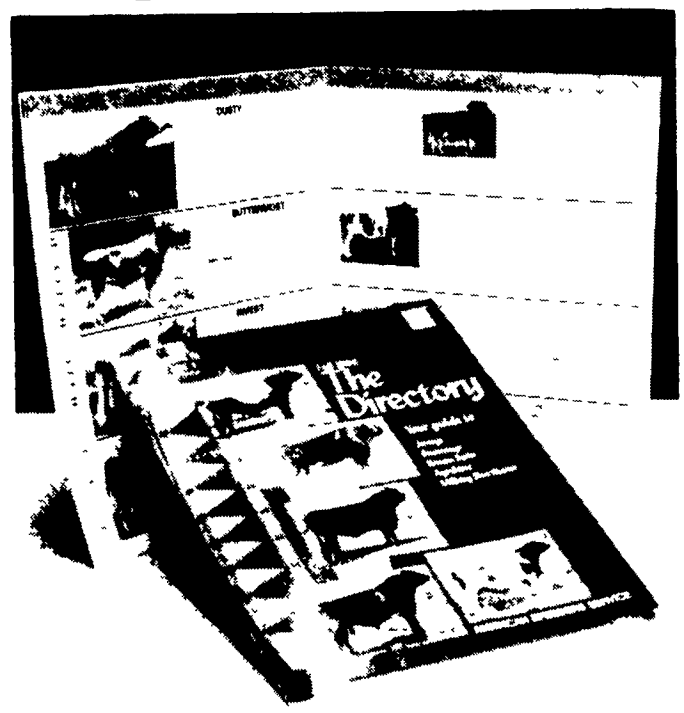
I shudder when the net worth of a farm business is plummeting to near or below zero. The only answer for these cases is to consider getting out of business before they face bankruptcy. It's never a clear-cut or pleasant decision, but it may be the most honest and practical one for some.

The alternatives for a farm business with a negative cash-flow (where the expenses are more than current income) are few. Cash flow must cover debt repayment as well as operating expenses and family living. Living expenses often are covered by depreciation of assets. The only hope of survival is to reduce debts by liquidating assets, or find some way to increase productivity of marketable produce.

Use the graph to compare your trends in these three areas over the past five years. The dips should be no steeper than the averages, or there may be trouble ahead.



ABS publishes 'Directory'



The Directory features ABS' top Jersey, Guernsey, Brown Swiss, Ayrshire and Milking Shorthorn sires. CHORE-TIME®

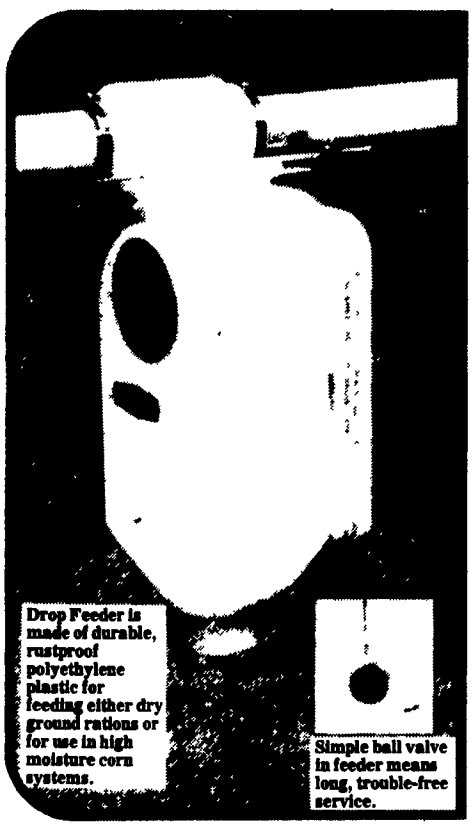
NEW CHORE-TIME COW FEEDING SYSTEM

Increase milk production while saving labor, feed



Drop Feeder is made of durable, rustproof polyethylene plastic for feeding either dry ground rations or for use in high moisture corn systems.

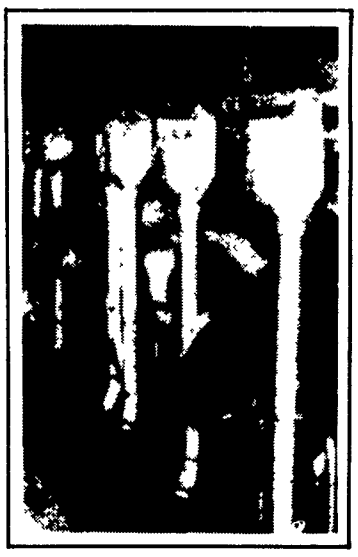
Put Chore-Time Cow Feeding System To Work Boosting Your Income

Feeding supplement by hand wastes money two ways:
(1.) Some cows get too much, others not enough – wasting feed and hurting production.
(2.) It's time and labor spent you'd be money ahead to put into management. Mechanize your feeding with an inexpensive, energy-efficient Chore-Time Cow Feeding System. Feed each cow the right amount, as many times a day (to boost production) as you want by automatic timeclock, or by pulling a lever.

Find out about the Chore-Time system – our 10-year warranty on auger – plus the line of feed bins that outshell all others in America because of their built-in quality and long life.



TWO TYPES OF FEED DELIVERY SYSTEMS (FLEX-AUGER or MULTIFLEX) AVAILABLE WITH THE NEW CHORE-TIME COW FEEDING SYSTEM

FLEX AUGER

Ideal For Straighter Runs, Larger Capacities

Highly energy-efficient, extremely long wearing and trouble-free — that's how FLEX-AUGER systems are known the world over.

For most livestock and poultry feeding installations, plus for moving high or low moisture grain FLEX-AUGER is the ideal choice.

MULTI FLEX

For Lots Of Turns, Sharper Corners, Greater Lengths

MULTIFLEX is a new innovation using the same high tensile strength steel auger as on our famous FLEX-AUGER. But, instead of rotating the auger, a MULTIFLEX system propels it within the tube. This sliding of the steel auger means there can be more corners and sharper corners in a system.

There's an added bonus in energy savings: while FLEX-AUGER beats the competition in energy-efficiency, our new MULTIFLEX saves even more energy.

Discuss your particular needs with us to make the best choice of systems for your kind of animals and building layout.

Baldwin improves filters

KEARNEY, NB – J.A. Baldwin Manufacturing Company is introducing a new pleat design to improve the performance of their heavy-duty air filter line.

Baldwin Microlite^{R} air filters made with the new PermaPleat^{TM} process, incorporate a series of precisely formed spacers along the length of each outside pleat. These spacers stabilize the pleats from top to bottom to prevent bunching and to equalize air intake over the entire filtering surface.

According to Baldwin, the PermaPleat design eliminates air flow restriction caused by bunching pleats, and increases the filter's overall dust holding capacity.

In all, there are more than 1,700 numbers in Baldwin's line of heavy-duty filters, including more than 340 heavy-duty air filters.

Licensing, innoculation important for hunting dogs

HARRISBURG – The kick-off of the 1985-86 hunting season in the Commonwealth signals increased activity by hunters and their dogs in the state's field and meadows. As part of of preparations for entering the field, hunters are urged to license their dogs, according to Donald Moul, director of the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement.

"Obtaining a license is the best possible way to protect the investment made in a fine hunting dog," said Moul. "If a licensed dog becomes lost, hunters have an inexpensive, reliable tool to help them recover the animal," he said, noting that the Department s Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement receives increased numbers of lost animal reports during hunting season. Under state law, all dogs six months or older must be licensed. Failure to comply could result in fines up to $300 plus costs

"Regular small game season begins November 2, with squirrel and grouse season beginning October 19. However, hunters, like other dog owners, are urged to register their dogs before January each year. Dog licenses go on sale December 1 every year. Many sportsmen mistakenly wait until the hunting season begins," he said.

Officials are also stressing the importance of having dogs innoculated against rabies because of the rising number of cases reported in the wild animal population.

License fees are $3 for spayed and neutered dogs and $5 for all other dogs. Senior citizens 65 and older pay only $1.75 for non-productive dogs and $2.75 for all other dogs, and must present proof of age when applying. Licenses may be purchased at the County Treasurer's Office or through an authorized agent. All dogs should be innoculated against rabies by a licensed veterinarian.

NOBODY HAS MORE HORSEPOWER UNDER FORTY.

Under forty horses, nobody sells more tractors than we do. One reason is simple. We give you more choices.

There are sixteen compact sizes, each a different model. One of them should fit you perfectly. And once you settle on the horsepower, there are still more choices.

Pick special options like 4-wheel drive, power steering or a hydraulic shuttle transmission. Or choose a Kubota-made implement, the best match for any of our Kubota tractors.

There are, however, a couple of decisions we've made for you.

For example, Kubota's own liquid-cooled diesel engine comes standard in every model. An advanced design, it's built for efficient operation. So a little horsepower works like more.

- Try Our New Concept In Penetration And Adhesion.
In 1985

To earn a dollar give a dollars worth of service and work Pay only $750 for the best kind of barn painting on an average barn if you pay more you paid too much

Being self employed enables me to take the time to properly apply my barn paint & sealer at prices below suggested retail cost Proper application requires adjusting the viscosity of the paint to attain the best penetration and adhesion — thereby assuring you an excellent paint job

I will share helpful guidelines on roof maintenance of steel roofs by brushing on at prime time
